With Your Congressman
DeWITT & HYDE

The hurricane menace continues to plague our communities. Swirling rain-laden winds have left their destructive imprint in the 6th Maryland District as well as in other parts of the country. Meteorologists tell me there may be a new hurricane pattern developing. A high pressure area off the Maine and Newfoundland coasts seems to be acting as a deflector, forcing the recent hurricanes into new paths.

Congress last session appropriated $500,000 for a beginning on a long-range study of hurricanes. The Weather Bureau is interested, first of all, in improving the methods of plotting the course of a hurricane and providing adequate warnings. But it also would like to know something of what causes the winds to take the direction they do. Weather Bureau officials feel that more accurate knowledge of wind movements may lead to information on how to cut the number of casualties and lower the nation's $100,000,000 annual property damage bill.

Statistics come to life when one drives through an area such as our Congressional District, especially those dealing with activity in the home building field. Everywhere one sees the results of the urge to own a home. But satisfying the housing needs of not only a rapidly growing population but also of those who just want a better place in which to live creates many problems. Some of them must be high school pupils from Jennings road to Northern High school. (This change will be made only if number of high school pupils justifies it.)

Ira Yast's bus will make only one trip from Casselman community via Pleasant Valley to Bittering, transferring high school pupils to Jonas Beachy's bus at the church on top of Negro mountain.

Changes in Paul Callers' route for Corunna children are to be worked out and announced next week. Mr. Hawkins said.

Blueprint For Freedom

The Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, which was proposed by the President and established by the Congress, recently made its report. In 311 authoritative pages, it discusses the problems involved in maintaining our governmental system, and points to strengths, weaknesses and needs.

The general conclusions this important and long-needed study makes are expressed in these words, "We should seek to divide our civic responsibilities so that we: Leave to private initiative all the functions that citizens can perform privately; use the level of government closest to the community for all public functions it can handle; utilize cooperative intergovernmental arrangements where appropriate to attain economical performance and popular approval; reserve national action for residual participation where state and local governments are not fully adequate, and for the continuing responsibilities that only the National Government can undertake."

This amounts to saying that no government should do what private enterprise and private citizens can do; that state and local problems should be met at the state and local level, and that the federal government should act only when it is clear that no other agency can perform some required function. That is more than a blueprint for good government. It is a blueprint for maintaining and strengthening every one of our freedoms. President Eisenhower follows this blueprint.

When we realize what this blueprint means, we can realize how silly and asinine are the utterances of former President Truman who has embarked on what he terms a "give-en-hell" campaign to return the Democratic party to power in the national government. The more Truman talks, the better will be the chances of President Eisenhower receiving a larger majority than he received in 1952. The blueprint for freedom is plain and it is tied in closely with the present administration. We look for no change in the coming election.

4-H Boys Leave For State Fair

Several Boys Will Participate In State Contests This Week

Several Four-H club boys of the county will leave today to participate in the Maryland State Fair at Timonium.

The Bitterling 4-H club is arranging a booth on maple sugar production in Garrett county which will remain on exhibit until September 9. Ray Beitzel, Joe Buckel and Ralph Buckel, Jr., have made a model sugar grove and camp for display, which took second prize at the Cumberland Fair last week. There will be two 4-H demonstration teams, according to James McKenney, assistant county agent. Rodney McKenney and Gary Prantz of the Asher Glade club will demonstrate the building of a farm fence. U. Friend and Junior Fike of the Asher Glade club, will give a demonstration on the sharpening of farm tools.

Forrest Jacobs, Keith Jacobs and Donald Folk, of Grantsville, and John Beachy, of North Glade, will be the senior dairy judging team participating at the fair, while George Bishoff, of the Mellery club, will be the county's representative in the tractor drivers' contest.

Junior live stock judging team will include Donald Stanton, of Grantsville, and John Wildesen, Oak Grove.

Accompanying the group to the State Fair will be William Stanton, assistant leader of the Grantsville 4-H club, and Mr. McHenry. The group will return to the county on Sunday, participating in the various events on Friday and Saturday.

Army Engineers To View Potomac

During the week of September 12 a detachment of U.S. Army engineers will make a preliminary survey of the Upper Potomac River valley for the purpose of determining the possibility of a flood control program.

The scheduled review recalls that four or five years ago, at the request of Sen. J. Glenn Beall, at that time congressional representative, a similar survey was made at Kitzmiller, Westport, McCoole and Lake.

Since then the Soil Conservation commission has instituted a survey in the Georges Creek region, designed to stop erosion and too rapid run-off of small streams and surface water.

It was felt this renewed interest on the part of the Army Engineers may be another step toward eventual relief of many small communities plagued by floods and high water for several decades.

Preaching Mission Planned at Aurora

A preaching mission will be conducted at St. Paul's Church, Aurora, from September 5 to 9, it was announced by Rev. George C. Weirick, pastor.

Rev. W. P. Cline, D. D., of Clarksburg, W. Va., will be the evangelist at the mission. Services will start each evening at 8 p. m., EST.

Dr. Cline has spoken and preached in a number of churches of the area. Twice in recent years he preached the sermon for the graduating class of Aurora High school. He is a former chaplain of the West Virginia state organization of Veterans of Foreign Wars and served as army chaplain during World War II with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

In addition to the sermons by Dr. Cline there will be special music each evening, with the Junior choir singing Monday and Thursday, the senior choir on Tuesday and Friday evenings. On Wednesday evening the junior and senior choirs of the Lutheran church in Davis will each have a special anthem.

Masons, of Westport, the Cumberland Consistory, All Ghaz Shrine, Cumberland, Victory Post No. 155, American Legion, of Westport, and the Upper Potomac Rod and Gun club of Westport.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Roberta Rawlings Tienhelt, and a brother, Warren Tienhelt, McMullen highway. Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from Mt. Calvary Lutheran church, Westport, by Rev. Robert E. Cassell, pastor, and Rev. Rex Coffman. Burial was in Philips cemetery in Westport.

The victory enabled the Country club to gain the title at the conclusion of the first year of play in the circuit.

Named Acting Postmaster

The appointment of Mrs. Mary Friend Himebaugh, of Sang Run, as acting postmaster of the Sang Run postoffice was announced this week by Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde, of this district.

Mrs. Himebaugh will succeed Mrs. May Browning, who had requested that her resignation be effective immediately to avoid jeopardizing the service and for health reasons.

There had been some discussion among postal officials concerning the discontinuance of the postoffice at Sang Run, but a letter to Mr. Hyde from L. L. Penrod, district manager, under date of August 18, indicated that no action would be taken until Congressman Hyde had been given an opportunity to present his views on the question.

If decision is made to continue operation of the postoffice, steps are to be taken to fill the position on a permanent basis.

Weather Is Moderate

Weather during the past week was moderate with no extremes in either direction. The temperature dropped as low as 41 and went as high as 83 Tuesday night there was 31 of an inch of rainfall.

Business should remain good right through to the end of 1955, it was indicated by government officials.

State Makes Plans For Public Park

State officials visited Deep Creek Lake on Wednesday to make definite plans for the park Maryland hopes to open here next summer.

Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the Department of Forests and Parks, was accompanied on the trip by William R. Hall, superintendent of State parks.

The state has condemned 57 acres of waterfront property owned by Fletcher P. Smith, at the lake, and Kaylor's department has requested the Board of Public Works to approve its purchase for $72,850. That was the value placed on the property recently by a Garrett County jury which heard the condemnation case.

The area will be known as the Deep Creek State Park and Recreation Area.

Kaylor said preliminary plans should be drawn up within the next 30 days to provide for a two-year development program at the lake. The strip of land to be acquired for nearly one mile along the north, undeveloped side of the lake, is up to 800 feet deep at its widest point. Back of it lies the Thayer game refuge owned by the State Game and Inland Fish Commission.

Kaylor said an access road would be built into the area and tent sites and toilet and water facilities developed. It is also planned to build a parking area and picnic facilities. The State plans to operate a swimming beach and will grant a concession for boat rentals.

Kaylor said he and Mr. Hall had found some excellent sites for camping areas. One of the first things to be provided will be a combination building as a wash house and toilets. A self-service bathroom of perhaps 20 to 25 units, also is listed in the early planning, with a large area for the parking of automobiles.

A special area is to be provided for fishing.

Mr. Kaylor stressed the fact that it was not in the plan to erect any cabins, only camping facilities.

Kaylor said the State hopes eventually to accommodate several hundred campers a week. The department has $10,000 in funds from the 1954 legislature with which to develop the site.

All funds are to be spent for local labor and materials insofar as this is possible.

Voting Machine Demonstrated Here

The voting machine of the Automatic Voting Machine company of Jamestown, N. Y., was demonstrated in Oakland Monday morning before members of the Board of County Commissioners, Board of Supervisors of Elections and other interested persons Robert F. Horrocks, of Jamestown, was the demonstrator. The Shoup Voting machine was demonstrated about two weeks ago.

The Board of Supervisors is to meet on Saturday to determine how many machines will be needed for Garrett county and will then proceed to ask for bids, according to certain specifications. Use of the voting machines was made mandatory by an act of the legislature.

Mr. Horrocks stated that machines of his company were in use in Baltimore city and 10 of the counties. Eight of the counties use the Shoup machine.

New Gas Well Has 15-Million Output

One of the largest and most promising gas wells in the area was brought in last Thursday in the Accident field. It was reported by gas company officials.

The well "blew in" at a depth of 7,012 feet and was measured at about 15 million cubic feet per day.

The well is on the Barbara Miller property and drilling is being done by Eberly and Snee. The well has not as yet been connected with the regular gas main, it was stated.

Leaves Estate Valued at $40,000

A dispute has resulted in Washington over the estate of a woman who died in Garrett county, whose wealth, revealed at her death, amazed friends who say they paid some of her bills and even furnished some of her food.

The issue is a $40,000 savings account of the late Mrs. Laura B. James, who died August 13, 1954, in Friendsville. She was believed to be in her 70's when she died.

She had lived for years at 1121 Abbey Place, N. E., Washington. Relatives took her to Garrett county some seven or eight months before her death.

Her surprising will was admitted to probate in the Orphans' Court for Garrett county. Her cousin, Mrs. M. Myrtle Schlossnagel, Friendsville, was named as beneficiary and executrix.

A. J. McGurn, of Arlington, is opposing probate of the will in Maryland. In letters filed with the District Register of Wills, he charges that Mrs. James was still a District resident when she died.

McGurn, a private investigator, says he entered the case after trying unsuccessfully to get $3,000 from the estate for work he did for Mrs. James. He said she told him at the time she had no money to pay him.

The location of wills' file also notes that Mrs. Julia A. McKinley, 2126 Newton street, N. E., a friend of Mrs. James, took care of her at various times. Mrs. McKinley said she assumed Mrs. James had some money, since she was drawing pension checks after her retirement as a Veterans' Administration clerk. But she did not realize the size of her friend's assets, she said.

Mrs. McKinley said Mrs. James habitually complained about poverty. Mrs. McKinley said she purchased food for the woman and had paid for her care for three months in a nursing home.

Mrs. Schlossnagel's Washington attorney, Frank E. Scrivener, filed a motion to dismiss McGurn's motion. Scrivener said his motion was based on the explanation that McGurn has no right to challenge the Garrett county probating of the estate.

Mrs. James formerly was Laura B. Coddington, of Friendsville. Her next of kin are the issue of Calvin Coddington, a deceased brother, survived by eight children and the issue of four deceased children.

A caveat to the will of Mrs. James was filed November 22, 1954, by Elsie M. Artice, a daughter of Calvin Coddington. Stephen R. Pagenhardt represents the caveat.

Issues were sent to the Circuit Court for trial but the case has not been set for hearing as a settlement agreement is under consideration by the parties at interest.

The executrix, Mrs. Schlossnagel, is represented locally by Asa T. Matthews and Jones and Jones. Mrs. James made her home part time prior to her death with Mrs. Schlossnagel.

Saturday Declared A Legal Holiday

Saturday has been proclaimed a legal holiday by Governor McKeldin to give the state an extended week-end over Labor Day.

His proclamation noted that since Monday is a holiday, "it is considered unlikely that a large volume of business will be transacted on Saturday."

The County Commissioner's office, the Treasurer's office and the Orphans' Court offices will be closed on Saturday, in observance of the legal holiday. The office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court will be open for business as usual.

Lowest Level in Two Years for Benefits

New claims for unemployment benefits and the number of checks paid out dropped to the lowest levels in almost two years, the Maryland Department of Employment Security reported yesterday. The department issued $259,224 worth of checks last week to 10,828 eligibles.

Both figures were the lowest since the second week in November, 1953, which up to that point had been Maryland's best post-war employment year.

Oakland had 54 new claims and issued 77 checks.

Zero Hour For "Operation Rottenone" Set Next Week

A small army of scientists, officials and fishery workers are scheduled to invade Garrett county next Tuesday in preparation for the rotenone assault on Hoop Pole Cove, an arm of Deep Creek Lake.

Their enemy is the unsolved problem of why fishing in the Lake remains mediocre in spite of repeated stockings and modern regulations. Advance columns arrived last Monday and are busy establishing working sites, laying out zone boundaries and moving ammunition (rotenone) into position. G.I.I.Q. will be located in Paugh's field on the north side of the Cove. Head strategists, Harold J. Elser, Dept. of Research and Education, and Edwin M. Barry, Game and Inland Fish Commission, arrived Thursday to take charge of the deployment of troops and guns (spraying equipment). Zero hour is 6:00 a. m., September 7, when about a half-ton of derris-root powder will be sprayed on and pumped into Hoop Pole Cove in an attempt to kill all the fish in the 55-acre area. The scientists hope to be able to determine the answer to the problem by an intensive examination of the fish and their environment.

In addition to 18 scientists, about 20 Game and Inland Fish employees and a half-dozen game wardens, 30 or 40 local volunteers are asked to aid in the project. Their help is wanted for picking up fish and bringing them to the data-taking area. Volunteers, with boats and motors are especially welcome. It is planned that each volunteer will help for only one-half day, their shifts to be staggered. Everyone interested in joining the battle is asked to notify Helmut Heise at the Will-of-the-Wisp Motel and to report for briefing at Thayers Barn at 7:00 p. m. on September 6.

Because of the shortage of freshwater fishery biologists, scientists from other fields are helping with the observations. Most are specialists from the Chesapeake Bay country, their fields of interest varying (Continued On Page Six)

School Clean-up Program Completed

That the vast clean-up and repair program for school buildings nears completion and would be finished by the opening of school next Tuesday morning, September 6, was announced this week by Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools.

Painting and repair work were done to buildings at Finzel, Johnson, Yoder, Bittinger, North Glade, Swanton, Mt. Zion, Deer Park, Grellin, Loch Lynn and an additional room at the Annex.

The floors were placed in Crellin, Loch Lynn and Red House schools. Mr. Hawkins said some delay had been caused by slow delivery of floor tile for the Loch Lynn school and this job was not expected to be completed until the last minute.

Maintenance work other than the contract portion at the Accident school has been done entirely by county school custodians. In addition to painting inside and out most of the elementary school buildings, such repairs were made as removing and rebuilding window sash, repairing steps and doors, repainting plaster, providing extra shelving, scrubbing and waxing floors of two new high schools, repainting and refinishing old furniture, putting sound proof partitions in the band room at Southon, etc.

Hawkins said the school custodians and maintenance men, headed by Melvin Sisler and Bill Callis, were due their share of honors for the extent of the work accomplished during the summer. Other members of the summer crew included Roy Harman, Charles McHenry, Louis Harman, William Hanft, John Milaver, Orville Kitzmiller, Roy Shank, Irvin Liller, Arthur Butler and Frank Mulliken.

The construction job under way at Kitzmiller will be completed around February 1. Mr. Hawkins said there would be no cafeteria in the Kitzmiller school until the new kitchen was completed and the all-purpose room made available. School will be in progress with some inconveniences, but classes would be in regular session from the opening day, he stated. All 7th grade children in the Shalimar-Kitzmiller-Vindox areas are to enroll at the Kitzmiller school on September 6.

Plans are being drawn for a two-room addition at Red House which will be completed next summer. A complete renovation of the present buildings at Friendsville and at Grantsville, as well as two high school auditoriums are also on the program just as soon as such needed improvements can be financed, he also advised. Mr. Hawkins also pointed out that a new Oakland elementary school for upper grade children in the Oakland-Loch Lynn-Crellin area, and a new school to house children perhaps through the first eight grades in the Johnson-Avilton-Finzel area are urgently needed.

Ready For Open House

The Accident elementary school building is ready for its open house on Sunday afternoon, September 1, from 2 to 5 p. m.

The public will have an opportunity to see the improvements made during the summer months. Music will be furnished by the Northern High school band and refreshments will be served by members of the Accident P.T.A.

Bids will be received until 10 o'clock noon on Tuesday, September 13, at which time they will be publicly opened and read.

Is Your Name Grove or Groves?

Do you know that GROVE and GROVES have been used as surnames in England for many centuries. Of relatively simple derivation, they were bestowed in medieval times upon those whose homes were at or near a grove or clump of trees. This is in line with the practice, often followed when surnames first came into vogue, of naming individuals in accordance with their occupation, physical characteristics or place of residence. It is said also that GROVE in many instances is the Anglicized form of the popular German surname "Groff" which stems from the German "grat" meaning "cart or count."

MICHAEL GROVE 1750-1827 and ROBERT GROVES 1753-1831 served as privates respectively in the Pennsylvania and Delaware troops during the Revolutionary War.

The progenitor of a substantial segment of the present-day members of the GROVE and GROVES families in Maryland was Hans Groff who was born in Switzerland in 1661 and died in Annapolis, Germany, during the persecution of the Mennonites in his homeland. He emigrated to America in 1685, settling in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. He was the father of nine children. His grandson, Jacob Groff, moved to Sharpsburg, Maryland, in 1765 and was also the father of nine children; and his tombstone bears the name GROVE which was thereafter the name of his descendants.

J. S. GROVE was admitted to the practice of law before the Garrett County Bar in 1875.

CHARLES STUART GROVES (1867-1918) was a distinguished newspaperman and Washington correspondent of the Boston Globe for thirty-four years.

ROBERT ECKLES GROVE is executive vice-president of the nationally known advertising firm of Ketchum, McLeod and GROVE.

Joan Virginia Ramsey Is Wed To Joseph Ross Patterson Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Alden Ramsey, of Dunbar, W. Va., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Joan Virginia, to Mr. Joseph Ross Patterson, which took place Sunday, August 28, at 2:30 p. m., at Calvary Methodist church in Dunbar.

The bridegroom is the son of Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Patterson, of Oakland.

Palms, an archway, candelabra and baskets of summer flowers decorated the chancel for the service, read by the bridegroom's father. Assisting was Rev. John Geary.

Miss Jane Fletcher sang nuptial selections and was accompanied by Miss Marian Moore, pianist.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a ballerina-length gown of white tulle with lace and nylon tulle. Her fingertip veil was held by a tiara of lace and pearls, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white chrysanthemums, centered with a white orchid.

Miss Janet Ramsey, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a frock of gold crystalite and matching headband. The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Joan Patterson, sister of the bridegroom, wore a similar gown of emerald green.

Miss Ramsey carried royal purple asters and Miss Patterson's flowers were yellow asters. Lloyd Planagan, Parkersburg, W. Va., was best man. Ushers were Messrs. William Schenck, Dintelon, N. J., and John Sullivan, of Akron, O.

The Dunbar Women's club was the scene of the reception which followed the ceremony.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Western New York, after which they will reside in Oakland.

The bride is a graduate of Dunbar High school and received a B. S. degree from West Virginia Wesleyan college where she was a member of the A.A.U.W., Alpha Gamma Delta social sorority, Beta Beta Beta honorary biological fraternity, and Haught Literary society. She is also affiliated with the Order of Rainbow for Girls. Mrs. Patterson will be an instructor in Southern High school this year. Her father is chief operator at Carbide and Carbon Chemical company.

A graduate of Buckhannon High school, Mr. Patterson received a B.S. degree from West Virginia Wesleyan college. He is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity, Benzene Ring chemistry fraternity and is employed by the Ray Tools garage in Oakland.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted by The Republican by permission.

The Democratic Split
With the adjournment of Congress the split in the Democratic party has become so apparent that hardly anyone not on a political pay roll or hoping to get out of the party to deny it. Evidence of this split has been apparent to close observers of the political scene for a long time. It has now become clear to practically everybody with any sort of political interest.

Ordinarily a split in the party in power is to be expected and is not taken too seriously. For one reason, it can be mended more easily, for another, unless too wide or too deep, the party in power can afford it. But the party out of power—can it afford a split? It is almost a basic essential that it be united. At the moment the split in the Democratic party quite obviously has widened and deepened while the rift in the Republican party has narrowed and lessened. On the surface, this, without the sustaining facts, would seem a one-sided, partisan statement.

But here are the sustaining facts. The simplest and most basic is that in 2½ years the Democrats have not been able to develop a single issue against the Eisenhower Administration. Their first hope, of course, was that the Administration would find itself struggling with a great economic depression, accompanied by widespread unemployment and distress. This was the cheerful prediction of the CIO and AFL labor bosses who had supported Mr. Stevenson in 1952 and failed to coerce General Eisenhower into denunciation of the Taft-Hartley Act as a "slave labor law." Democratic leaders, including Mr. Stevenson, eagerly played on that tune until it became clear that the country, under Eisenhower, was more prosperous than before and that employment was higher.

For a while, an effort was made to create an issue in the international field but the swift with which the President ended the Korean war and the concededly great success made at the Geneva Conference made this seem ridiculous. Now, there are few to contend that at home as abroad the President has not increased his prestige and popularity. This does not mean he has not made mistakes. It does not mean that he will not make many more.

What it does mean is that he has made none that amount to very much. What it does mean is that his record as a whole is highly commendable, pleasing to the public and that his opponents and critics today are largely confined to his opponents and critics of 1952. The most conspicuous of these are his rivals in that year, Mr. Stevenson, Governor Hartman of New York who while publicly for Mr. Stevenson, is privately for himself, Senator Kefauver, of Tennessee, who is almost an open candidate for the nomination, the labor bosses who really run the Democratic party, various Democratic senators of the left-wing element, such as Senator Wayne Morse, of Oregon, Senator Humphrey, of Minnesota, Senator Lehman, of New York, and the windy governor of Michigan, "Soapy" Williams, who with characteristic bad taste, recently tried to rule Mr. Eisenhower out as a candidate on the ground that he might die before his second term ended.

It will be noted that all of those mentioned above belong to the New Deal element of the party. They, along with the publicity agents of the Democratic National Committee, apparently believe that the only real hope of the Democrats in 1956 is to somehow break down and destroy Mr. Eisenhower personally. To this end they appear willing to go to any lengths to damage his reputation and diminish his popularity. Up to now they have had a singular lack of success. Neither the Dixon-Yates issue nor the unfortunate Harold Talbot affair have been effective instruments.

Except for an occasional ineffectual blow, Senator McCarthy has faded out of the picture. The never-ceasing columnar attempts to convince the public that Mr. Eisenhower and his Administration are owned and controlled by sinister elements of "Big Business" continue, but with no appreciable results. The plain truth is that no one believes that sort of thing about Eisenhower. It just does not make sense. It is also to be noted that the Democrats of the higher type, such as Senator George of Georgia, Senator Byrd, of Virginia, Senator Johnson, of Texas, and others, give no support to such charges—treat them with contempt. The truth seems to be that the Democrats are quite desperate in their efforts to smear. The most recent was a despicable attack upon ex-President Hoover and the report of the Hoover Commission. In a devastating reply, Mr. Hoover exposed the utter falsity of the Democratic committee's allegations, quoting Mr. James A. Farley and others in refutation and making monkeys out of the National Committee's official spokesmen.

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

CHANNEL CATFISH

(Ictalurus punctatus.)

RANGE: Introduced many decades ago in Maryland. Found principally in Potomac and Susquehanna Rivers, and tributaries. A native of the Mississippi Valley from Ontario to Gulf of Mexico.

DESCRIPTION: Usually gray, but in some waters light olive; forked tail, snouts; no scales, average size 20 inches; eight barbels or whiskers on upper and under sides of mouth are very long and sensitive; very small dorsal fin.

BREEDING: They spawn in spring at which time there is a definite upstream migration.

HABITS: Feed during day, but some feeding is done at night; strike hook much like the black bass.

MANAGEMENT: Omnivorous: eats worms, frogs, crayfish, insects—a scavenger eating dead fish, mammal and aquatic life. Slow moving, prefers clean, clear, swift water like the waters below Conowingo Dam on Susquehanna River. Much of their feeding is done at night when they leave deeper parts of lakes and streams and move into shallows and along shore lines.

VALUE: Important as food; flesh is white, flaky, of a delicate texture and fine flavor; preferred to trout by many persons.

THE AMERICAN WAY

OUR BEST DEFENSE

(By George Peck, Chairman of the Board of the National Labor-Management Foundation and Executive Editor of its official publication, PARTNERS.)

Certain facts about these United States of ours should be repeated over and over. Some of us still do not know them, others of us know them but have forgotten them, others of us know them but fail to appreciate their full significance, and finally there are the "punks" and the unmitigated social "intellectuals" who just simply ignore them.

So, not in any spirit of boasting or in an attitude of lordship over the less fortunate peoples of the world, but just by way of counting our blessings from time to time and being thankful for them, certain statistics should be constantly reiterated. As for instance:

We Americans have only 1 1/5th of the earth's population, yet we have:

Over 1/3 of the world's railroads.

Almost 1/2 of the world's autos.

Almost 3/4 of the world's automobiles.

1/2 of the world's telephones.

And we Americans use:

Over 1/5th of all the world's sugar.

Over 1/2 of all the world's silk.

1/2 of all the world's rubber.

Almost 3/5ths of all the world's petroleum.

And another "for instance":

The total buying power of the workers of the United States is greater than that of all the workers of Europe combined and much larger than that of more than one billion Asiatics.

These are but a few of the "for instances" that can be cited to illustrate just what a lucky nation America really is. Only one more before proceeding with this editorial: We Americans possess two-thirds of the banking facilities of the entire world—yes, unbelievable as it may seem, two-thirds.

Why do we enjoy these material things in such abundance, to such a greater degree?

The answer is that free men working and living under "The American Way"—or as some prefer to call it, "The American Capitalistic System of Free, Competitive Enterprise"—achieved these things for the United States of America.

No surrender of "The American

ONE WORD...

Can Change Your Life
By REV. ROBT. OLEWILER
Pastor, Grace Reformed Church
Washington, D. C.

Trust

You have some trying days ahead. Make no mistake about that. All kinds of things will be happening to you. Sickness may come into your home, or you may suffer some terrible disappointment. There may be death. There will be trouble of some sort for you. Life goes like that.

Whatever it is, you'll find it hard to take. But it won't be quite so hard if you remember to be more concerned about what's happening in you, than what's happening to you.

Jesus and his disciples once sailed across the Sea of Galilee. A flash storm rocked the boat. The disciples were worried as to what would happen to them. But Jesus was worried about what was happening in them. That's why he said: "Oh, ye of little faith." He felt that the hearts of his friends were not as full of trust as they could have been.

He would be concerned about the same thing with you in your trouble. Will you count on God's over-all purpose and plan for your life? Will you believe that all things, whatever they are, work together for good for you? Will your attitude toward adversity be a God-directed trust, the word that can change your life?

Our best defense whether the war be cold or hot, is to keep our ammunition dry by maintaining "The American Way." It has been "The bulwark in the post, it is our safeguard now and for the future."

West Virginia educators were worried about the alarming number of teachers leaving for states where salaries are better.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors for their kindness and helpfulness during the illness and following the death of our father, the late John R. Smith.

We also want to thank all who gave flowers and contributed the use of their automobiles for the funeral service.

The Port of Hamburg—A Challenge

At the close of the Atomic-for-Peace Conference in Geneva, I travelled to this great German Port of Hamburg. Here, as a member of the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee specializing in maritime matters, it was my official mission to obtain significant shipping and shipbuilding information. As a native Marylander I could hardly avoid a comparison between Hamburg's maritime facilities with those of Baltimore. After returning to Washington I intend to report to the proper authorities the advances being made at Hamburg, so that we might take appropriate steps to promote our competitive position.

An extensive tour of the Port of Hamburg revealed not only a beehive of shipping activity but, by present day American standards, a fantastic amount of ship construction and repair in magnificent yards. Say what you will, in shipbuilding and ship repair, the Germans of today has made greater strides in this field than any other European country.

The major Hamburg yard, Deutsche Werft Aktiengesellschaft, has an annual output capacity of about 65,000 gross registered tons and specializes in the construction of motor and turbine tanker vessels, motor cargo vessels and refrigerated ships. Howaldtswerke Aktiengesellschaft, Hamburg's second largest shipbuilding facility, has an annual output capacity of approximately 50,000 gross registered tons and constructs all types of vessels. The 47,000 deadweight ton tanker, BRN SAUD, was built here for the Greek shipping magnate, Aristotle Onassis.

In spite of the tremendous destruction suffered by this port during World War II, it appears to be rapidly becoming better and busier than ever before. Nowhere have I seen a greater number of dockside cargo cranes than here. The railroad track system has been extended on almost all piers to the waterside of the sheds which line the wharves.

As a result of coordinated port planning and technical imagination, Hamburg is becoming a model port. I am informed that the turn-around time of ships here is something many other ports could well copy.

An intensive competitive rivalry exists between the ports of Hamburg and Bremen. The Germans seemed to have learned, as we know so well, that nothing is better for the cause of progress than healthy, vigorous competition—competition with which we also must reckon in the race for a greater share of world transportation.

Cost of government has risen although defense outlays have dropped.

"Most anything worth doing, isn't easy. A man's job, for example, isn't easy. Often it's complicated and dangerous with problems aplenty."

It isn't easy, either, to be a homemaker. A dozen skills and more are needed, not to mention endless hours of monotonous tasks.

Yet, man or woman, usually you're urged on by a dogged determination to "do it—or else!"

But when it comes to living a life that's commendable and above reproach, does your determination still prod you on? Do you dare stand for right against all odds?

Then your place is in the Church, where others feel exactly as you do. Join them now in worship and work, and your determination will be strengthened, your faith renewed.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) Which needs his moral and intellectual support. Plan to go to Bible class.

A Nation's Worship

Lesson for September 4, 1955

IT WOULD be very nice to wake up some Sunday morning and find that everybody in America had decided to join our church. Suppose that up to now you had belonged to the First Universal Church of All Angels, and there was only one congregation of that denomination in your town, along with maybe six or eight other denominations. But suppose that on this Sunday morning as you walked to church you would find the Universal Church of All Angels sign on every church building you passed. Suppose you learned by the morning paper that this was because the President of the United States (himself a prominent member of your denomination) had issued a Directive ordering all churches to come over into this one—or be abolished entirely. Well, you would know that was a dream . . . because this is free America, and there is not and constitutionally can never be an official, government-supported, national, established religion.

The Nucleus
So when we talk of "a nation's worship" in America we can't mean what we would mean in a country where everybody is dragged into one single kind of church, a country where to be born into the nation is to be born into the church at the same time. Still, there is sense in talking about the nation at worship, for take us by and large, we do worship; the church is too prominent an object in every landscape to be overlooked. And even in free America where church and state are separate, we can learn something from the ancient Hebrews who combined church and state in one. The first thing we learn is not to be discouraged by the fact that many people don't go to church at all. The whole story of Ezra and Nehemiah, the prophets of Haggai and Zechariah, show us that there were great masses of indifferent people in Judea after the "Return" and the restoration of the worship at the high altar in Jerusalem. There were the same difficulties with a building program that we have; preaching fell on many a deaf ear, just like now. Worship is now, and has always been, carried on, in the true sense, not by the masses but by a nucleus of devoted men and women.

The Opposition
The Jews who returned to Palestine to get their religion organized and under way again, with public services and all, found out another thing which we Americans might as well learn—indeed, we have learned it. That is, not only is there indifference to religion, but it has many enemies. It is nothing but prettified nonsense to suppose that everybody in the world means well, that we all desire the welfare of society. It is contrary to the facts to believe that even those who do not worship with us and will not join us nevertheless wish us well. Don't deceive yourself. There are in America, as there are everywhere, people who are "plain mean."

There are businesses that injure people, businesses that contribute to crime, indeed some businesses that even a not-too-moral police force labels as crime. Those who live by the profits of these enterprises just hate the church; let's face it.

Can Government Help?
Now in ancient Palestine, say Zechariah's time, not to mention earlier times, church and state helped and supported each other. King and high priest might even be related. Especially after the Exile, church and state became practically one. In our free America—and we would not wish it un-free, for a moment—can the government do anything to help the church? Readers who belong to Sunday school classes can start a very interesting discussion by asking that question. How can Government help the church? Ought Government to try to help us? One way, surely, is by the State can aid the church, is by laws which will keep the Lord's Day free, so far as possible, from work-day necessities. Another way is by setting an example. When leaders in government set an example of sharing in the public and private worship of God, the nation is all the better for it.

Grantsville Team In Dramatic Finish

The Grantsville Sluggers staged a spectacular story-book finish, with a two-out, four-run rally in the last of the 12th inning to come from behind and nip Wellersburg 11-10 in the season's finale of the Pen-Mar Baseball League Sunday.

The win enabled the Sluggers to wind up the regular season flag over runner-up Zihlman by the margin of one game and to replace Barreille as pennant winner. Grantsville won 22 of 28 games while Zihlman was victorious in 21 out of the same number of contests.

At Grantsville Junior Perry and Niles Harper sent the fans home agape with their fancy stickwork. Both letted two-run homers in the last of the 12th inning to provide the margin of victory after Wellersburg had exploded for three runs in the top of the same inning to snap a 7-7 tie.

Here's how the hectic 12th inning went:

For Wellersburg: Pete Deremer led off with a two-base smash and scored on O'Backer's single following Johnny Horworth's fly out. Jim Morgan was safe on Woodson's error at first and Matthews singled to load the bases. Flynn hunted successfully on third strike and when the Grantsville infield erratically tossed the ball around two runs scored. Peterbink and Dawson fanned to end the top half of the inning.

Grantsville took its turn. Pinch-hitter Taylor and Mort quickly struck out to launch the last half. See provided life to a dismal Slugger outlook with a timely single. Perry then lashed his 360-foot drive over the right center field fence to pull the home forces within a run of tying the game. Woodson kept pressure on the assault class held a winner's roast at the Blaich home last Monday night.

Fire Extinguished

The explosion of an oil stove in the basement of Mrs. Agnes Breneman's home, near here last Monday afternoon, caused considerable excitement in the village, but fortunately Mrs. Breneman's brother and her son-in-law were near the house at the time and by prompt action and intelligent efforts the blaze was gotten under control before any great damage was done. It is reported that the electric wiring in the basement was burned and the lower just damaged by the fire and the interior of the house with a one-bagger and Harper ended it all with a shot over the same spot where Perry had connected.

Wellersburg held the lead throughout the contest until the ninth when the Sluggers pushed over a run to deadlock the count at 7-7.

Perry made a homer in the seventh when he singled sharply over shortstop and the ball got beyond the left-fielder for a three-base error. Baliker drove in the tying run in the ninth for Grantsville with a sacrifice fly to center field with Harper who had led off with a single, on third.

Mort's four hits, two doubles and two singles. See's four safeties, three singles and a two-bagger. Perry's and Harper's homer and single each. Keister's double and single, and Baliker's two-base hit spearheaded the Sluggers' 16-hit attack. The win was credited to lefty Don O'Haver.

Fish Suffocation Program All Set

Next Wednesday, September 7, the Maryland Game and Inland Fish commission and several other cooperating agencies will begin their investigative fishery examination of a fifty-acre arm of Deep Creek Lake known as Hoop Pole Cove.

Sigurd Brantingson, Jr., regional fish culturist for the commission, said the experiment would begin at 6:30 a. m., with the application of approximately 700 pounds of rotenone.

He explained that this chemical affects the gills of the fish and causes them to suffocate. The fish will be weighed and measured, scale samples taken and a study will be made of stomach contents.

The objectives of the project are to determine the pounds of fish per acre, species composition by number and by weight, growth rates, general health, important forage species, kinds of food eaten by each species, and the size composition of the total population.

He said that information obtained from this project would be used to chart the course of future fish management of Deep Creek Lake. A meeting of all workers and officials is to be held at Thayer's Barn on Deep Creek Lake, Tuesday, September 6, at 7 p. m. All volunteer workers were expected to attend.

Miss Biser Is Saturday Bride

St. Paul's Methodist church in Oakland was the setting Saturday evening, at six-thirty o'clock, for the marriage of Miss Mildred Vera Biser to Dr. William Lee Graham.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elza O. Biser, Mt. Lake Park. Dr. Graham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Graham, 185 Fourth street, Oakland. Seven branched candelabra provided the light for the double ring ceremony which was read by the Rev. Winfield S. Patterson, D.D., before an altar adorned with vases of white gladioli.

Preceding the ceremony, the organist, Mr. Julius Littman, played traditional wedding music. Mrs. Jay Bell, soloist, sang "O Perfect Love," Grieg's "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of chantilly lace over satin, made with a fitted bolero finished with a peter pan collar and a row of small covered buttons, long sleeves pointed at the wrist, a bouffant skirt with insertions of small ruffles of tulle at the side. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a tiara encrusted with seed pearls. A single strand of pearls, gift of the groom, was her only jewelry. She carried a cascade bouquet with an orchid center, white roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Howard Jones, matron of honor, wore a bouffant gown of mint green nylon chiffon, a floral headpiece, and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and white carnations.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Gene Schmidt, sister of the bride, and Miss Elaine Graham, sister of the groom. They were attired in bouffant gowns of iced pink nylon chiffon. They wore matching floral headpieces and carried cascade bouquets of pink roses and blue carnations.

Gayle Shaffer was the best man, and the ushers were Benjamin C. Smith and Dr. Harvey E. Dillinger, Jr.

Mrs. Biser, mother of the bride, wore an orchid nylon linen dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Graham wore a blue lace dress and blue accessories.

A reception was held in the church parlors, following the ceremony. Out of town guests at the wedding included Mrs. Grant Marks, Dayton, O.; W. S. Linn, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garber, Miss Janet Headley, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Epperly, Williamstown, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin C. Smith, Marietta, O.; Dr. and Mrs. Harvey E. Dillinger, Vienna, W. Kind Treatment Of Cows Good Policy For Dairy Farmers

A good policy for dairy farmers would be to declare every week a "Be Kind to Cows Week." They'll respond by making every week a "Give More Milk Week."

John P. Dietrich, University of Maryland Extension dairyman, says a study at the University of Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station is showing a lot about how treatment affects the let-down of milk.

"This research shows that improper milking or failure to provide the milking-time conditions that stimulate the cow to secrete enough let-down hormone—oxytocin—probably are bigger factors than inheritance in causing cows to dry up early," Dietrich says.

The Minnesota researchers have found that any excitement at milking time interferes with the secretion of oxytocin. Normally, oxytocin is secreted by a small gland near the cow's brain in response to a "milking stimulus"—that is, a milking machine or a human milker.

But excitement can block oxytocin secretion which is the response to the milking stimulus. For example, pricking cows, even gently, with needles completely blocks the response. Cows startled this way give only the milk already down in their teat cisterns—just a few squirts.

It was also found that milder excitement may partly block the secretion of oxytocin, and result in a cow giving far less milk than normally. Handling the cow roughly, rushing her, not feeding her at a certain time when she's been led to expect feed, moving into a new stall or new barn, or anything exciting and overstimulating—these are some of the things that can cause the cow to hold her milk back.

"A key to proper milking is the fact that the cow must be relaxed—and want to be milked—if you're going to get all the milk she's got in storage," Dietrich says. "That means kind and gentle treatment. Treat every cow like the lady she is."

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HAMPT

A Hole A Mile Deep

Today, a family well rooted in our community pushed the spade deep into the earth, loosened the hairy fibers which held it secure, packed their three children and belongings and moved to another community.

They had become as much a part of our community as the two oak trees have to our house. So when Jack and Jody Veadar announced that they were leaving, someone shot back, "Why you can't do that! You're rooted here!"

Everyone has had the highest praise of Jack and his teaching. College boys digging deeper into the field of math knew that they got a good foundation. Those of us who knew him well saw him as a fine person with youth and a co-operative family man.

But it's Jody I want to write about today. To the community she was as valuable as Jack was to the school. She was the first newcomer to Oakland that I ever knew who could walk down town within six weeks after arriving, yell across the street a merry "hello" to an aristocrat or common folk and have them both warm to her friendliness.

She has never recognized class in people. She just recognized the worth of them. That, tripled with talents galore, and energy to burn, made her a valuable person in our community.

In our church she promoted wonderful Christian attitudes. Her spirit of giving was so unselfish that it did more good than a sermon. For instance, when the ministers of our Synod held a meeting here and a great many rooms were required to house them Jody spontaneously and generously offered to keep two on cots on the sun porch.

And she would have, too, if most of us hadn't discovered, quick like, that we could offer the clergy beds instead of cots.

Jody has set the pace for many things. She demonstrated that a family with small children can get to Sunday School in spite of breast feedings and morning naps. She proved that while raising a family one can still be a person. Besides her church she led a scout troop, had time to be a neighbor, give pints of blood, and was active in A.A.U.W.

In fact when she felt she could no longer afford the membership dues in this organization one of the older members said "I think she is too valuable to allow dues to stand in the way."

Most of us took for granted that Jody didn't have much to go on. A family, hospital bills, house to equip on a salary of a high school teacher doesn't leave much for expression. The fact that she wore hand-me-downs and made-overs made no difference to us. We saw only spirit and personality.

But it made a difference to Jody—way down deep. We hadn't seen her as a member of a top sorority dating a college athlete. We hadn't seen her as a Mortar Board—meaning she was among the coveted few on her campus. We hadn't seen her as a member of a family who did things in the elegant manner.

Because she accepted her role as a struggling young homemaker, we somehow expected her to accept it forever. Sometimes we take too much for granted.

So the Veadars leave a community they love in order to better meet the needs of a growing family and we wish them well. As a county we too feel paternal and wish we could do more for our children.

Wherever Jody goes she will fit in, pick up and carry on. In time, perhaps this will be just another place where she has lived. But Oakland will never have another Jody Veadar.

Some Discovery

Uncle Thad Hinebaugh, 90, and almost blind, was asleep in his chair with a red scarf across his eyes.

Barbara Snyder, 5, whose apartment adorns, was playing near his room with Ernest Wolf. Ernest was overheard to say, "Barbie, come here and be real quiet. I think I have found Santa Claus."

A Problem About the Bees

The bees and the flowers have a different lesson this time—one in mathematics. It's about the bees in Mr. Custer's backhoe field.

A neighbor reports that there are 12 bees to every nine square feet in that field. The field is 250 feet by 500 feet.

How much honey will the bees get off that field?

He asked me! I only know that two and two make four. If any of you are smart enough to figure that one out send me the answer on a postcard and I'll inform the public.

Teachers Participate In Educational Meetings

Garrett county teachers participated in educational meetings in recent days.

A meeting was held Wednesday, August 17, in Baltimore, for all county council P.T.A. presidents and legislative chairmen and all county teacher association presidents and legislative chairmen.

Participating in this session were John Wolf, county council P.T.A. president; Ralph Beachley, legislative chairman for the Teachers' association; and Paul Muha, president of the Teachers' association; Mrs. Wolf also attended the meetings along with the county representatives.

The purpose was to plan a program involving the five-year plan. A second meeting was held a week later, on Wednesday, August 24, also in Baltimore, for all teacher association presidents and membership chairmen. Attending from this county were Russell Davis, membership chairman, and Paul Muha, teacher association president. The topics included the role of new presidents, plans for the coming year, membership information and unity in organizations.

Twenty-three years ago, Ford introduced the very first V-8 in the low-price field. Since then, Ford has built over 15,000,000 V-8's—more than all other makers combined.

This year, Ford brings you the smoothest, quietest, most powerful V-8 ever built for a Ford car. No other low-priced V-8 matches its Trigger-Torque "GO," deep-block design and savingful Automatic Power Pilot. No wonder Ford's V-8 continues to outsell all other V-8's. It's worth more! Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

The handful of godless men who control the destiny of the international Communist conspiracy are attempting to create the impression that their intentions toward the nations outside the Iron Curtain are genuinely friendly. On the basis of every official Communist tenet, and every official Communist act of the last 35 years, the mask of friendliness does not fit the faces of the Kremlin bosses.

And yet, a war-weary world, fearful of terrible new wars, struggles today to convince itself that wishful thinking is not wishful thinking at all, that Khrushchev, Molotov, Bulganin—masters of a Red slavery that has overrun nearly half the earth since 1917—have suddenly changed the whole character of Communism and its historic goal of world domination. This is wishful thinking of the most dangerous kind. The central purpose of Communism, as written into the basic textbooks by Marx, Lenin, Stalin and all the rest, is the creation of a new world order replacing capitalism. Over and over again Communism declares that it cannot exist in the same world with capitalism.

The oath to which every Communist in America pledges himself, with clenched fist upraised and a fire of dedication glowing in his eyes, is plainly printed in the Communist Party Manual on Organization—Page 105: It says: "I now take my place in the ranks of the Communist Party, the Party of the working class. I take this solemn oath to give the best that is in me to the service of my class. I pledge myself to spare no effort in uniting the workers in militant struggle. . . I pledge myself to remain at all times a vigilant and firm defender of the Leninist line of the Party, the only line that insures the triumph of Soviet power in the United States."

Neither Molotov, Bulganin or Khrushchev can tell the 25,000 hard-core Communists in America, and their 5,000,000 fellow conspirators in the 60 nations outside the Iron Curtain, that this central objective of Communism has now been abolished. It is the great goal that ties Communists together. Of course, no Communist leader, in the Kremlin or elsewhere, has any desire to abolish it. Their present pose of "live and let live" is a strategy forced upon the Moscow bosses by internal troubles within Russia.

Herbert Philbrick, who served for years as a secret FBI agent in the highest ranks of the Communist underground, and who maintains direct contact with the Red underground through secret sources, recently wrote in the New York Herald Tribune:

"At secret meetings last week, the Reds were being told: 'It is impossible for capitalism to compete with Communism.' Red instructors quoted the Cominform as declaring: 'The two world social systems—the world system of Communism and the world system of capitalism—are represented by two diametrically opposed courses of international policy—peace cannot be won without struggle.'"

The Personal Touch

There is nothing like the personal touch in bringing out good will. We have spoken of this before in regard to the International Youth Fellowship exchange students, and we repeat it again in regard to the Russian farm representatives.

Hundreds of stories are appearing in newspapers and magazines about these Russian farm people who made a trip to the United States this summer to visit our farms and to learn new ideas in agriculture. All the information available about these Russians tends to show their friendliness, warmth and cooperative spirit. They were cordial, witty, pleasant and also inquisitive, but not too much so. They were amazed at many things they saw and it was difficult for them to believe that there was no regimentation—no one to tell the farmers just what to do and just how to do it.

It would be difficult to believe, however, that they came here with sinister motives, and that there was anything but sincerity in their actions.

Americans were favorably impressed with these visitors from a nation whose top brass seem to be afraid to be friendly.

In a smaller way there were some American farmers who visited Russian farms and they no doubt created just as favorable an impression.

What would be wrong with many more similar tours? World peace might be just as simple as that. There is so much in the personal touch that creates understanding. If we have enough of these personal visits enough people in each nation would be convinced that war is one thing that is farther from their thoughts than almost anything one could mention.

Personally, we are sold on the idea. There is nothing more important than to get the idea across to other nations that we don't want war. We can emphasize that point the easiest, we believe, through these friendly exchanges of our high type citizens.

Proposed laws to regulate the leasing, drilling and production of natural gas in Garrett county will be discussed at a public meeting scheduled for next Tuesday, September 13, and Wednesday, September 14, it was announced by State Senator Clifford Friend.

The meeting will be in the form of a hearing at the Court House in Oakland before a subcommittee of the Legislative Council of the Maryland Legislature. The meeting will begin at 2 p. m. on Tuesday and will continue through the evening and into the next day, Senator Friend said.

All land owners and others interested are invited to attend. Mr. Friend endeavors to explain the present gas regulations in a letter to the editor in this week's issue.

Garrett County Jury Awards $1,860

A Garrett County Circuit Court jury last Thursday awarded Anna and Roy Uhlinger a $1,860 verdict for some 6,533 square feet of land along U.S. route 219 near Deep Creek Lake which the State Roads Commission sought by condemnation.

The SRC had offered the Uhlingers $600 for the land which is wanted in connection with improvements to route 219. A check for that amount was deposited with Richard L. Davis, clerk of the Circuit court.

Last Thursday morning the jury visited the site of the property located not far from the bridge across Deep Creek Lake, then returned to the court room in Oakland to hear evidence in the case. The deliberation took about two hours and 15 minutes.

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley presided at the trial. Attorneys for the commission were Frederick A. Puderbaugh, of Cumberland, and Benjamin Epstein, Grantsville. The Uhlingers were represented by Horace P. Whitworth, Jr.

Originally from Pittsburgh, the Uhlingers have lived near Deep Creek Lake since his retirement as an army officer.

Names Committee

The Governor's committee to employ the Physically Handicapped has been activated in this county, it was announced this week.

Those contacted who will serve on the committee for the year are Dr. Arthur L. Jones, county health officer, chairman; George Nethken, Kitzmiller; Edward P. Kahl, state roads engineer, Oakland; Rev. John J. Atwell, Oakland; C. O. Bender, Grantsville; Robert Stemple, director of the Garrett County Welfare board, Oakland; C. L. Briner, manager, Department of Employment Security, Oakland; M. W. Mann, department of Employment Security in charge of veterans' affairs, Oakland; R. E. Guard, Friendsville; Rev. Charles W. Carlson, Oakland.

Several of the members plan to attend a regional meeting in Hagerstown next Wednesday, September 14.

Civil Defense Plans All-Day Exercises

The Garrett County Civil Defense organization will hold a meeting at the Oakland Fire Hall on Tuesday, September 13, at which time plans will be made to have an all-day exercise dealing with civil defense in the county and state.

On hand at this meeting will be Civil Defense personnel from Pikeville, to aid in the planning. Some of the activities on the list to be attempted will be a simulated "A" bomb explosion, drill team exercises in rescue by all girl teams and also male teams. An alert along with the functioning of all civil defense personnel during the emergency will also be on the list of activities.

Fred Tichnell, county director, said he hoped for a big turnout at the meeting so that the planning could be done by many and not just a few. "It takes more than just a few people to have a good civil defense unit and make it a working organization," Tichnell emphasized. He urged all present civil defense personnel as well as other persons who are interested in the work, to attend.

Persons interested in joining the Civil Defense organization or desiring more information were asked to contact Mr. Tichnell.

Big Crowd Attends Open House Sunday At Accident School

A crowd estimated at nearly eight hundred persons attended the "Open House" at the newly renovated and remodeled Accident Elementary school last Sunday afternoon. The building now provides the most modern and attractive facilities of any elementary school in the county.

Two rooms were added and the interior floor plan materially altered to provide needed corridors, toilets and stairways. Better lighting and plumbing, removal of the fire hazard that existed in the furnace room, a new paint job throughout, new asphalt tile flooring in every room, two rooms of new furniture and two rooms of old furniture refurnished and painted, needed shelving and an extra second floor fire escape were all a part of the improvement program that the parents looked to see Sunday afternoon.

The band from Northern High school presented an hour of entertainment while local P.T.A. members served refreshments and were responsible for a number of baskets of flowers placed throughout the building.

Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, remarked that many parents and visitors expressed a high degree of satisfaction in the changes which had been made to the building during the summer.

Win First Prize

The Mt. City Band of Oakland was awarded first prize at the firemen's parade last Friday evening at Terra Alta, W. Va. The local unit competed against eight other units.

George Bischoff State Winner In Tractor Contest

George Bischoff, 16-year-old farm boy from Garrett County, skillfully maneuvered his powerful machine through a series of tough tests last Saturday to win the 4-11 club tractor driving contest at the Timonium state fair.

Backing his tractor down a narrow lane marked by poles, hooking it and unhooking from various pieces of farm equipment, Bischoff finished with a low total of 455 points charged against him.

Runner-up among the other 18 entrants was James Dew, 16, of Rising Sun, Cecil County, with 462. Raymond Welch, 16, of Salisbury, was third with 475.

By virtue of his win, Bischoff will represent Maryland in the Eastern Regional contest at Richmond, Va., on September 27th.

In competing with the eighteen other boys Bischoff participated in a written quiz of 50 questions, operated his tractor through an obstacle course, wherein he was scored on skill of operation and safety; had to hold up to pieces of machinery and run them, and took a practical examination on examining a tractor to find out what was wrong with it prior to operating it.

Others Are Winners

Forty-two demonstrations were given by various 4-11 boys. Rodney McKenzie and Garv Frantz, who gave a demonstration on building a farm fence, won third place in their class. Hugh Friend and Junior Fike who gave a demonstration on sharpening farm tools, won fourth place in their class.

James McHenry, assistant county agent, who accompanied the local boys, said that out of 50 contestants in dairy judging Donald Stanton, of Grantsville, took 10th place, and that out of 41 in five stock judging, John Willesen, of Gorman, took 11th place.

The Bittinger 4-11 club booth received a blue "excellent" ribbon and an award of $25 for its display of improved farm practices.

Brief Program Marks Opening Of Southern High

Southern High school opened its doors Tuesday to an all time high of 1190 students. A staff of 48 teachers was on hand to greet the students as they reported to their classes on the opening day.

After a brief orientation period an all-school assembly was held in the school gymnasium. Against a backdrop of ferns, flags and school insignia, the band, under direction of its new instructor, Raymond Borell, opened the program with several march selections.

Following the invocation by Rev. W. S. Patterson, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Sam Moore, president of the Student council, welcomed all students and teachers. Carl Everly, vice-principal, introduced all the new teachers and Mr. Moore then introduced Kenneth Johns, principal.

In his remarks Mr. Johns pointed to five factors which contribute to the success or failure of a school—the attitude of the community to the school, the physical facilities of the school, program of studies, quality of the staff and attitude of students.

"Thus far," Mr. Johns stated, "Southern High school has met with nothing but success. However, there must be no letting down. Only through continued work can our school progress." Mr. Johns outlined some objectives for the coming year which he indicated would make Southern High one of the finest schools of its kind in the state.

Record Attendance

There has been a record attendance at Herrington Manor this summer, according to figures compiled by Ellis Martin, superintendent.

Up to September 1 the total number of persons visiting at the manor was placed at 94,128. The total at the Seawall Falls State forest area was 49,767 up to September 1.

This compared to the totals at Herrington for the two previous years. In 1953 there were 62,137 up to September 1, while in 1951 there were 59,356.

Football fans attending the football game between Southern High school and Petersburg this Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock will be able to sit in the new set of bleachers just completed this week.

Under direction of Bob Guey, several volunteer citizens worked late in the evenings this week in order to rush completion of the bleachers by game time.

The kickoff on Friday afternoon will open Southern's second football season, last year having been their initial year for playing the sport.

Petersburg is a member of the Potomac Valley conference. Their starting line-up includes E. VanMeter, B. Mongold, G. Marshall, D. Kile, R. Kitzmiller, J. Halterman, D. VanMeter, R. Ruemer, Shook, Jr., J. Yankee and D. Huffman. Eighteen others are held in reserve.

DeMoss has not definitely named his starting lineup but may include Garrett at left end, McElbie at left tackle, Marley at left guard, Baye at center, Lee at right guard, Evans at right tackle, Knotts at right end, with T. Colaw, F. Colaw, Mason and Deckman in the backfield.

Southern's next opponent will be Moorefield on the local gridiron next Saturday, September 17, also a member of the Potomac Valley conference. All of Southern's opponents this year are varsity opponents. Last year being the initial year Southern opposed junior varsity opponents in two contests.

It was planned to give a list of organizations and persons who contributed money and labor toward the acquisition of the bleacher seats in next week's issue of The Republican.

Fish Personnel Making Study Of Lake Area

Suffocation Program Yesterday Attracted Large Number Of People

Over 100 Maryland fish authorities and field personnel met yesterday at Deep Creek Lake in one of the largest freshwater probes in the state's history.

Several hundred local citizens and personnel of the departments of the Board of Natural Resources were on hand to assist in making a biological study of fish conditions in this 3,500-acre mountain reservoir.

A 40-acre arm of Hoop Pole run, near the Glendale bridge was chemically treated with rotenone, a fish suffocant, to kill all fish for the purpose of examining size, length, weight and condition of fish. A team of 16 biologists from the Department of Research and Education, 10 law enforcement officers and State Police, and 20 regional fish management personnel were at the sample area around 6 o'clock yesterday morning in the all-day effort to spray and recover the fish from the sample area and to examine all fish recovered to determine best management practices for improving fisherman success on the lake.

Estimates of the harvest ranged around 40 pounds of fish per surface acre and the first day actually produced 52 pounds per surface acre.

A complete report of the study was not available, but a count of all the fish showed that 3,000 pounds had been turned in, with a large percentage of the catch being small mouth bass, large mouth bass, crappies, bluegills, pumpkin seeds, rock bass, yellow perch, brown bullheads, white suckers, golden shiners, yellow bullheads, pickered, mad toms and carp. There were no white bass, no rainbow, brook or brown trout. The largest one brought in was a bass 19½ inches long and weighing 5 pounds.

The rotenone used in the program does not effect humans, live stock or other forms of life, but it suffocated the fish by constricting the tiny blood vessels of the gills.

The project went according to plan, except that the group was a little late in starting. After the chemical was applied the affected fish began to rise to the surface or sink to the bottom. Those sinking to the bottom were recovered by aqua lung divers.

The overall object of the project is to shed light on why fishing since 1950 has been so poor. Small-scale investigations in the past have failed to prove reliable clues to the solution of the problem. The present study was planned to give a definite approach to the characteristics of the population, the standing crop (in pounds of fish per acre), and the general feeding habits of the fish.

Altogether ten major biological studies are being made. In addition to those mentioned they include growth rate of most species; based on the study of scales; general health of fish; forage fish types; relative abundance of various size-groups in the present population.

Planning on the project was begun as early as December, 1951. The bottom of Hoop Pole cove was contoured with the aid of a bathometer in June by the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey and a preliminary chemical analysis of Lake water was made during mid-July by the Water Pollution Control Commission.

Two or more days will be devoted to the collection of the data. The Maryland Game and Inland Fish commission officials will carry on their aspect of the work for about a week.

Barn Is Destroyed

A large barn on the farm of Logan Weber, in the Underwood section was completely destroyed by fire of undetermined origin on Tuesday morning about 11 o'clock.

Oakland firemen were summoned but the distance traveled was too great and the flames were far beyond control when they arrived.

The barn was completely filled with hay. There was no loss of cattle or farm machinery, it was stated. The loss was only partially covered by insurance.

PAIRS OF PERCH—Officials of the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission and many local volunteer workers were up to their gills in fish yesterday as the extensive "smothering" program got underway at Deep Creek Lake. Old Stone Arch Span on U.S. 40 To Be Repaired

The Cumberland Construction company was low bidder by far on Tuesday on repairs to the stone arch bridge over Casselman River near Grantsville.

The Cumberland company bid $18,701. The only other bid received by the State Roads commission was for $62,000 from John D. Sheetz Construction company of Hagerstown.

Funds for the repair of the bridge which has been closed to traffic for several years, will not come from the State Roads Commission's budget.

The funds were appropriated in the last session of the General Assembly in the General Construction and Loan Act of 1955. The Board of Public Works must approve the project.

Last March 2, Norman M. Pritchett, chief engineer of the Roads Commission, wrote a letter to the commission in which he expressed the opinion that if the bridge were to be repaired it should be done by "one of the historical agencies with funds from other than motor vehicle revenue."

Delegate Harry C. Edwards, of Grantsville, who said that he had been instrumental in having the funds for the bridge's repair placed in the general construction loan, said he had not approached any historical agencies about undertaking the project.

The SRC does not consider the bridge as part of its road system since there is little demand for travel over it.

The old span, now already a historic site, was built in 1816 from Federal funds. It was part of a military road from Wheeling, W. Va., to Cumberland and was one of two crown stone arch bridges built in Maryland. It had a clearance of 40 feet for sailing vessels.

The bridge was bypassed about 20 years ago when Route 40 was straightened out and a new bridge built at that point.

Clinic Dates Set

Dates for three clinics have been set by Dr. Arthur Jones, county health officer.

An arthritic clinic will be conducted Monday, September 19, at 10 a. m. On Tuesday, September 20, at 10 o'clock there will be a pediatric clinic with Dr. Martha Mann in charge. On Thursday, September 22, at 10 o'clock, an orthopedic clinic will be conducted by Dr. George Eaton, Baltimore bone specialist.

Dr. Jones announced that Dr. Kajtj is no longer active with the spastic group and that the date of the next spastic clinic would be announced when known. In the meantime those needing supplies of medicine were asked to contact Dr. Jones.

He said that appointments for these clinics, insofar as possible, should be made through the individual's local physician.

4,579 Pupils Enroll For 1955-56 Term

Only Appreciable Gain Is Shown At Southern High, With 90 Increase

Garrett county opened its schools on Tuesday, September 6, for the 1955-56 term, with an all-day session and enrolled a total of 4,579 pupils. It was announced by Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools.

This compared to the 4,537 pupils enrolled in all schools as of June of this year. Mr. Hawkins said the enrollment for the county is expected to reach 4,700 by the end of next week. Southern High school showed the only appreciable gain with about 90 more than enrolled the opening day a year ago.

The schools moved off smoothly throughout the county and a full day session was planned from the start. Teachers had been in their schools the previous week making preparation for the full opening day.

A meeting for all teachers was held in Southern High school gymnasium last Thursday with four members of the State Department present to discuss with the teachers trends and practices in education throughout the state.

Mr. Hawkins said all bus schedules, including numerous extensions and changes, worked well for the opening day. One trouble spot in the Corama area was reported, but this was of a minor nature and was ironed out before the day was over.

Loch Lynn in Readiness

The Loch Lynn school was in complete readiness for the opening of school on Tuesday. Work had been delayed on laying the floor tile because of slow delivery service. The tile arrived last Thursday morning and all floors were in place by Tuesday morning with much extra work done by the maintenance men as well as the principal and his teachers.

The Loch Lynn school received a complete renovation during the summer. A complete paint job was given to the building inside and out, broken plaster walls repaired, window frames rebuilt, new window shades provided, and all new furniture for one classroom. In addition to the above numerous other repair and maintenance jobs were done. The building is now in excellent condition and is clean and considered attractive.

The school enrollment showed the following totals:

ONE WORD...

Can Change Your Life
By REV. ROBT. OLEWILER
Pastor, Grace Reformed Church
Washington, D. C.

LATE

Have you tried figuring out recently how much time you have left in which to leave the world a little better than you found it.

According to the latest insurance statistics, the average duration of life at age 21 is about 49 years. You may wish for a little more. You may fear a little less. But in general, 49 years, or about 18,000 days is the time you have left for doing those things your conscience tells you ought to be done.

But wait. You'll spend a third of that time in sleep, another third in making a living. That leaves one third or about 6,000 days in which to do what makes your living a time to lose!

Now what about all those nice things you've thought about doing—burying the hatchet with your estranged friend, for instance

What about all those wonderful promises to the family and community? Better get at them now, before it gets too late, the word that can change your life.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

A Little Fish Story

I've been snugly going about my housework all week without a thought going through my mind because I knew, come Wednesday, I'd have all the material I'd need for this column.

I'd go to the "rotenoning" and come up with the biggest fish story in the history of Garrett county.

So this morning before there was a ray of light in the sky I was out of bed bent on being on the scene when history started being made.

What I found was almost bureaucratic—more officials than fish!

Every person on hand looked terribly important and to add to that they even wore arm bands marked "official." I suppose trying to impress the fish.

The occasion took on the air of a fox hunt, or a field meet or cattle show, or maybe a baptizing, the way the shore was lined with people.

It was a picturesque scene to say the least. This arm of the lake was dotted with boats. Some men in them wore colorful jackets with the sun not long up and the mist rising from the water. I realized all over again—fish or no fish—that Deep Creek Lake is a beauty.

A barge propelled by a motor carried the rotenone. The only man who appeared to be working was the one poking away at the barrel which contained the deadening powder.

A Woman in Boots
The nearest thing I saw to a story was a beautiful woman all decked out in hip boots and waterproof jacket.

"There," I thought, "will be a story—oh Osa Johnson of the fishery. Maybe she'll do something daring, like crawling on the bottom."

So I eased my way toward her, baiting my hook of curiosity for the catch.

"Oh, me?" she said, "I'm unofficial. I'm just wearing these things because I'm cold."

The First Haul
A loud speaker informed the multitude that the first specimens had been brought in. A small mouth bass, a something or other and a mad Tom. The latter, a poisonous one. One of the species they did not know existed in these waters. I edged up to see the sight.

Bus Insurance Upped

At a special meeting of the Board of Education held recently it was voted to increase the amount of school bus insurance to be carried on each bus during the coming year.

This move was made upon the recommendation of the State Department of Education and the amount of coverage against injury due to the negligence of a bus driver was increased from $10,000 per person to $25,000 per person with the total liability on each bus increased from $200,000 to $250,000. Property damage to the extent of $10,000 remains the same. In addition to the above a number of bus contractors are carrying a $500 medical care insurance.

We will have in our sale on September 9, 12 head of Brown Swiss milk cows.

They were the size of sardines! What a lot down.

Everything else that turned up were that size or smaller. One was so small the high muckety-muck examining it said they would have to study it under the microscope.

No wonder our boys are always explaining that they caught some but they threw them back.

When I ventured to express my disappointment—that maybe it was a lake of minnows—a spectator gave me encouragement. Said he had heard that at the breast of the dam the bass were as big around as a man's leg and six feet long.

"Too tough to catch," he said. "Break poles—tear up nets—destroy equipment." I pass that on to you so you can pass it on. By another generation it ought to make as good a story as Moby Dick.

Same Old Story
Just as I was getting disgusted with the catch someone came along with better news. There was a big one down there, 16 inches or more. "But we didn't have a net so it got away."

It got away! The same old story. Anyway the big catch was expected at 11 o'clock. It was just 7:30—so I returned to pickle making, peach canning and loved freezing only to dream about the tons of fish I expected to see on the shores of Deep Creek Lake—that history making day.

These Kids
The youngsters in Pastor Carlson's catechetical class asked, "Would you scold anyone for something he didn't do?"

"Why no," he replied.

"We didn't do our lesson."

New Hunting Laws To Be Effective

Hunters taking to the field in the approaching season will find a number of changes that were recommended by the Western Maryland Wildlife Federation and its affiliated clubs.

Through cooperation of the Allegany County Delegation to the Maryland House of Delegates and the Maryland Game and Inland Fish commission, the following changes have been made in the game laws of the state, effective for the coming season.

(1) Spike buck deer will be legal game providing that "male with two or more points to one antler, providing a male deer with an antler three or more inches long with the points measuring from the top of the skull as deer is in life shall be considered legal game."

(2) No longer will there be a bag limit on red squirrels. They are legal only in the regular squirrel season but the bag limit no longer applies to the red squirrel.

(3) Fines have been raised for killing game illegally.

Another change said to be of benefit to sportsmen of Western Maryland is the new ruling that will bring confiscated guns back to Western Maryland to be offered to the highest bidder. Formerly it was necessary to go to Baltimore in order to submit a bid.

The Western Maryland Wildlife Federation is now composed of sixteen area sportsmen's clubs from Allegany and Garrett counties. A meeting is scheduled to be held at Grantsville within the next two weeks.

Federation officials and members of various clubs took part in the Deep Creek Lake fishing study that was conducted yesterday, according to Clyde W. Michael.

The Teacher is so Very Important

All over the land, boys and girls are going back to school, many of them for the first time.

Some buildings and equipment are bright, new and shiny, some are old and not too modern.

Important as physical facilities are, the personality of the teacher is far more important. It is the teacher who gives to a child in school for the first time, important and lasting first impressions of this larger world into which he is just entering. It is possible to do this so well and tactfully, that he will acquire healthy and joyful attitudes toward the learning he must do.

To the older boys and girls, the teacher is a pattern, a guide, an inspiration, not only with the important subject matter they must teach, but with right attitudes, personality development, spiritual outlook.

The good teacher is many things, and needs tact, humility, and much understanding for this important profession.

The teacher is a prophet. He lays the foundation of tomorrow.

The teacher is an artist. He works with the precious clay of unfolding personality.

The teacher is a friend. His heart responds to the faith and devotion of his students.

The teacher is a citizen. He is selected and licensed for the improvement of society.

The teacher is an interpreter. Out of his matured and wider life, he seeks to guide the young.

The teacher is a builder. He works with the higher and finer values of civilization.

The teacher is a culture-bearer. He leads the way toward worthier tastes, saner attitudes, more gracious manners, higher intelligence.

The teacher is a pioneer. He is

Letter to the Editor

I have had so many requests for information on the question of what the law is, if any, on the drilling and production of Natural Gas, that I have decided to try to supply the information through the medium of this statement.

There is no law to regulate the leasing, drilling or production of Natural Gas. I framed two Bills last Winter with the assistance of a Geologist, which were later changed somewhat in consultation with the leaders in our Farm Bureau. They were passed through the Senate but were killed in the House of Delegates, through the influence of the State Geologist and the lobbyists from the Gas Companies. The Gas Companies and the State Geologist want only a law that would put our land owners in a straight jacket under their domination. They oppose everything that spells out the rules by law. They, in short, oppose everything that gives the land owner protection through our Courts or otherwise.

Briefly, the gas companies and the State Geologist want a law that will enable the State Geologist to order a land owner to pool his land into pools of six hundred or more acres, by edict of the State. This, I have opposed, and I have offered a law that is similar to the W. Va. statute that protects the rights of the land owner, yet allows pooling by voluntary agreement, but with safeguards to protect the land owner from being squeezed into signing a disadvantageous contract by keeping the driller at least one thousand feet from a boundary line until after he has made satisfactory agreements with the adjoining land owner. This, the drilling companies refuse to accept, and they are receiving the full support of the State Geologist.

In the meantime and in the absence of any law some of the gas companies have gone after pooling with a vengeance. Here in the Accident field, the Farm of Stree and Eberly have succeeded in getting farmers to sign up as much as TWENTY HUNDRED ACRES IN ONE POOL. In some cases, farmers have thought it was a law and that they would be compelled to sign such an agreement. Most of the people who signed had no idea of how the contract would work in the event gas in paying quantities was found.

These so-called pooling contracts are a complete abrogation of the standard leases, originally signed by the land owners. They have the effect of tying up all the land owned by the farmer indefinitely. Four hundred Eighty-five acres, which they call "OUT POOL." Yet, under this agreement, which is nothing more than a blank check, signed by the land owner, the drilling company has this Four Hundred Eighty-five acres fastened down, and the owner cannot lease it to anybody else. Yet he is being paid royalty on only Fifteen Acres, out of Five Hundred acres.

The object of this type of pooling agreement is plainly to tie up all the land and shut out competition. Instead of aiding the development of the field it will slow it down by shutting out other drillers, and it leaves the land owner entirely at the mercy of the drilling company who now will be free to turn his attention towards catching more farmers in his net.

I believe that hardly any one of the farmers who signed this one-sided contract knew how it was going to always attempting the impossible and winning out.

The teacher is a planner. He sees the young lives before him as a part of a great system which shall grow stronger in the light of truth.

The teacher is a reformer. He seeks to remove the handicaps that weaken and destroy life.

The teacher is a believer. He has abiding faith in the improbability of the race.

Let us as parents work as partners with our teachers. We can help them in this most important job.

work in the event a productive well was found in the pool. They certainly were not told they would be paid royalty on only a part of their land if a productive well was drilled anywhere in the pool, and they were not told that all the land they owned would be tied down for years to come, and long after their original lease had expired. Neither were they told that if a well was drilled on their own land, that they would have to share their royalty from the well with other land owners living over a mile away from the well. They naturally had a right to expect that pooling would result in sharing with other adjoining neighbors only, but instead they are being forced to share with lands lying more than one mile from the well site, while some of the nearby lands are thrown out and are not drawing royalties. There can be nothing scientific about this kind of pooling, certainly it is not for the efficient production of gas because land owners' wells are located at a ridiculous distance from the wells, are being paid royalty on small portions of their acreage, in order to hold the rest of the land out of competition.

We have laws to protect our citizens against the fraudulent stock salesman, the fraudulent real estate operator, the fraudulent contractor, and many other kinds of fraud, but here is a case in which there is no law, and until we can get a law, our citizens should be on their guard. It is going to be extremely difficult to get a law because the gas companies have hired a bevy of the cleverest lawyers in the nation to lobby for them down at Annapolis. At a hearing not long back, the President of the Senate asked one of the officials of these companies, I believe it was Mr. Eberly, if he would oppose a law similar to that which they have in Pennsylvania. He stated that he would oppose such a law. He was then asked if he was opposed to the W. Va. law, he again said that he was. They seem to be demanding complete unbridled freedom to do as they please. And they say they will have no law, unless it is like the 1953 law which was repealed. That law gave the State Geologist complete power to force land owners to pool their land by edict of the State, and it provided a penalty of up to $1,000 for each day that the order was not obeyed.

There is much more to be said on this subject which for lack of space can not be stated here. There is to be a hearing at Oakland in the Court House before a subcommittee of the Legislative Council, beginning at 2:00 p. m. on Tuesday, September 13, and continuing through the evening and into the next day. All land owners and others who are interested are cordially invited to attend.

Clifford Friend, State Senator.

Constitution Week Is Proclaimed

To the end that there may be renewed interest in the observance of Constitution Week, the Daughters of the American Revolution are promoting celebrations throughout the United States, to commemorate the 168th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution.

In Maryland, the Governor, the County Commissioners of the counties and mayors of all incorporated towns have been asked to issue proclamations declaring September 17 to '23 as "Constitution Week."

The proclamations urge special attention to our Federal constitution and the advantages of American citizenship, flying U. S. flags at their businesses and homes and especially emphasizing the purposes of good government as set forth in the constitution's preamble, and the duty of all persons in the Republic to protect the constitution and the freedom in its Bill of Rights, so that it may continue to protect its citizens and their posterity.

Proclamations have been issued by Joseph Hinchbaugh, mayor of Oakland, by Lee Beachy, mayor of Grantsville, and by H. D. Swartzentruber, Aubrey C. Breuneman and Ervin A. Roth, county commissioners.

Mutual Trust . . .

Several persons mentioned these exact words at the subcommittee hearing this week—Mutual Trust—and they are something good to ponder over.

The hearing on trying to determine the basis for a gas well drilling bill that would be acceptable to both houses of the legislature was a well conducted one. Everyone was given an opportunity to speak.

There were landowners and Senator Clifford Friend who wanted a bill a certain way, and there were gas well drillers and operators who voiced objections to some parts of the bill and who made recommendations about other parts. In general everyone agreed that there should be regulation of some description in spacing wells, and it remained for the committee to attempt to resolve how the power to space should be set and delegated.

As the hearing moved along it was not difficult to discover that all had not been smooth sailing. Some felt the landowners had been "taken in" when leasing their farms. Drillers on the other hand felt that they should receive major consideration since they invest hundreds of thousands of dollars with no assurance that they will receive any return whatsoever. They take all the risk, and there is no recourse if all the wells are dry holes.

So there is bickering back and forth and tempers flare and ill feeling is created.

This could be eliminated by the adoption of those two small but meaningful words—mutual trust. If people had that mutual trust, perhaps lots of things would move ahead in Garrett County that are now retarded because of the lack of applying those two words.

They are good words to consider.

10 Indictments Are Returned By Grand Jury

Investigating Body Completes It Work After One-Day Session Tuesday

The September Term of the Garrett County Grand Jury adjourned Tuesday afternoon after having been in session one day. During its deliberations the jurors examined fifteen witnesses and returned ten indictments.

None of the indictments may be publicized until those charged with violating the statutes are either in jail or under bond for their appearance when summoned.

Sheriff Paul W. Fisher said, however, that all are the general run of infractions—bustards, theft, bad checks and the like. The full report of the jury follows:

TO THE HONORABLE, THE JUDGES OF THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND:

The Grand Jury for Garrett County, in session for the September Term, 1955, respectfully submits the following report:

We were in session for one day, beginning Tuesday, September 13, 1955, and concluded our deliberations the same day.

We have examined 15 witnesses and have returned True Bills of Indictment in 10 cases, and No True Bills of Indictment in no cases.

In all cases we have been governed by our obligations as jurors and our duty to society in insuring the enforcement of the law, in our action in each instance, with due regard for the rights of the citizen.

Acting in accordance with the instructions given us by His Honor Judge Neil C. Fraley, we have inspected the Sheriff's Residence and Jail, the Court House and the Treasurer's office and books.

In our inspection of the Jail and the Sheriff's Residence we find that the Sheriff's residence and Jail were clean, orderly and generally well kept.

We recommend that the leaks be repaired in the roof of the Jail, also that the plaster be repaired. The windows need new pulleys and sash cord and a general overhauling. We also recommend a light in the shower of the men's department and furnish the department with at least twelve new mattresses with sufficient blankets to take care of twelve men. We also recommend that the cell door operating mechanism be overhauled and put into operation.

We also recommend that the heating equipment be equipped with a stoker and a thermostat control to give sufficient heat. Also that all ratators be thoroughly cleaned and painted.

Finally we recommend that the Jail interior be completely painted. In our inspection of the Court House we have found the greatest need to be inadequate storage and space of the Offices. Specifically we desire to recommend the following:

(1) The light fixture in the men's lavatory in the basement should be replaced. (Continued On Page Four)

Approximately 180 persons attended the session which was highlighted by an address by Dr. David Zimmerman, state superintendent of transportation for the State Department of Education. Addresses also were made by U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde, and Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools.

Musical entertainment was provided by the Friendly Mt. Boys, the DeWitt Quintet, Mrs. Russell Brown, Mrs. Jay Bell and William L. Gibson. Dinner was served by members of the Brethren Ladies' Aid.

SRC Will Sell Deep Creek Land Parcels

The State Roads Commission is going to sell three Deep Creek Lake properties, complete with cottages, that were acquired for the relocation and modernization of U.S. route 219, between Thayerville and the Deep Creek bridge at Stone Tavern.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the SRC, said that according to specifications of the sales contract, the three dwellings must be moved back to a point 30 feet from the right of way of the proposed location of the road.

In our inspection of the road, we found that the three dwellings must be moved back to a point 30 feet from the right of way of the proposed location of the road.

Sealed bids will be accepted until noon September 24, at the district office of the SRC in Cumberland.

The three properties are lots 11, 12 and 13 of McIntire's and Mason's plat of Lake View, a subdivision of a land called Deep Creek Farm.

One property had been purchased from Wilma Shipley Calhoun and Glenna DeWitt, another from Erval W. Beam, and the third, from Vera Ream, Mussard. The land and cottages will be sold either on a combined or individual basis, depending which is the higher.

Chaires said in all the three instances at Deep Creek there will be a satisfactory amount of land remaining after the houses are moved.

Polio Vaccine Now Available to Doctors

Polio vaccine is now available from family physicians, it was announced this week, but the present supply of vaccine was such that it could be administered only to children in the age group five through nine.

There was no additional information from the State Health department as to when the mass polio shots would continue. Dr. Arthur Jones said this morning that no schedule had been arranged for this.

According to the most recent announcement 30 percent of the initial proportion of available vaccine would be used for free administration by the county and city health departments, and 70 percent would be distributed for use of physicians, hospitals, drug stores and supply houses throughout the state.

The policy for the Maryland State Health Department adopted at present is to postpone further vaccinations until the seasonal evidence of the disease has sharply declined.

Bids Are Sought On Overhead Bridge

Bids are being sought by the State Roads commission for construction of an overhead bridge at Bloomington, to eliminate the B. and O. crossing there.

The construction is for a multiple span steel beam bridge on Maryland route 135. The bridge is about 170 feet long with 30 feet roadway. Approaches to the bridge are under a separate contract.

Bids will be received by the commission at its Baltimore offices until 12 o'clock noon on October 4, at which time they will be publicly opened and read.

To Honor Manager

Russell H. Brown, manager here for Cumberland and Altheachy Gas Company, will be honored on Thursday, September 22, on the completion of 30 years' service.

He is one of 11 gas company veterans to be feted at the annual Quarter Century Club luncheon at the Cumberland Country Club.

Mr. Brown, of 148 Liberty street, Oakland, has spent his entire 30 years with the company serving the people of Oakland. He joined the company as a fitter in 1921.

Later advanced to customer serviceman and foreman, he was appointed manager last February.

Board Rules On Disqualified Drivers

At a meeting of the Board of Education on Tuesday, September 13, which was attended by all three members, it was unanimously agreed that no person would be allowed to operate a school bus who was disqualified by the examining physician as not having passed the required physical tests. The requirements are established by the State Department of Education.

The board noted that the examinations were made only for the safety and security of pupils riding the buses. Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, said the board felt it would be derogatory in its duty to permit any person to drive a school bus who had been disqualified.

A petition signed by a number of persons sought to have the board agree to allow Albert Sisk, who was disqualified as a school bus driver, due to defective vision, to continue to drive his bus. The petition was denied, the board stating it regretted the situation and expressing appreciation for the good services Mr. Sisk had rendered in the past.

Among the other items of business were the following:

A detailed report of cost of repairs and improvements made to schools during the summer showed approximately $8,000 spent for paint, tile flooring and other material needed to recondition many of the buildings.

The board voted to write officers of the School Bus Drivers' association to meet and discuss a fair and sound policy to be used in case a contractor wishes to sell his bus.

The Superintendent reported difficulty being encountered by attorneys in establishing clear titles to some of the school properties. (Continued On Page Seven)

Road Gunmen Are Under Indictment

Two men have been indicted at Uniontown, Pa., on charges of taking potshots at motorists who failed to dim their headlights along U.S. route 40 last June 19.

Two of the cars which were struck by bullets were driven by a Cumberland man, Lyman M. Zeller, and Paul Kidd, formerly of Frostburg.

Five counts each of felonious assault, illegal possession of fire arms and similar charges were placed against:

William J. Jackson, 59, an electrician, who gave various addresses in Albuquerque, Denver and other western cities; and Samuel P. Johnson, 39, of Los Angeles.

The shooting spree took place near Farmington, 12 miles east of Uniontown.

The trial of the two men was called off suddenly yesterday when the presiding judge in the case ordered an investigation of the sanity of one defendant and directed acquittal of the other for lack of evidence.

The action was taken by Judge Samuel D. Braemer who ordered Jackson committed to Fayette County jail pending appointment of a commission which will investigate Jackson's sanity.

Acquitted by the directed verdict was Johnson who had claimed he was a hitchhiker and had been picked up by Jackson in his panel truck.

Cigaret Tax $2,065.56

The penny-a-pack tax on cigarettes to boost teacher salaries in the county reached $2,065.56 for August, a preliminary report from the office of Joseph Welch, county treasurer, revealed.

There were still about 25 dealers yet to report, but the treasurer said all the big ones were already in.

40-Acre Section Of Deep Creek Again Fishable

Area Apparently Clear Of Retenone As Fish Return To Hoop Pole Inlet

The 40-acre arm of Hoop Pole run of Deep Creek Lake which was used last week for a probe of the lake's fish life, did not remain void of fish for any length of time, an investigation has revealed.

Harold J. Elser, Department of Research and Education for the Game and Inland Fish commission, reported Monday that the area was again fishable on Sunday morning. A fisherman in the area at that time caught a pumpkin seed, the first to be noted since the rotenone suffocant was dropped in the waters of the lake last Wednesday morning.

Elser said the personnel of the departments of the Board of Natural Resources remained on hand at the lake until Sunday to complete their tabulation of fish and their examination of them.

The final count showed well over two and one-half tons, or 5,000 pounds of fish obtained during the experiment and that at least 75 percent of the total was Yellow Perch.

A further analysis showed that as of Sunday the harvest of fish produced 85 pounds per surface acre, much more than expected. Some hatchery trout were obtained during the final days of the study. The first day showed no trout killed.

A complete report of the study will not be available for about a month, Mr. Elser commented that he had no idea yet how the biologists might cure the fishing trouble. He declared the situation was not hopeless but that any cure might be expensive. He did not elaborate on the statement.

The probe was conducted to determine the best management practices for improving fishing success in the lake and to try to shed light on why fishing since 1950 had been so poor. The present study was planned to give a definite approach to the characteristics of the population and the general feeding habits of the fish.

The council granted a permit to the Oakland Equipment company to erect a machinery storage shed 18 by 80 feet on their property on Third street.

The street committee was authorized to repair the shoulders on the alley at the Methodist and Catholic churches and in the Davis addition.

The water superintendent, James Lewis, was authorized to obtain a spare pump head for use in emergencies; another chlorinator, 25 new water meters and was instructed to start work on a sewer line from High street to the Davis addition. New sewer and water lines also are planned on Fourth street in the vicinity of Pennington.

Council also authorized the dredging of the balance of Wilson Creek which runs parallel to Third, to lessen the danger of floods.

A contract was awarded to Wade Bolyard to construct a new pump house at No. 3 well for $195.00. Bolyard was low bidder on the project.

Clyde Sines, street superintendent, reported progress on the work on Fourth street. The course of Wilson Creek was changed, a six-foot drainage tile placed under the roadway, but it will be ten days before the county equipment is available to do additional work at that point.

Don Browning, postmaster, asked for the removal of a parking meter in front of the postoffice so that a new type mailbox could be placed there enabling people to drive up in their automobiles and deposit mail without getting out of their cars.

Sunday movie tax for August amounted to $86.52, it was reported.

Hawkins, county superintendent of schools.

A tour was taken of the newly painted and enlarged Accident school. The school served refreshments.

Emerson Bishoff, present Farm Bureau president, asked the committee to draw up a bill favorable to operators as well as landowners.

Jesse Dally, Morgantown, W. Va., geologist at West Virginia university, said he felt there should be some restriction on the spacing of wells but said he felt the restriction should be on the area where drilling would be allowed—say a certain 50 acres—rather than a certain number of feet from another well.

DiDomenico said it appeared there was agreement that spacing should be restricted and the committee would have to resolve how the power to space should be set and regulated.

At a preliminary hearing before Trial Magistrate W. O. Biter, he was placed under $3,000 bond for his appearance at a regular hearing to be held on Saturday, September 17, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Ordinance Ups Rates For Taps

An ordinance increasing the rates for sewer and water taps was passed officially Monday evening by the Mayor and Town Council at their regular monthly meeting.

The ordinance increases the rates which ran from $25.00 to $80 to $35 to $70. Fifty percent additional is charged for installing the tap where streets are paved and when the location is outside the corporate limits of the town. The ordinance is published this week as an advertisement.

Other routine business was carried on at Monday's meeting. Receipts were listed at $22,086.96 with $809.88 from water, $14,734.16 from taxes and $6,542.92 from miscellaneous. Among the miscellaneous items were $1,111.79 from parking meters for five weeks, $1,318.56 from race tracks, $2,228.49 from gasoline tax, and $1,121.89 from motor vehicle tax.

Space Control On Gas Wells Gets Approval

Landowners Want To Retain Controlling Power, Committee Is Told

The lengthy hearing regarding legislation that would control gas well drilling concluded yesterday in the Garrett County Court House after being in session for two days.

The Garrett County landowners and gas drilling operators appeared to be in favor of some state legislation to control gas well drilling in the county but the landowners said they wanted to retain the controlling power.

The committee, headed by Sen. DiDomenico (D-Balto., 2nd.) was trying to determine the basis for a bill which would be acceptable to both houses of the Legislature.

A proposed control law in 1951 passed the House of Delegates but failed in the Senate. Another in 1953 was enacted with an amendment later declared unconstitutional. Last year there was a bill to repeal the 1953 act and Senate bill 470, presented last winter to the 1955 Legislature, was modeled on the 1953 measure. It passed the Senate but did not get by the House.

Married At Red House Church

Miss Alma Gene Riddler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Batty E. Riddler, Sunnyside, became the bride of Mr. John Edward White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. White, Hutton, in a double ring candlelight ceremony performed Friday, September 2 at 7:30 p. m. in St. John's Lutheran church at Red House. The Rev. William A. Reim officiated. The altar was decorated with white asters, ferns, pompons and lighted tapers.

Miss Gladys E. Harsh, organist, presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied Miss Jacqueline Calhoun, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of white lace and nylon tulle over taffeta. Her tulle veil was held by a white lace caplet. A single strand of pearls and earrings, gift of the groom, were her only jewelry. She carried a white orchid on her Bible with rosette streamers.

Miss Shirley Ann Shaffer, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. Misses Bonnie and Kathy Riddler, nieces of the bride, were flower girls. The attendants were similarly attired in gowns of silk green tulle and net with floral head-resses. Miss Shaffer carried a colonial bouquet of rust pompons and yellow rosebuds, while the flower girls carried baskets of rust pompons and yellow rosebuds.

Herbert Riddler, brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were Kenneth Jackson and Benjamin Riddler, brothers of the bride. The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds. Mrs. White was attired in navy blue with matching accessories and a corsage of white rosebuds.

An open reception was held in the church social room immediately following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. White will be at home in Bridgewater, Va., after September 18, where they will both continue their schooling at Bridgewater college.

Speed Control

control and regulate drilling, providing a board that would administer according to law. There had been some controversy over previous bills giving power to set up regulations to a board headed by Joseph T. Sinowald, head of the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources.

Friend said this bill of his would equalize benefits to the landowners, would provide for making pipe lines common carriers, and place a small tax on the producer to carry the cost of administration.

Oscar Berry, representative for the Natural Gas Distributing company of Washington, asked that should a bill be passed that it not hamper the development of underground gas storage areas.

Lloyd C. Hasmes, representing the C and A Gas company, doubted the constitutionality of any regulation making pipe lines common carriers, and expressed his opposition to such a section of the law.

Yesterday the hearing continued with various individuals being heard. All the operators or their representatives, voiced opposition to the law of capture, to the lines becoming common carriers. But all seemed to favor some regulation on spacing.

Says Drillers Are Fair

Foster Vost, Clark Schlossnagle, Paul Gochringer, Albert Richter, all spoke of the fairness of Snee and Eberly, gas well drillers, in the Accident area. Snee and Eberly had been pounced upon last week in a letter to the editor of The Republican charging they had been putting landowners under false impression that leases had to be signed or they would force the landowner out.

This statement was attacked yesterday by W. A. Gunter, Cumberland attorney, claiming the assertions were without foundation of fact. This brought a heated rejoinder from Senator Friend, but before it got beyond control he was halted by the chairman of the meeting, who asked that no personalities be brought into the discussion.

Friend, however, said he would continue to struggle for a law that would be acceptable and fair to both landowners and drillers. He declared his group was not opposed to pooling or spacing but reiterated his determination that the pooling ought to be voluntary.

Gunter added that what was really needed was mutual trust of both the operator and landowner. Others advocating opposition to the common carrier and the way the board was to be set up were John Avirett, Baltimore attorney representing the C and A Gas company. Mr. Snee, Uniontown driller, Robert Eberly, Uniontown driller, and C. P. Duncan, geologist for the C and A Gas company. Snee told the committee it cost $85,000 to $90,000 to drill an average well and Eberly asked that the cost of drilling and the ratio of production to dry holes be taken into account in formulating any legislation. A number of the drillers thought they should be represented on any regulatory board.

Sums Up Hearing

Didomenico summed up the hearing by remarking that the problem was rather complex and involved but he felt certain that as a result of the hearings and the testimony given the committee that it would be a much better job in the formulation of any legislation to regulate the drilling of wells. He felt that the legislature had embarked on a good program in naming sub-committees to study various problems throughout the state.

Mr. Duncan asked that Senate Bill 319 be used as a model for any future legislation.

About 75 persons, including a dozen or more corporation attorneys, attended the hearing Tuesday afternoon and evening but the number dwindled on Wednesday to less than fifty.

Other members of the sub-committee were Del. Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges); Del. Driscoll (R-Allegany); Senator See (R-Allegany); Senator Friend, and Del. Charlotte R. Garrett. Lee Benson, assistant director of the Bureau of Legislative Reference attended the hearing and served as secretary.

35 Marriage Permits Granted Past Week

Thirty-five marriage licenses were issued during the past week ending Tuesday morning from the office of Richard L. Davis, clerk of the Circuit court for Garrett county. Three licenses issued were marked "don't publish."

This week's licenses brought the total for September thus far to fifty-six. During August 160 licenses were issued, bringing the total for the first eight months of the year to 1,051.

Letter to the Editor

Southern High school's football field took on a new look last week with the completion of the bleachers. This newest addition to the rapidly growing athletic program at Southern will accommodate approximately 575 fans.

These bleachers could not have been constructed without the support of many organizations and individuals. Numerous persons worked late in the evening, long after their own days of work had been completed.

To each of you who worked so diligently and to each of the organizations which contributed money for this project may I take this opportunity to express the sincere gratitude and appreciation of the staff and student body of Southern High School. With such support and cooperation, Southern High school can move in only one direction—forward.

Sincerely,
W. Kenneth Johns

Possibly They Are Right

At any rate, Labor Day made it clear that the 1956 presidential campaign has really opened. Though more than ten months will elapse before either National Convention is held, barring some utterly unforeseeable happening, not only are the presidential candidates now known but the issues are fairly clear.

Certainly, it is clear that Mr. Eisenhower will be unanimously re-

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

Since the new Communist "peace" offensive is calculated to aid the long-range Communist goal of world dictatorship, we can be sure that it will not bring to a halt the widespread Communist propaganda campaign. The powerful propaganda work of the Communists has infected every phase of life in all the nations outside the Iron Curtain, especially in the realm of thought-shaping and opinion-making. This fact makes it all the more necessary that Americans, young and old, know the true comparative facts about our system and about Communism and Socialism.

Along with an educational program at home we should make known the accomplishments of American capitalism to people everywhere in the world. It's a great story. And as a third positive step to take advantage of the period of artificial Soviet peacefulness, America should carry on a sound program of assistance to the backward countries; this assistance should not consist of handouts but be in the form of technical aid and bonafide loans.

These things are precisely what the Soviet leaders don't want us to do. They want and expect us to lower our guards, to become as apathetic toward the Communist menace as we were just a few years ago, to cease teaching our children and our adults the true facts about America, and to forget about the rest of the world. This is the slumberous atmosphere which permitted Communism to deeply infiltrate our vital American institutions and to take over China and other millions of people.

We have encircled the Soviet aggressors with airfields from which U.S. bombers, carrying H-bombs, could devastate in a few hours Russia's capacity to make war. This rising alertness in America, together with miserable economic conditions within the Communist empire, has pushed the Red leaders within their present strategy. Their move is a bold one. And it is a shrewd one. It is bold because they are virtually renouncing the main goal of Communism—world conquest; and it is a shrewd one because the people of the world desperately want peace.

To defeat the purpose of the Communist deception, America therefore must remain strong and work to increase the moral and economic strength of the free world. In addition we must use this time to bring about a better world—a world of Communism, Socialism, and Capitalism, their philosophies and their comparative results in practice. We must be ready always to accept the genuine renunciation of Communism by its leaders—but not on the basis of the fraud they seek now to foster on a peace-hungry world.

main as President it should be shown. That both have been amply attested is one fact that both sides can concede.

This was apparent long before the visit of the Republican state chairman to confer with the President at Denver. It was apparent before Vice President Nixon, after conferring with the President at Denver, expressed his conviction that he would run again and added that all the state Republican chairmen were basing their campaigns on that assumption. If anyone knows Mr. Nixon should. In fact, it is incredible after the developments of last week that anything short of a physician's certificate could excuse Mr. Eisenhower in now letting his friends, his party and his country down, which is exactly what he would be doing. In fact, they would all be in "one hell of a mess."

Now, then, consider the case of Mr. Stevenson. For more than a year there has been no doubt of his candidacy. Every one of his utterances—particularly that of Labor Day in Look magazine—has confirmed this belief. Despite the coy Governor Harriman and the energetic Senator Kefauver, he is away out ahead. True, he is somewhat embarrassed by the violence of Mr. Truman, the great "give 'em hell" orator, and by the apparent determination of Senator Kefauver to enter the early Democratic primaries, which may give him a few delegates outside his own State. But, in the main, he has several advantages. One large one is that the chairman of the Democratic Committee, Mr. Paul Butler, is his devoted friend.

Another is the support of the union-labor bosses—Reuther and Meany—who were supposed to give him the votes of the labor rank and file in 1952, but somehow failed to deliver in the election. Still another is the support of the union-labor bosses—Reuther and Meany—who were supposed to give him the votes of the labor rank and file in 1952, but somehow failed to deliver in the election. other is the support of the A.D.A. and other left-wing groups. Still another is the friendship of the old New Deal columnists, radio correspondents and television commentators. This, plus his own efforts as a writer and speaker, ought to be enough to insure him the nomination. The Democratic Convention probably will be far less harmless than the Republican—but there is no Nader in sight to challenge the smooth Adlai. With his advantages he should outrun them all in the nomination race.

However, there is a big gap between the nomination and the election. In this column, the point sought to be made is that nearly a year in advance the two parties have selected their presidential candidates and made the issue. The issue, of course, will be Eisenhower. There will be other things discussed—taxes, farm and foreign policies, public and private power, etc., etc. But it all comes back to Ike. Either the voters still like him or they don't. Either they have changed since 1952 or they haven't. The polls all seem to show that they have not. That would appear to be enough from the Republican point of view, but the Democrats vigorously deny it. They insist that all the new voters are against the President. Possibly they are right—just possibly.

Interior Secretary McKay declared the nation is "extremely fortunate" to have President Eisenhower in its service during the present "perilous period."

Geraldine Gank Is Bride

The marriage of Miss Geraldine Gank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gank, of Crofton, to a ceremony performed before an altar by Rev. Paul Crumley, officiating, took place at the Gladeview Brethren church near Red House last Saturday evening, September 10, at 7:30 p. m. Miss Ruth Wolf, of the piano, Jo

Anne and Patty DeWitt sang "The Lord's Prayer," while the two and Miss Wolf also sang one number.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white net over satin with a lace bodice and a ballerina length skirt with a satin jacket with three-quarter length sleeves. Her fingertip veil was held with a band of velvet outlined with pearls. She carried a white Bible covered with white roses and white satin streamers.

Mrs. Robert Harsh, sister of the bride, who was matron of honor, wore a pale pink net gown made with a full skirt. Her headdress was a band of yellow roses and she carried a spray of yellow flowers.

TROY SMEARMAN

RALPH SMEARMAN

REED SMEARMAN

About 30 years ago Henry Smearman and his wife settled on what had been something of an abandoned farm in Garrett county, not far from Addison.

In the years that followed they not only made the farm homestead but they became the parents of six children. The first five were boys; the last one was a long desired girl.

The years passed and those youngsters grew up. Each of them shared the work on the farm; the neighbors held them in high esteem as fine young gentlemen. Then, one by one, they received "green ings" from Uncle Sam. The country was seeking the services of able-bodied males. The Smearman boys, like their father, were small of stature, but they had courageous hearts.

Now the last of those boys is wearing the uniform. The others have served their hitch and have returned to civilian life. Only one is at home; the others have sought to make their living elsewhere than on the farm.

The pictures of the five boys are shown above, with their sister, Helen, a pretty lass yet in school. The record shows: Floyd, the eldest, was with the army in Germany and left it as a private first class. He is now employed in an Ohio steel mill. Troy saw service in Japan and he left the army as a private first class. He is now working on the farm. Albert was an army cook who saw duty in the states. He finished as a corporal and is employed at a garage in Confluence, Pa.; Ralph was with the Army in Germany, being a private first class when discharged. He is employed at the Ohio steel mill; Reed is with the air force and presently is assigned to a base in South Carolina.

Sen. John Marshall Butler

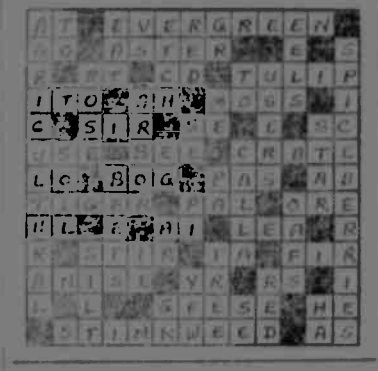

The Leopard and His Spots

Are the partisans of world communism genuinely sincere in their recent grandiose efforts to create the countenance of men of good will, interested primarily in peace on earth? This question is on the lips of all God-fearing, peace-loving people everywhere.

Time of course will provide the answer. But the remnant historical pattern of world domination, conceived by Marx and Lenin and implemented by the Bolshevik terrorists immediately following World War I and since, would seem to militate against an affirmative answer. Through constant and devious subversion and infiltration, it envelops all it touches and the free world—indeed, apathetic and partially blind to the true nature and goal of the Bonaparte-off-nominees unable to summon the strength, the courage and the interest on which the very survival of freedom and liberty depend.

Let it not be forgotten that international communism has but one objective—world domination and total subservience to its philosophy and its ends, the accomplishment of which has followed a definite plan of several phases.

First, the overthrow of the Czarist regime in Russia after World War I for the purpose of obtaining a national base for international operations. . . . Second, in the years prior to World War II, the consolidation of Russia under communist control. . . . Third, a program of expansion to assure support from surrounding satellite nations. . . . Fourth, the instigation of moral, economic and political turbulence in Europe. . . . Fifth, the mastery of Asia by either direct or indirect means—the latter having proved most effective. . . . Sixth, the mastery of Africa with its vast storehouse of natural resources. . . . Seventh, the control of Latin America as a prelude to the economic strangulation of the United States. The fourth to seventh steps of this phased program have accelerated despite the recent comminants at Geneva. None of these requires direct military intervention by Russia; on the contrary, results are obtained through the typical Kromlin-inspired tactics of subversion.

subtle infiltration and vicious propaganda. In the past year the scope of these tactics has been broadened to include a campaign of negotiated economic ties with the communist orbit—thus the buildup of the Soviet merchant marine is no accident.

Since the meeting at the Summit, it would appear that there is a tendency to minimize the Red menace, and its spreading control in all corners of the globe. Rest assured the leopard has not changed its spots—our guard must not be dropped.

Southern To Meet Moorefield Saturday

Southern High school's Highlanders will play its second football game of the season on Saturday afternoon, September 17, on the local gridiron. Game time is at 1:30 o'clock.

The first game in the Potomac Valley conference last Friday ended with a 6-6 deadlock between the Highlanders and Petersburg. Coach Jesse Higdon's Grant Countians took a 6-0 lead in the second period when Quarterback Dick Huffman threw a pass to Halfback Yankey for 15 yards which was completed in the end zone.

Late in the first quarter left halfback Fred Colaw ran 31 yards for a Southern touchdown, but due to an off-side penalty the play was nullified.

Southern fought back in the third quarter as Fred Colaw scored from the one-yard line on a quarterback sneak. The try for the point fell short of the goal. Coach Jim DeMoss' team was headed for another touchdown in the second period but time ran out after the locals had advanced the ball to Petersburg's eight.

Southern gained a total of 228 net yards overland and through the air while the West Virginians racked up 117 via the aerial route and on the ground.

Some 1,300 persons witnessed the opening game of the season, about 1,100 of them being students.

Football Parade Saturday
There will be a football parade on Saturday at 12:30 o'clock with members of the football team featured. Cheerleaders and the band will lead the crowd in a thrush.

Planning Groups Report Activity

Six Farm Bureau Planning groups made reports of August meetings, it was reported by Merle A. Garlett, secretary for all groups. Reporting were Mrs. Guy Stanton, 1; Mrs. Walter Hamman, 2; Mrs. Mary Breuninger, 5; Mrs. Clark Schlossnagle, 6; Mrs. Pearl Shultz, 7; and Mrs. Donna Glatfely, 8.

Garlett reported the subject "Trash from the Highways," as a live but controversial issue. Group 6 favored having the state plan a discussion around farm safety with a safety check list.

Several ideas were projected from the reports. 1. Opposing the idea of a 10-foot board fence. 2. Nearly all groups felt that prison labor or welfare labor should be used to keep roadsides beautiful and clean. 3. Most groups felt that a law to repay farmers for damages to property and machinery would be misused and undesirable. 4. Several groups felt that some law was needed to put teeth in a trash removal program for the state. A several groups said a continual and never-ending educational program was part of the solution. Other groups mentioned trash cans properly placed and neatly painted would invite people to be neat, careful and clean, and educational as well.

It was the opinion there was no policy about trash removal in the county and too little cooperation with Maryland Beautiful campaign. The secretary suggested that each group discuss the idea of a county-wide resolution on the trash problem and take action, after which the Farm Bureau president would have the resolutions committee formulate a statement to be adopted at the next county-wide meeting.

A three-run rally in the fifth inning enabled Grantsville's pennant-winning aggregation to eliminate Wellersburg at the latter place by the score of 6 to 1.

June Perry, Grantsville south-paw, limited Wellersburg to four hits, including a homer by O'Baker in the sixth inning, and fired the third strike past 13 batsmen in Grantsville's triumph.

The Sluggers nipped Dawson for 13 hits, three of which were credited to Harper while See snacked a sixth inning homer and single. Mort and Wenger also had two hits each.

Grantsville had won the opener of the best of three series by the score of 1-0.

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

Boys and girls all over America are trooping back to school. Unfortunately, some of them will go to crowded and obsolete buildings. The Office of Education tells me that a record-shattering 60,000 classrooms were built last year. Of those new classrooms some 50,000 will be needed by this year's more than 16 million new students; only 10,000 of the new units are available for replacing obsolete schoolrooms. The overall shortage is estimated to be 250,000 classrooms.

It is a shocking situation, one which, except for the materials shortages during the war years, should never have been allowed to develop. As you know, I am convinced that state and local communities could have kept pace with normal demands of a growing population. In some instances, though, abnormal growth has needed some federal assistance. But the habit of looking to the federal government has become so fixed that local authorities seem paralyzed and unable to move without federal help.

Factors of real need on a country-wide scale have developed and this, plus the failure of local authorities to fully carry out their obligations, has made federal-aid-to-school construction imperative. Such a program was presented to Congress last session. It failed of passage. Differences within the Majority Party in Committee prevented the measure from reaching the floor of the House for a vote.

I plan to vote for a sound program that will add necessary classrooms where needed. But I must warn my readers that the prospects for favorable action by the Congress next session are not bright. The issue is over the distribution of funds.

There is a matter concerning our educational system, though, that I think is being wrongfully overshadowed by the "cry for more schoolrooms." It is the deplorable state of teacher pay scales. We need more teachers—better qualified and better paid. During the last session, I brought this to the Congress' attention. A step in the right direction was taken with the passage of the District of Columbia teachers' pay increase measure. I would with registered Holsteins and was recommended by James A. McHenry, assistant county agent.

PLYMOUTH

Student Government Looks Ahead; To Begin Elections Soon

With Miss Ann Dilgard again acting as adviser, the Student Government is already beginning to plan for the school year at Southern.

The officers of the organization, under the leadership of Sam Moore, president, will begin elections of Student Council representatives in the near future. This year, the Council will be enlarged from the 13 members of last year to 19 members. This enlargement was voted upon by the entire student body and carried through.

Following the organization of the Student Council, an election committee will be appointed to immediately begin work upon class elections.

One of the major aims this year of the Student Government is to completely revise the present point system. The original 100 points will still be needed to win a school letter and 50 additional points for a star.

The Student Council is sponsoring a movie to be held some time in October. The funds raised by this movie will be used to buy scholastic letters and stars and also the intramural trophies.

Bleachers Ready For Use in First Contest

Seating approximately 375 people, the football bleachers saved a lot of people from having to stand along the sidelines in Southern's initial football game against Petersburg High school. These bleachers would probably not be a reality but for the interest local townspeople have shown.

A total of $2200 has been donated by the community for use on the football bleachers. The organizations which contributed to the project are the Parent-Teacher Association, Woodmen of the World, Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, Civic Club, Knights of Pythias, Mayor and Town Council, Bus Drivers' Association, Rotary Club, town of Crellin, Lions club and C. M. White, the latter as an individual.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

Having established a condition of record-high employment, our Government finds itself today in the position of a man who has bought a new car or a mother who has given birth to a baby.

The shiny automobile might easily be the talk of envious neighbors. But beneath its hood there are probably mechanical "bugs" which must be adjusted to insure smooth performance.

In like manner, the new arrival in the maternity ward is a bundle of infant charm—but a new problem, too.

As far as our country is concerned, the present employment record of about 70,000,000 persons is, in a manner of speaking, its own new car or baby. We wouldn't think for a moment of changing the situation, but we do have to consider our additional difficulties and responsibilities.

Experience has shown that one area of possible friction which needs our most sympathetic care is the field of labor-management relationships.

Troubles in this sphere frequently appear to be localized, but there is a basic connection between the problems of railroadmen in Western Maryland, truckers on the Eastern Shore, and members of industry in other parts of our State.

Fundamentally, the issues are also worldwide.

We have already done much in this country to promote a healthy labor situation, and the results are so apparent that even detractors have been forced to concede that they, too, are enjoying good times.

Figures from the Department of Labor show that the country is enjoying the most prosperous year in its history.

Employment has hit an all-time high. Average wages of workers are the best ever.

Since last December, consumer prices have been relatively stable. Still, however, we have the potential problems which come with new cars, babies or prosperity.

In an effort to get a more expanded insight into such matters, I will sail this week from New York for a conference of the International Labor Organization in Geneva, Switzerland.

My attendance as an observer will permit me to learn first-hand how other nations are attempting to improve working conditions through plans which might also be applicable here.

During the month I will be away, many projects which have been close to the administration will be developing.

Schools will resume their normal routines and, according to present indications, a record number of children will receive aid from school-milk and school-lunch programs.

Plans for a balanced budget—the first step toward a possible tax reduction—will continue under the direction of George M. Humphrey, Secretary of the Treasury, and Rowland R. Hughes, Budget Director.

My staff will keep you in touch with developments while I am abroad, and I will resume our "Washington Cloakroom" discussions personally at the end of next month. Au revoir.

Buckwheat Festival Set For This Month

Take a stack of buckwheat cakes, add a little autumn color for beauty, a pinch of pageantry, stir well for excitement, then you have the ingredients for the fourteenth annual Preston County Buckwheat Festival which will be held at Kingwood on September 29, 30 and October 1.

Added zest for this year's festival will be the opening day dedication of the one and one-half million dollar Preston Memorial hospital, located on a site donated by the Kingwood Volunteer Fire department.

Preparations have been underway for several weeks. On the opening day there will be a parade of fire departments from three states, King Fireman William Miller, of Brandenburg, will receive his crown the opening day.

On the second day Alicia Finn, Arthurdale High school student, will be crowned Queen Ceres XIV. Her court will consist of two maids of honor, twenty princesses, twelve flower girls, two crown bearers, and four train bearers. A banquet and parade will be held to honor the queen and her court.

The Festival concludes with Farmers' Day. A parade will precede the coronation of King Buckwheat, who is selected champion because of his prize crop of buckwheat. There will be contests, exhibits, live stock and pet show. An interesting feature will be a horse show.

Swanton Man Is Hospital Patient

A 25-year-old Swanton man is a patient in Potomac Valley hospital in Keyser with injuries suffered when he drove his automobile onto a fresh concrete Saturday evening, causing his vehicle to crash into an embankment on the Keyser-Piedmont road.

The man was identified as Neil Sweitzer. He was treated for rib and lung injuries.

West Virginia State Trooper Charles Oliver, who investigated, said Sweitzer was driving towards Piedmont on State route 46-W along a section where workmen had poured concrete Saturday. The section was posted for one-way traffic.

Trooper Oliver explained, adding that Sweitzer's vehicle swerved after traversing a short piece of the new concrete and crashed into an embankment. Damage to the car was estimated at $400.

Trooper Oliver said two passengers were thrown from the vehicle.

Charge To Grand Jurors Is Given By Judge Fraley

Duties Of Jurymen Outlined Prior To Beginning Deliberations Tuesday

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley delivered the charge to the grand jurors of the September Term of the Garrett County Circuit court, on Tuesday morning. The duties of the jurymen were outlined by the judge before they retired to the grand jury room to begin their deliberations. His charge follows:

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury: You have been chosen in the manner prescribed by law to serve as Grand Jurors for the September Term of the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

I am sure that some of you have served previously and it will not be a new experience. Others may not have served heretofore and in any event, it is customary for one of the judges to give certain instructions to guide you in the performance of your duties.

It has been said that jury service is one of the highest duties of citizenship, for by it the citizen participates in the administration of justice between man and man and between government and the individual.

The institution of the Grand Jury, as it existed in England at the time of settlement of this country, was adopted by the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of Maryland as a fundamental and integral part of the judicial system in this State. Since then no material limiting change has been made in its procedure or powers. Thus, upon qualification as a grand juror, the same oath that was administered to you was used in England before this country was settled.

The Grand Jury was designed to be a body of discreet and thinking persons called together not to act hastily and impulsively upon an accusation against a citizen and place him upon trial, but to protect the public interest upon the high ground of vindicating the dignity of the public law. In addition to being an accusing body it is a quasi-judicial tribunal. It is your duty to investigate alleged violations of the criminal laws of the State that have been committed in this County. Your function is that of an accusing body. You do not try cases with a view to determining the guilt or innocence of an accused. That is the function of the petit jury. You decide whether or not there has been sufficient evidence produced before you to warrant the finding of an indictment and to bring the accused to trial before a petit jury or the Court.

In your consideration of cases that are brought before you, only legal evidence should be considered. If you desire advice as to what is or is not legal evidence you should consult the State's Attorney, who is your legal adviser. He has no right to advise you whether to indict or not, but he may advise you as to whether certain evidence will be admissible at the trial of the case if you do indict, and your decision may rest upon such advice.

You should consider all of the evidence which may throw light on the matter under investigation, whether it tends to establish the guilt or innocence of the accused. After you have heard the evidence with respect to any charge, you should then proceed to deliberate among yourselves as to whether or not the evidence is sufficient to justify the finding of an indictment and bringing the accused to trial.

It is necessary that at least twelve of your members vote in favor of finding an indictment. An affirmative vote of a mere majority of your members present will not be sufficient to sustain a valid indictment, unless such affirmative vote consists of at least twelve members of the jury.

You are charged that your proceedings are to be absolutely secret pending the return by you of an indictment. Even after the return of an indictment, you should not disclose in any way the nature of your deliberations or how you voted with respect to any indictment. In fact, nothing should be disclosed as to your own body, unless you are summoned and directed by the Court to make such disclosures.

White testimony is being produced before you, the only persons allowed in the Grand Jury Room besides members of your own body are the State's Attorney and the witness testifying before you. After you have heard the testimony in connection with a charge and you are prepared to deliberate on the matter, no one except the members of your body is allowed to be present.

Perhaps most of the cases that will be brought to your attention are ones that the State's Attorney and the other law enforcement officers of the County have already investigated. You may, however, on your own motion originate charges against offenders and if any individual juror has any knowledge of violations of the criminal laws, it is his duty to call the same to the attention of the jury and cause such investigations as seem necessary and desirable.

It is customary for the Grand Jury to inspect the Court House, Jail, Sheriff's residence and the offices of the various County officials in the Court House and to report on the conditions you find, and make such recommendations as seem to you to be proper. You should have before you a copy of the report of the March Term Grand Jury so that you can review its recommendations and make inquiry as to whether or not they have been complied with.

It is the duty of the State's Attorney to be present at your deliberations as expeditiously as possible, but you should not sacrifice thoroughness for the sake of early adjournment.

Upon retiring to the Grand Jury Room, you will organize by appointing two of your members to act as Clerks and one as doorkeeper.

The Clerk will now swear the oath which you will administer to the Grand Jury Room, where you will begin your duties.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

The Retired Gentleman

A group of men in a small town found that life after retirement wasn't all it was cracked up to be. The women still had housework and the same old routine but they felt like something was missing from a limb.

They'd stroll to the postoffice, past the grocery store and other places of business and never a spot to sit and chat for a while. Wishing for the good old days of the country store where there was an iron stove and benches for all loafers, they hit upon an idea.

They would furnish the postoffice lobby with benches. This they did. The club they organized they called Congress.

"It has restored our self-respect," said one gentleman. "When anyone calls for me my wife says, 'He is speaking in Congress this morning.'"

A Modern Fable

The lion met the kangaroo one day in the jungle. As they got close to face he said to the kangaroo, "Who's the king of beasts?"

"Why you, Mr. Lion," he replied with courtesy. "You are the king of the beasts because of your sharp teeth and long shiny claws."

"That's right," said the lion. "It's good you knew that," and went on his way.

Soon he came to a giraffe. Looking up at the high headed animal he asked, "Who's the king of beasts?"

The giraffe was so tall he couldn't see the lion's face. He said, "I don't know, but I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"That's right," said the lion. "I've heard that the king of beasts is the one who is the most useful to his fellow beasts."

"Why you, Mr. Lion. You are the king of beasts because of your sharp teeth and long shiny claws."

"That's right," said the lion, "and don't forget it."

Soon he came to an elephant and asked the same, "Who's the king of beasts?"

The elephant reached down, wrapped his trunk around him, twirled him about a few times above his head, then pitched him against a tree.

Half stunned for a moment the lion growled back: "Just because you don't know the right answer, you don't have to get so mad about it."

One of the biggest surprises that came to them was on the value the boy put on his Dad. When asked "whom they admired most," forty percent of the boys listed their father. The next great admirer was the coach and the star in movie, television or big league was on farther down the line. I do not recall those percentages.

But I do recall where mother stood—and it's little wonder she feels that she's losing her boy at this age. Only two percent listed the mother as the one they admired most!

After the first shock one has only to look the situation over to realize why this is so. It is the age of anything the apron strings and it's Mom who wears the apron.

A Word of Truth
Wherever one meets with youth and engages in organized discussion the same problems come out.

Always among them is the problem that parents don't show enough interest in their teen-agers.

On this occasion a young woman, mother of four and a youth leader, came right back at them that the parents she knew were trying to do everything they knew to do for the betterment of their children.

Every adult in the room nodded in the affirmative to her statement.

Then a youth said, "If they are so interested in all we do why don't they go to our ball games, our programs, our musicals and the like. That's the way we feel they show their interest!"

Smith and Vetter Named as Publication Editors

The appointments of Douglas Smith and Delores Vetter as editors of the Acorn and Highlander, respectively, have been recently announced by Miss Roberta Cogley, Journalism Adviser, and the School Publications' Board of Southern High School.

Smith, a senior, served as Assistant Editor of the Acorn last year and was the writer of the school column, "Southern Speaks," which appeared weekly in the "Republican." Douglas is replacing Sam Ashenfelter, who graduated last year.

Delores Vetter, also a senior, served as Assistant Editor of the Highlander last year and was one of the more active writers on the Journalism Staff. Delores has been a member of the Acorn staff for five years and is succeeding Jamie Glatfelly as yearbook editor.

Both of the new editors were members of a delegation of nine students from Southern High who attended the Southern Interscholastic Press Association Meeting in Lexington, Virginia, late in April. There, they attended discussion groups led by professional journalists and were exposed to many journalistic techniques.

As of yet, assistant editors have not been chosen for this year, but several candidates are being considered for the posts and the announcements will be made in the near future. They will be selected from the Journalism Class.

With these new editors, the "Acorn" and "Highlander" will begin their 29th and 4th years of publication, respectively.

Stop the Litter

Abolishing litter on American roadsides, parks, beaches and all public places continues to be the concern of governors as they call upon all to continue to support the education programs directed to the individual citizen's responsibility for fostering care and cleanliness.

Although the litter problem is national, it can be solved only on the local level. The solution is actually very simple. Each community must solve its own trash problem. Each citizen must accept his individual responsibility not to throw trash on the streets, highways, in the parks or other public areas, but to put it where it belongs, in a trash container.

It is basically a problem of education, and along with this education must come more and better facilities for trash and garbage disposal. Trash containers are needed wherever there is potential litter.

The first goal of keeping Maryland beautiful is to educate the public to the trash can habit. Elimination of litter, however, is but the first step to Keep Maryland Beautiful.

The problem is not one of just today or this week, but will of necessity be a continuing one. Every hour we see some child or adult unwrap a popsicle, candy bar, or whatever, and unconsciously drop the paper to the street. Almost every day we see some child or adult open a car window and throw out all kinds of waste paper, trash, and even cans and bottles. One could easily make himself a public nuisance by bringing such acts to the attention of every individual who does them, but surely it would not be too long before even the most careless at least became conscious of their responsibility.

Providing stiff penalties and fines for those who are convicted of littering may be of some help, but it won't cure the problem. The cure will be one of education, year after year. We can all be teachers, but we've got to learn the lesson ourselves before we can do an effective job of teaching.

Area To Return To Standard Time

Garrett county residents will officially return to Standard time next Sunday morning at 2 o'clock. Daylight time has been in effect in the county since Sunday, April 23. Persons will turn back their clocks one hour when they return on Saturday night and thereby pick up the one hour that was lost last April 23 when daylight time officially went into effect.

Some of the metropolitan areas won't change over to Standard time until the last Sunday in October. They include New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, and Pittsburgh.

No changes have been announced in train schedules. They will continue to operate on Standard time as has been the case throughout the summer months. Eastbound schedule includes No. 24, 1:43 a. m.; No. 30, 10:37 a. m.; No. 12, 6:15 p. m.; westbound: No. 23, 2:56 a. m.; No. 11, 1:21 p. m.; and National limited, train No. 1, at 10:57 p. m.

This week also will bring the autumn equinox, which signifies the end of summer and the beginning of autumn. This will occur on Friday, September 24, at 2:42 p. m., EST. This is later than last year by five hours and 46 minutes.

The year's two equinoxes, spring and autumn, occur when the sun is directly over the equator. Then day equals night.

Seek Old Toys

The Oakland Moose lodge is seeking for old toys which could be repaired and be distributed to the underprivileged children at Christmas time.

Re-Establish Mail Service at Park

Direct mail service was partially re-established at Mt. Lake Park, effective September 19. It was announced this week.

J. N. Sparks, district transportation manager, and L. L. Penrod, district manager for the Post office department, were in the area last week and after an investigation, the former issued an order stating that direct exchange of mails between train 30 and Mt. Lake Park would be established daily, except Sundays and holidays, effective Monday.

This will allow direct mailing on trains at Mt. Lake Park, the practice of which was discontinued several weeks ago. At present, other mail for Mt. Lake Park comes to the Oakland postoffice and is dispatched to Mt. Lake Park by truck both morning and afternoon. With the change now in effect, George Perkins, postmaster, will dispatch a first class pouch on train 30 which will allow mail that is postmarked after 8 a. m. to be sent out promptly.

Dr. J. Warren Hastings, minister of the National City Christian Church in Washington, D. C., will be the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Oakland Rotary club on Friday evening at 6:15 o'clock, at the Williams-James hotel in Oakland.

Dr. Hastings has contributed articles to many religious periodicals and magazines. He has been guest speaker in many state conventions. In the summer of 1949 Dr. Hastings went to the Orient on a special mission for the United States government. He was the Protestant representative on a team of four people: a Rabbi, a Priest, a University president and a Protestant minister, who spoke in Hawaii, Guam, Japan and the Philippines.

Balloon or Planet?

Balloon or Planet? or maybe a flying saucer? People are ready to argue about the first two, but nobody has claimed seeing the latter. On Monday afternoon a number of people saw an object in the sky, fairly close to the sun, so that it was necessary to shade ones eyes from the sun's brilliance before getting a clear view of the said object.

Several persons surmised it was a weather balloon which had been released in the hurricane area to calculate the direction and velocity of winds. But W. C. Englander, an Oakland pharmacist, who makes a hobby of studying astronomy, said he could definitely assure everyone that it was the planet Mercury.

Englander claimed that the planet had reached its most eastern elongation on Monday and could be observed in the vicinity of the sun, and about an hour behind it in time. Mercury at this time of the year is known as the evening star. So take your pick as to what you saw, if you happened to look up into the sky on Monday afternoon around five o'clock.

The Red Oak-Tairview correspondent reported Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davis seeing a large balloon over "Dobbin Hill" on Monday evening. The report said the balloon was slowly drifting directly south and through binoculars it appeared to be very light blue in color and had a large carrier underneath.

Postal Money Orders Are Now Available

A new type money order is now in general use at the Oakland postoffice. The new money order was given a "trial run" over a test period in several major cities and has been approved by the Post-office department. It costs no more than those now issued, and requires less trouble to obtain.

In appearance the new money order looks much like a government check. It is actually filled out by the patron, except for the amount, which is filled in by the postal clerk, and then the money order is stamped, with a protection figure, showing a maximum amount for which it is issued.

In purchasing this new type money order, postal officials here note, the patron is required to do less writing, does not have to fill out an application form, and can obtain his money order in about one-half the time over the former method.

If a patron in filling out his money order, makes a mistake or spoils it, if he returns it the same day he can receive another without service charge.

Dedication of Two Bridges Is Planned

In a double-header ribbon cutting the State Roads Commission will open two new bridges across the Potomac river on Tuesday, October 11.

These crossings are at Kitzmiller and Cumberland. A new third bridge across the Potomac was opened in July at Brunswick, in Frederick county.

Governor McKeldin, assisted by officials of both states, will be present to cut the ribbons formally opening these bridges to traffic. The programs are open to the public.

The Kitzmiller bridge will be opened at 11 a. m., and the Cumberland bridge at 3:30 p. m.

The Kitzmiller bridge, which joins the Maryland town with Blaine, W. Va., will supplant the old iron and wooden bridge between the two communities which is only wide enough to accommodate one car at a time. The new bridge has a 28-foot roadway with 1,200 feet of approaches in Maryland and 650 feet in West Virginia. In addition there will be two sidewalks for pedestrian use between the two towns. This bridge and approaches are being built by the George F. Hazelwood company of Cumberland at a contract price of $311,901.

Seek Work Plan On Building Of Five Dams

Action By County And Town Paves Way For Continued Action

At a special meeting in the City Hall last evening the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, and the County Commissioners, decided to ask for a work plan which might lead to the construction of five small flood control dams in the area. They pledged an expenditure of $40,000, if necessary, to construct these dams through assistance from the Soil Conservation Service and the Federal government.

Some twenty-five or more business men met with the two groups and discussed the proposed plan for over three hours with Maurice Brookhart, chairman of the watershed survey committee, leading the discussion. He was assisted by William W. Nace, district soil conservationist, and Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh.

A preliminary survey of the Little Youghiogheny river watershed has been conducted throughout the summer months and the project has reached the point where, if further work is to be done, it was necessary that the two sponsoring bodies make a definite request for a work plan, to be drawn up and presented to Congress for possible approval.

Should approval be forthcoming from the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Congress, the actual construction cost might be borne by the Federal government to the extent of about 80 percent.

The Soil Conservation service, in its preliminary estimate, suggested the construction of eight dams on Wilson Run and the Little Youghiogheny river, at an estimated cost of $333,000, plus an outlay of an additional $19,000 for channel improvement of the Little Youghiogheny.

In the final analysis the group eliminated three of the eight dams and decided to ask for a work plan to be presented to Congress which would include five dams at an estimated cost of $187,000, with the two sponsoring institutions agreeing to commit themselves for $40,000 over a five year period or longer.

The proposed sites included three on Wilson Run, in the general vicinity of the Loomis property, the Cherry Glade run area and the Winters property; and two on the Little Youghiogheny river, one in the neighborhood of the E. O. Wonderly farm, and one above the lake at Mt. Lake Park, on Broadford.

These five dams would have a drainage area of 8,708 acres, and upon completion would be calculated to prevent any further flood damage to Oakland to around 70 percent over a 196-year period. In Oakland's last flood the total damage was estimated at around $70,000.

With the request for the work plan now official, the engineers of the Soil Conservation service will now continue their survey and will provide information in detail that must be included in the work plan that will be presented to Congress for its approval.

Ned Kennedy Dies "With His Boots On"

Ned Kennedy, 69, Tacoma, Wash., rancher, who rode a horse to Washington, D. C., in 1948 died "with his boots on" on September 14 while on a horseback trip in the White Pass area.

Widely known as "Uncle Ned," Kennedy owned the Horse and a Half ranch resort southeast of Tacoma until recently.

Kennedy and his ranch foreman, Cecil Carey, made news in 1947 and 1948 with their cross-country horseback ride to see President Harry S. Truman. The trip took 8 1/2 months. Kennedy left Tacoma May 19, 1947, with his nephew, Skip Kennedy, Holly Hollingworth, five horses and a pack mule, Skip, Holly and the mule got as far as Chicago and dropped out. Carey joined Kennedy there and they made it to the nation's capital February 7.

They became known in Garrett county when they stopped with the Herbert Ritchies for a short visit at Red House and a year or so later returned for another visit. They made frequent stops along the way to hunt and fish.

After being greeted by the President they returned to Tacoma by station wagon and trailer.

Kennedy was born in Duluth, Minn. Survivors include his wife and two sisters. The body was buried in the family plot at Duluth February 7.

With The Guard

Some of the members of Co. "C," participated in activities other than regular drill during the past week. On Saturday afternoon, the unit provided color bearers and color guards for the parade in Oakland.

sponsored by the cheerleaders of Southern High, to promote interest in the football game that afternoon at Southern's field. On the same evening the men motored to Davis, W. Va., where they performed the same duties in the Fireman's parade. On Sunday, a firing squad was provided as part of a military funeral at the Oakland cemetery.

Instruction last night was under the direction of Lt. James G. McRobie, who instructed in rigging. Rigging is a phase of engineer work that requires the use of rope and block and tackle. A man who works with this rigging equipment is called a Rigger. A Rigger is capable of constructing gin poles, tripods, shears, etc., which are used to make the work of an Engineer just a little bit easier. These apparatus are used to lift trestle bents into gorges, engines from vehicles, heavy timbers, etc.

Sgt. Donald H. (Pansy) Himebaugh, Unit Federal Caretaker, accompanied by Cpl. Richard Criss, made a trip to Havre De Grace, Md., which is the location of the United States Property and Fiscal Officer. This trip was made to turn in some trucks that were borrowed for use by this unit at summer camp. Some radios were also turned in for modification. Regular supply allowances were also picked up on this trip.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

The Stage of the Green Cherry "That poor lad," I thought to myself as I saw a German exchange was introduced at an assembly in a circus camp and then asked to say a few words. Tall, blonde and handsome that he was, I somehow got stage fright for him as he walked to the front. I wondered what he wanted to say to 300 lively American girls that would be of value.

Before he finished I realized it was not what he was saying to me, a mother, that was of real value. He was telling about his work in his home land.

A widow in his community had asked his help.

"My son," she said, "is getting impossible for me to manage. He resents me when I correct him, he feels he should go his own way without consulting me. He is rough and uncouth. He seems to be losing all I ever taught him."

"He was once a well behaved youngster. When folk came he showed them courtesy. He would shake hands and smile. He was considerate of his younger brothers. He was a beautiful child."

"He has lost his nice ways—he even resents me," the widow sighed.

"I was looking out a window," continued the lad, "at a cherry tree that was in bloom."

"I see those blossoms," I said to her.

"They are beautiful," she replied.

"Are they not like your son when he was small? In a few more days the petals will drop and then what will you have? Green bitter berries. And so it is with your boy. That is the story, he is now in."

"Just as the cherry, he too will outgrow that. But without the early bloom and the sour bitter stage he can never attain that fine full stage of manhood."

"Later I talked to that boy. I asked him if he would try to do better. He said he knew he wasn't behaving right but that every time he tried to do something he did it wrong."

"I know ever things," he said, "I jump into doors. My feet get in my way. I don't really mean to do all the things I do."

That was the rosy cheeked lad's story to teenage girls about early teenage boys. But I, a mother, understood its meaning more than they. I wished I had had that story a few years back—when at times he cherries seemed green and bitter.

I feel thankful for his little story and I hope whether they are mine or someone else's boys that I can look past the little green cherries to the season when they will be fully ripe.

This I Will Tell My People

On another occasion I heard a young lady from a foreign country here with the IPYE program—speak to a group of American 1-10ers. I'd like to share with you her talk as I remember it.

"I am here to learn your ways. I go from one state to another learning new ways with agriculture and machinery. But what I like best about America is its spirit. That spirit I feel here in this place. I like what I see here."

"During one of the camps I visited, a family was brought here as flood refugees. I noticed one day an older girl washing and hanging up clothes and caring for younger children. Her mother was dead, she was carrying the responsibility."

"I will never forget what she said, 'the foreign girl continued, 'in vesper, about a happy home. How each member of the family helped, how they all had hobbies."

"She made a talk on her happy home—when just two days before it had been washed away."

"That story I will tell my people. It will help them understand you."

Ike Will Decide
Quite clearly, the struggle now going on within the Eisenhower Administration is the most serious and far-reaching that has occurred since it began. Certainly, it presents the President with what perhaps is the most vital decision he has had to make since his inauguration. The question, of course, is

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

One of the things that seldom happens in government without being subjected to any pressure, has asked Congress to give his department less money than it has been getting. And even more unusual, the savings has been made possible by the application of common-sense thrift and hard-headed business practices in government.

The full story is enough to make taxpayers all over America toss their hats in the air and give three cheers for the man responsible. He is William H. Brett, Director of the Bureau of the Mint. Congress accepted his self-imposed budget reduction of about 17 percent, but since the Mint's operation is so relatively small as compared to other government operations, Mr. Brett's outstanding example of public service has gone almost unnoticed.

Mr. Brett became Director of the Mint just a year ago. He is an Alliance, Ohio, manufacturer. He accepted the appointment at considerable sacrifice. After he looked over the Mint operation carefully, he reported to Treasury Secretary George Humphrey that certain operational changes ought to be made for efficiency and economy. Mr. Humphrey told him to make them. He did.

Since the Mint's budget is a comparatively small $3,650,000, the money savings to taxpayers will amount to only about $800,000. The important thing about Director Brett's accomplishment is the pattern of efficiency and economy established. If it were applied throughout the government it would permit the balancing of the Federal budget and tax cuts as well.

Mr. Brett did several basic things that might well be established as operational musts in every government bureau and agency. Upon taking the job he made a realistic study of the operation. With the aid of experienced members of the staff, he worked out an efficient program of operation. He went directly to the people he served—the banks—and asked for cooperation in improving efficiency and cutting expenses. He abolished more than 100 jobs. And he helped find jobs in private industry for the people whose jobs he eliminated.

If enough taxpayers wrote to Mr. Humphrey, suggesting it, perhaps Mr. Brett's accomplishment could be publicly commended in a high-level White House ceremony. It might do some good.

Whether to slice again the huge appropriations for defense in order to balance the budget and maybe make possible a tax reduction in an election year.

The amount thus to be saved is $1,000,000,000 and if that much can be found anywhere except in the defense funds it has not yet been suggested. As to the wisdom of making so deep a cut there are strong arguments on both sides.

Naturally, the leader of the budget balancing forces is Secretary of the Treasury, George Humphrey. By many Mr. Humphrey is regarded as the ablest member of the Cabinet. He is personally close to Mr. Eisenhower who has the highest regard for him and he is miles above any petty, selfish or political consideration. He is firmly convinced that the economies demanded can be made without seriously impairing our military strength or risking the national security.

The great bulk of the business men of the country support this position. In addition, there are powerful R-Republican politicians who feel that any course would be a mistake. In between is Mr. Eisenhower. The decision will be his and the responsibility is very great. It is true that in his 1952 campaign his chief promise to the people was that if

In my book no living American is better qualified to speak authoritatively on the subject, "Our American Way of Life," than ex-President Herbert Hoover. On the occasion of his 81st birthday, August 10, 1955, in an address over the Columbia Broadcasting System Radio Network, originating from Newberg, Oregon, where he spent his boyhood, "The Chief" concluded his remarks by highlighting some facts regarding our American civilization.

It was an inspiring message from elected men who would balance the budget. It is true, too, that he is anxious to keep that promise. It is further true that the budget balancing, whether accompanied or not by a tax reduction, would make him unbearable for a second term.

On the other hand he is a soldier as well as a statesman. He knows that the danger of war was not completely obviated by the Geneva conference. As well as any man in the world he knows how to evaluate Russian promises and what it cost us after both World War I and World War II to let down our guard and weaken our defenses. Naturally, he would understand the Pentagon point of view and the effect of a second big reduction in defense funds upon our allies. This point of view has received effective endorsement from Mr. B. M. Baruch, who has been an advisor to many presidents, though, as he says, they by no means always have taken his advice. Few would contend that the nation would not be better off if they had.

On this subject he recently said:

When World War II ended we and our allies recklessly and foolishly dismantled our armed forces. The Soviet Union did not. I have always felt that one of the main causes for the failure of the peace has been the fact that we dismantled the armed strength of the Soviet Union and the defenses of the West.

I have opposed—and will continue to oppose—reducing our armed forces until that gap is overcome. Although we may be somewhat stronger than in the past, the defenses of the West are still largely on paper. Without an adequate military force in western Europe, peace cannot be made and kept.

Whatever this country does undoubtedly sets an example to the rest of the world. We cannot expect any of our allies all of whom suffered so much in the last war, to do more than we do ourselves. If we slacken our efforts, we must expect others to slacken theirs. The mortal risk threatens that the whole of NATO and all the peace could be lost or made ineffective. That was my position when a "stretchout" was inaugurated by the previous administration. That remains my position.

Whatever the President's ultimate recommendation on this vital issue is not, of course, known. Undoubtedly, there will be a somewhat bitter and prolonged debate in Congress when it reconvenes in January about this situation there are two things which ought to be gratifying to the people as a whole. One is that they have in the White House a man whose training, knowledge and experience probably equip him better than any other to make this particular decision. The other is that, however he decides, extremely few who differ with the decision will believe that politics has entered into it. He is not that kind of President. Of that we can be sure.

America's greatest living citizen for those who missed hearing Mr. Hoover over the air, I pass it on. Even those who were privileged to hear it feel sure will be glad to see it in print. Said Mr. Hoover and from here to the end, it is he speaking.

During the last score of years our American way of life has been deluged with criticism. It comes from our own people who deplore our faults and genuinely wish to remedy them. Among these I myself have joined because of my anxieties over mistaken policies and especially the influence of Karl Marx on our way of life. Criticism comes daily from the habit of our political parties to deplore the opposition. It arises from the forthright refusal of the American people to wash their dirty linen in secret. It comes from our love of sensational incidents where villainy is pursued by law and virtue triumphs.

And it comes from the fuzzy-minded totalitarian liberals who believe that our creeping collectivism can be adopted without destroying the safeguards of free men. It comes bitterly and daily from the Communists at home and abroad who would overthrow our American system. And it even comes from free nations whom we have tried to help.

Altogether, if we look at the criticisms alone, we seem to be in a very, very bad way and engaged in our decline and fall.

But we should lift our eyes unto the hills from whence cometh our help. We should occasionally mention something good about ourselves.

We could point out that our American way of life has perfected the greatest productivity of any nation on earth; that our standard of living is the highest in the world. We could point to our constantly improving physical health and lengthening span of life. We could point out that the mechanical genius of our people has, by millions of labor-saving machines, taken the sweat from the backs of most of our people.

In the governmental field, we could suggest that our supposedly decadent people still rely upon the ballot and the legislative hall to settle their differences without a secret police with slave camps. In the cultural field, we could point out that with only about six percent of the world's population we have more youth in our institutions of higher learning than all the rest of the world put together. We could probably enumerate more libraries and more printed serious words than all other 91 percent of the earth put together.

On the moral and spiritual side, we have more hospitals and charitable institutions than all of them. And we could suggest that we alone, of all nations, fought in two world wars and asked no indemnities, no acquisition of territory, no domination over other nations.

We could point to our advancement of the spirit of compassion. We could prove it by the billions

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

Target Zero

Whatever the game—football, baseball or politics—it can be reasonably asserted that a score of 86 to 0 is indeed conclusive if not crushing.

On the basis of an exhaustive roll-call analysis of measures considered by the Senate during the last session of the Congress, it was revealed, only three weeks ago, that I had supported the Eisenhower Administration in 75 of 87 times for a record of slightly better than 86 percent. Yet on September 12, the ADA (Americans for Democratic Action) in releasing its self-serving synopsis assigns to me, and 19 other Senators, a rating of unqualified zero.

It might be asked, with logical of dollars we have made as gifts to save millions from famine and governments from collapse.

Much as I feel deeply the lag in giving an equal chance to our Negro population, yet I cannot refrain from mentioning that our 11 million American Negroes own more automobiles than all the two hundred million Russians or the three hundred million Negroes in Africa.

All of which is not boasting, but just fact. And we could say a good deal more.

What does all this mean? It means that freedom of mind, of spirit and of initiative still lives in America. It means that our people are strong in religious faith. Here alone are the open windows through which pours the sunlight of the human spirit. Here alone, even with all its defects, is human dignity not a dream but an accomplishment.

These ideals of freedom and religious faith guarantee there will be no decline and fall of American civilization.

Sunday School, 7:45 p. m., Friday, Worship service, Millie Moats, speaker.

concern how is it possible for a Senator to be rated 86 percent on one day and 0 percent the next?

The explanation is simple when the machinations of the ADA are exposed to scrutiny. Apparently having first decided that a few "perfect liberals" were to have a rating of 100 percent, and second, that Senators Knowland, Bricker, Bridges, Butler, Goldwater, Millikin and others were to be absolute "zeros" by the same yardstick, the ADA seems to have deliberately selected issues which would prove this foregone conclusion. Intentional deceit is suggested in the fact that these self-certified saints of American liberalism chose only 9 of the 94 roll call votes taken during the First Session of the 84th Congress, and further perverted the record by adding one issue from the Second Session of the 83rd Congress.

In "stacking the deck," ADA blithely ignored the traditional respect of the American people for truth and knowledge. They also underestimated the political integrity of the "zeros" and others like Senators Byrd of Virginia, Russell of Georgia, Daniel of Texas, George of Georgia, all of whom made very poor showings according to ADA standards.

Each of these Senators, and a host of others I am confident, feels as I do that the United States, its people, and its institutions are not to be compromised by pressures from alleged "liberals," whether they be merely misinformed or misinformed, or motivated by political theories inconsistent with, or at complete variance with those upon which our great Nation is founded.

Buckwheat Cakes The Preston County Way

Here is the way to make buckwheat cakes by the original Preston County recipe:

(Approved by Miss Roxie King who has mixed batter and baked cakes at every Preston County Buckwheat Festival.)

1 quart lukewarm water, 1/4 cake large household yeast, thicken to stiff batter with 2 1/2 cups Buckwheat flour and 1/2 cup wheat flour. Cover and let rise overnight.

Next morning dissolve 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons sugar in 1/2 cup milk, and enough warm water to make batter thin enough to bake. Bake what is needed to serve, and place rest in the refrigerator as a starter.

To renew at night (or at least three or four hours before use), add 1 cup lukewarm water to starter, 1 cup Buckwheat flour, 1/4 cup wheat flour. When ready to serve, do as above (dissolve 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons sugar in 1/2 cup milk, and enough warm water to make batter thin enough to bake the second time). One does not need to use more yeast for several mornings, then use, as Miss Roxie will tell you, only a "pinch" (about 1/4 teaspoon).

Pays Three Cents For New Automobile

A new automobile for three cents! That's not all the story but it's all the money paid for the car by Capt. Mary J. Orbin, USANC, Baltimore, formerly of Kitzmiller, who is stationed at the Aberdeen Proving Ground army hospital.

When Capt. Orbin bought a home in a new housing area being constructed in Baltimore by a firm, she became eligible for the car in a "Why I Bought A Northbrook Home" contest. She forgot about the entry blank but found it by accident the day before the contest deadline and a hastily completed "230 words or less" was postmarked minutes before midnight the next day.

Capt. Orbin's next thought on the entry was early last week when notified that she had been named the winner and owner of the new auto.

Capt. Orbin, who learned to drive only last year, received her car at an official presentation on Sunday. The prize-winning nurse resides with her mother, Mrs. Julia Yokon, in Baltimore. She is a veteran of 12 years in the Army Nurse corps and is on duty in the hospital's obstetrics ward.

Discovery of a vast new blue-green area, believed to be living vegetation, on surface of Mars, was reported by National Geographic society.

President Eisenhower called on leaders in world of sports, education, and other fields "to help our young people become physically fit and therefore better qualified for modern life."

Play It Safe

For the protection of our community, I feel compelled to re-state the possible effect upon our land owners who sign the Unit Operation Agreement that is being used here in the Accident area by the firm of Snee and Eberly.

If you sign their agreement, it will give to them the right to pay you royalty on only a small part, or even none at all, of your land, in case a productive well is drilled within the pool. It will tie up all your land for an indefinite period of time, extending many years into the future, and as long as there is a well anywhere in the pool. It is a virtual blank check giving them all the advantages. There is no limit to the amount of land they can take into the pool. In some cases they have taken in up to twelve hundred acres. After they drill, if they strike gas, they can throw out a part or all your land, or they can pay you royalty on only a small number of your acres and call that "In Pool," and throw out the remainder of your land and call that "Out Pool." The decision is with them, you can do nothing about it if you sign their agreement. Bear in mind that the land that they call "Out Pool" will be tied up for as long as there is a well anywhere on the vast acreage in the pool which they can still increase to still greater acreage after you sign their agreement.

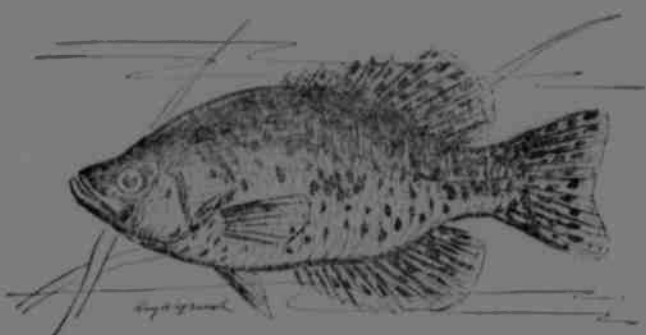

It may be desirable to pool our land with that of our neighbors in order to make up enough land to drill upon, if we can get the right kind of an agreement. The agreement should stipulate the number of acres to be taken into the pool. It should require them to pay a royalty on all the land covered by the agreement in case a productive well is drilled. But, under the type of agreement they are trying to get us to sign, a man could have five hundred acres of land, and after we sign their agreement they could take in only a few acres as "In Pool," or even none at all, and yet hold the entire five hundred acres, as long as there is a well any place on the lands which they have tied up together under their unitized agreement. This is not a fair contract, and after signing it a man could easily be defrauded out of his rightful share of royalties, and out of his normal rights to lease the portion of his lands not bearing royalties to another company to drill upon. The main purpose, however, is to tie your land down and prevent other drillers from getting in.

In order to compel the signing of their one-sided agreement they have recently set their drilling rig up only a short distance from land owned by a man who has refused to sign. They had Nine Hundred Acres signed up in the pool without his land, but instead of keeping a safe distance away they are now drilling so close that if gas is found, his property will suffer damage from drainage. Yet, if he signs their agreement, they will have the power to throw out a part or all of his land, and if they do so he will have no recourse. Even if they keep all his land in, he will be forced to share with any number of acres they decide, and his percent of the royalty from the well would probably be insignificant. NOW, IT IS OBVIOUS THAT WE NEED A LAW TO PREVENT THEM FROM FORCING OUR LAND OWNERS INTO SIGNING A DISADVANTAGEOUS CONTRACT. The law should keep them a safe distance from our boundary line until they have made a satisfactory agreement. Mutual trust is not the right answer so long as they try to force our people into signing one-sided agreements. People who would do that cannot be trusted. In the absence of any law, the surest way to protect ourselves is by keeping our names off of one-sided contracts. If they threaten to take your gas anyway, if you don't sign, a way will be found to help you.

ACCIDENT, MARYLAND

CRAPPIE

(White Crappie: Pomoxis annularis)
(Black Crappie: Pomoxis nigromaculatus)

These two species are so similar in looks and habits they are here treated together. Neither are natives of Maryland.

RANGE: Both species originally found east of the Rocky Mountains and from Canada and Great Lakes south to Florida; especially abundant in Mississippi Valley; found in rivers, lakes and ponds; they have thrived in Maryland and afford sport and food to many, especially in impoundments; also can be found at heads of some of our fresh tidal waters, mostly in spring.

DESCRIPTION: Both species are a dark mottled olive green, with darker green splotches; the white crappie has from 5 to 7 spines in the dorsal or back fin, while the black crappie has 7 or 8; also the black crappie has a slightly deeper body and usually a darker appearance; average length about 8 inches; one or two pounds is considered large, although specimens have been reported up to 3½ pounds; one identified at the University of Illinois as a cross between the white and black crappie weighed 4 pounds 2 ounces. Sometimes called calico bass.

BREEDING: The male prepares the nest and after the eggs are laid and fertilized, he guards the net; also the young for a few days after hatching; spawning takes place in spring when the water has reached a temperature of 64 to 68 degrees F.

HABITS: Both species gather in schools; found mostly along shores and around bridges in lakes, and below dams. They feed on insects, worms, crayfish and especially on small live minnows—the angler's best bet; it is a slow biter.

MANAGEMENT: Food, cover and unpolluted waters are essential; with these, both species will prosper with little legal protection; at times and in certain waters they become so thick that growth is retarded, and to obtain large specimens they must be thinned out.

VALUE: Crappies are valuable commercially and the take for this purpose in the United States probably exceeds a half million pounds annually; its value for sport exceeds its commercial value in most waters. Wherever it is taken it provides a very large amount of fine food.

ONE WORD . . .
Can Change Your Life
By REV. ROBT. OLEWILER
Pastor, Grace Reformed Church
Washington, D. C.

MOODS
What is your mood today? Are you cheerful, sad or lonely—lonely with the emptiness a broken family circle brings when loved ones are torn apart? Or maybe you're just tired trying to figure things out. After all, the mystery of this life in a world where people haven't yet learned how to live with each other without killing each other chills your blood and drops your heart to the pit of your stomach. No doubt you feel like crying with the Psalmist: "O why is my soul disquieted within me?"

If that is your mood today, then clear the way for someone who lives in the heavens above and on the earth beneath, but who would much rather make His home in your heart right where you need Him most. Yes, the most desirable tenant is God, who can, if you let Him, reduce your wickedness and run out your fear. You'll be wonderfully surprised what God can do about your moods the word that can change your life.

Meet The Students

This week Southern High of Oakland, presents to the public two of its outstanding senior students.

Samuel Moore, known to his classmates as Sam, is the eighteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Moore of 110 Wilson Street, Oakland.

Sam is president of Southern's Student Government, an organization which assumes the responsibility for much of the student activity within the school. He was elected to this position in a school-wide student election last spring. This is the fifth year that Sam has been an active member of the Student Government. Two years ago he was chairman of the school handbook committee and was largely responsible for making the publication of the handbook a reality. Last year he attended the Maryland Association of Student Councils' Convention in Bladensburg.

Sam is the school's student photographer. He was responsible for almost all of the photography used in last year's Highlander, Southern's yearbook. This year he is photography editor for both The Highlander and The Acorn, the school's student newspaper.

Last spring he attended the Southern Interscholastic Press Association Convention in Lexington, Va. Sam is a member of Quill and Scroll, the national honorary society for high school journalists. Sam won a Certificate of Merit in the 1954 National High School Photographic Contest sponsored by the Eastman Kodak Company.

He was also chosen by Southern as one of the students to represent the high school last year on the trip to the United Nations which was sponsored by local organizations.

Sam has been a member of the Southern Senior High School band for three years. Previous to that he was a member of both the Elementary and Junior High Bands. He has spent approximately six years in school bands. He plays the bass drum.

He has been active in scout work. He is now an Explorer Scout. He is a junior assistant scoutmaster of the Oakland troop. Sam recently received the "God and Country" award, the highest religious honor to be given in scouting by the church.

He is a member of St. Paul's Methodist church, where he belongs to the Youth Fellowship and sings in the senior choir.

Sam's activities and hobbies indicate that he hopes to make some phase of religious work his vocation. He also intends to continue his interest in photography.

Beverly is taking the academic course and has succeeded in maintaining her position as an honor roll student.

She has been chosen as this year's head cheerleader and can be seen directing the student cheering sections at the games.

She is an active member of the Girls' Athletic Association. Last year she was vice president of the group.

Art is Beverly's main interest. Her work in this field has received much commendation. She hopes to include further training in art in her plans for the future. This is the second year that she has been an art editor for both The Acorn and The Highlander. She has displayed her talent in art in other art activities in the school. She has submitted entries in the local art contests and has received honorable mention. Last year she was president of Southern's Art club.

Beverly also attended the Scholastic Press convention in Lexington. She, too, is a member of Quill and Scroll.

Her activities outside of school include her church and the Teen-Age club. She is a member of St. Mark's Lutheran church in Oakland, and the Luther League.

Beverly's two main hobbies are her art and the designing of clothes. These hobbies indicate her desire to attend art school after she has graduated from Southern.

Mountain Top Wins Summer Shoot Title

Mountain Top of Oakland captured the Western Maryland league's summer smallbore rifle championship on Sunday evening at Oakland, by downing Heracles 1598-1168 to 1594-1028. Climaxing a hard-fought regular series which ended in a three-way draw among Mountain Top, Heracles and Fort Hill, the Garrett countians crashed through the shoot-offs to top the league crown.

Won with the championship was a leg on the Times news outdoor league trophy, a plaque from the National Rifle Association, and various team and individual awards given by the Western Maryland League.

Jack Fulk and Bob Can topped the Mountain Toppers with 400 possible, closely supported by Merle McClintock and Randall Sims with 399, each tied total for the losing Heracles gunners was Jim Gosh with 399-268.

Shooting for runner-up honors at the Frostburg range Fort Hill beat LaVale with a perfect team score of 1600-1318 against 1594-1028. Fort Hill was knocked out of the shoot-off last week by Mountain Top, so the too late "possible" team score served only to crack the previous record set by Heracles on August 28, 1600-1178.

The match consisted of 20 shots each at 50 and 100 yards. Telescope sights were used.

Arrangements will be completed soon for the Mountain Top team to fire a score in the National Rifle Association's summer league state and national championships which are being conducted all over the nation. The scores for Mountain Top: C. F. Fulk, 200-165, 200-138, 400-298, R. L. Can, 200-178, 200-118, 400-288, J. M. McClintock, 200-178, 199-138, 399-308, R. G. Sims, 200-168, 199-118, 399-298, team total, 1598-1168. Also firing were C. Cathorn, 200-318, E. Michael, 200-218, G. Porter, 200-298, C. Miller, 200-218, M. Willard, 200-188, D. Hedberg, 200-318, A. Harvey, Jr., 200-208.

West German government held fast to its goals of German unity and a peace treaty settlement of the Eastern frontier despite results from Moscow.

Lutheran Conference Set

The annual Conference of the Lutheran Synod of West Virginia will be held in Parkersburg, W. Va., on September 26 and 27. The theme will be "The Daily Vacation Church School," and the topic will be presented by Rev. Harner Middlesworth, associate secretary of the Board of Parish Education, United Lutheran church in America.

Rev. James M. Allan, Bittiger, and Rev. Donald D. Anderson, Keyser, will conduct the program and business of the conference. Each parish in the Synod will send at least one delegate in addition to the pastor. Vacation schools are part of the growing program of weekday religious education throughout the Lutheran church in America.

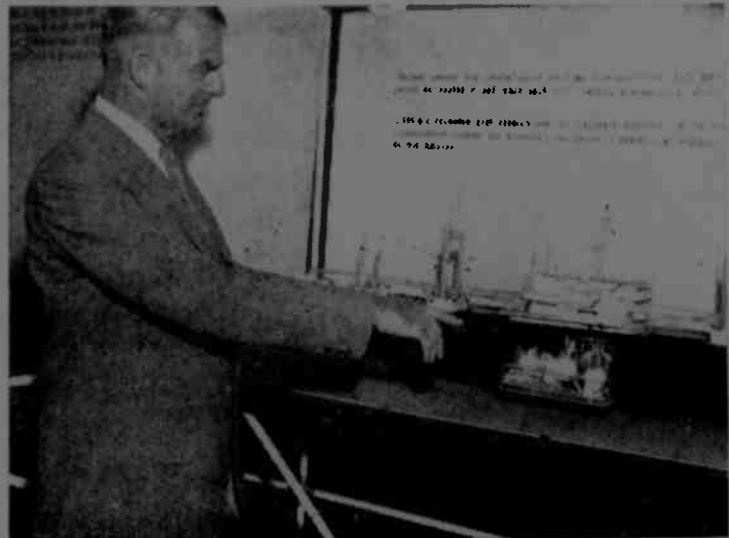

Protect Corn Against Insects

Many Maryland farmers will be getting ready to put corn into storage. Much of this corn will be destroyed by insects and rats unless precautions are taken, said Wallace C. Harding, University of Maryland entomologist.

Before storing corn, Harding recommends a thorough cleaning of storage places. Sweep down the walls and ledges with a good broom or vacuum cleaner, he said. Empty feed bags should be destroyed or given a good cleaning if they are to be saved.

Mice and rats destroy much grain every year and Harding suggests installing a 18-inch band of sheet metal around the base of storage places. And corn cribs, he said, should be at least two feet above the ground.

fumigation is good insurance against insects, Harding said, and he recommends spraying with an ethylene dichloride and carbon tetrachloride mixture. Usage of this ready mixed spray will depend on the tightness of the crib. Corn in cribs that have been tightly lined with lightweight roofing paper or 15-pound asphalt felt building paper should be treated with six gallons of mixture for each 1,000 bushels of corn. Harding advises, "Always follow the manufacturer's directions."

INSPECTS MODEL—U. S. Senator John Marshall Butler (R-Md.) inspects a model of an atomic-powered merchant vessel at the recent "Atoms for Peace" conference at Geneva, Switzerland, which he attended as an official U. S. representative. The production of atomic power to propel merchant vessels was one of the matters considered at this conference. Because of the Senator's interest in the American Merchant Marine this particular subject was of great importance to him. Senator Butler, along with Senator Saltonstall, is sponsoring legislation authorizing construction of an atomic-powered merchant vessel in the United States.

Grantsville Tops Mt. Savage 3 to 1

Johnny Keister's single over second base in the seventh inning scored Bill See and Niles Harper with the runs that gave Grantsville's Sluggers a 3-1 decision over the Mt. Savage team in the opening game of the final playoffs in the Pen-Mar Baseball League Sunday at Grantsville.

With the score knotted at 1-1 Bill See drew his third walk to open the big seventh. Harper also drew a pass. Junior Perry flied to deep left and after the catch both runners advanced a base. After Joe Wengert fanned Keister delivered the hit that decided the initial contest of the best of three series.

Approximately 500 persons witnessed the contest in which Jim Heise, of Scottsdale, Pa., West Virginia university twirler, earned the decision over Bobby Blank. Mt. Savage scored its only run in the first inning.

Grantsville tied the score in its half of the opening frame when See drew a pass, took second on a passed ball and crossed the plate after Perry delivered a single.

The second game of the series is set for Sunday, September 25, at Mt. Savage at 2:30 p. m.

Cabinet Report On Transportation Based on Inaccuracy

So Speaker Declares at Meeting of Maryland Truckers At Mt. Lake Park On Saturday Night

"Fantastic," "inaccurate" and "indignant" were among the terms used to describe the controversial report of the President's Advisory Committee on Transport Policy and Organization by Peter T. Beardsley, of Washington, D. C., director of the American Trucking Association's law department, as he spoke last Saturday night at Mt. Lake Park before Western Maryland Chapter of the Maryland Motor Truck Association. It was the annual dinner meeting of the group.

Hearings on the recommendations of the report were scheduled to begin Monday in Washington before a Congressional subcommittee, and bills intended to alter the National Transportation Policy and amend the Interstate Commerce Act in line with the recommendations have been introduced in both the Senate and the House of Representatives.

Because present freight rates, by railroad, motor carrier, or water shipment, do not "either separately or in the aggregate, produce revenues which are unjustly in excess of the cost of transportation," Mr. Beardsley declared, "the idea of the Advisory committee that the public would receive advantage by the elimination of motor and water carrier competition—which would be the inevitable consequence of its recommendations—is nothing short of fantastic."

If the recommendations of the report are adopted, he asserted, return to their home in Baltimore the last of the week and will be accompanied by Mr. Harold White and family.

GORTNER

Experience is the best teacher, but charges like a specialist. Come to church Sunday morning. Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Welch were Mr. and Mrs. Junior Beeghly and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Alexander.

Mr. and Mrs. James White, of the Gortner apartments, are spending a few days at Table Rock. They will the effect will be to remove Federal controls from a larger area of transportation rate-making, leaving the public and competitive transport facilities helpless.

Beardsley cited a number of what he termed "basically inaccurate premises" of the report. He also pointed out the fact that in 1933 the railroads had their biggest year in history, revenue-wise, and that their income for the first six months of this year was only slightly below the record year of 1953.

A CHILD SLEEPS...

A Child sleeps peacefully... a sleep without dreams. The day just passed has been filled with play, adventure, new learning and discoveries. The day ahead is something to look forward to.

There are no nightmares for this child because there is no fear to kindle them. For it is the fear of the unknown... the fear of tomorrow... that stirs us to unrest.

To look forward to tomorrow tranquilly... as this child does... you must have FAITH. You will find that faith in the Church, and with it you will be able to face, unafraid, your tomorrows, and all they hold.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

A great deal of misinformation is often overlooked, is it helps maintain a family unit even to the extent of permitting a preferential status under the quota for brothers and sisters of American citizens. Significantly too, for the first time, the Act permits the adjustment of status from that of temporary status to that of a permanent resident without leaving the United States.

The Act prohibits entry into the United States of those who would, or who because of criminal acts are socially undesirable to our shores. The law also permits action against those who have entered either on a temporary or permanent basis who commit subversive or criminal acts.

The Act is being administered humanely, sensibly and with due regard not only for the protection of the government but also for the protection of individual rights.

I want to take this opportunity of informing the people of the 6th District that I am to be a delegate to the Intergovernmental Committee on European Migration's annual meeting in Geneva. This is an assignment from the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Immigration.

The most important thing to remember, Mr. Devaney points out, is that the quota limitations with respect to individual countries are exactly the same as in the 1924 law. These quotas have been in effect each year since then. What the law has done, though, is to broaden the number of persons not chargeable to the quota who can be admitted permanently to the United States.

Another feature of the law, which is often overlooked, is it helps maintain a family unit even to the extent of permitting a preferential status under the quota for brothers and sisters of American citizens.

House Of Our God

Lesson for September 25, 1955

WHY support churches? The first thing we need to understand about this, as Christians, is that support of the church is not optional, but a "must." During a year's time every citizen is confronted with more "causes" than most of us can keep up with. We are invited to share in many good works; orphanages, schools for the blind, boys' towns, foundations for the study of various diseases, hospitals for crippled children, the Red Cross, all sorts of things. Most of us have to decide which we shall send our few dollars to, and which not. But if a Christian thinks he has a right to decide whether or not to support the church, he does not understand what the church is. The central reason why the church calls for the support of the people of God is that it is the "house of our God."

Here They Know You

If those poor people in ancient Jerusalem pledged themselves to support the house of God, we who are Christians have even more reason to do so. For one thing, the church is where we really belong. Where else in the world is a person recognized for what he is, a child of God? Elsewhere you are a statistic, a consumer, a customer, a taxpayer, a cost item, a voter. These may be important facts about you. But the most important fact about any human being is not that he is kin to the human race, important though that is. The big fact is that every human being is made by God, for fellowship with him. Every man alive is a child of God. Either he knows that or he does not know it. Vast numbers of the human race live as if they were orphans of the storm, they live pigs' lives like

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

The Golden-Rod is Yellow
The golden-rod is yellow.
The corn is turning brown.
The trees in apple orchards,
With fruit are bending down.
The gentian's bluest fringes
Are curling in the sun.
In dusky pods the milkweed,
It's hidden silk is spun.

These are the words of a poem I memorized many years ago at school, and they tell a vivid story of approaching autumn. I never see a blooming golden-rod without thinking about this poem.

One of the loveliest seasons of the year is the one we are now entering. Nature puts on her most beautiful dress. Summer is past, and we will have shorter days, but all around us will be much beauty and color to enjoy for several weeks to come.

I have always thought there is a sort of quietness and peace about the season of autumn, a time of fulfillment, a time of fruits coming to maturity. There is beauty and promise and harvest in this autumn season. There is time left to gather in and store for winter use the fruits of the fields and gardens we have worked during the summer season to produce.

It is the season of the year when our churches will hold their harvest festivals, when fruits of the fields will be brought to the altars, and we will once again lift our voices in praise to God for His many gifts to us.

These simple and yet so wonderful things that we see and enjoy all around us are one of the reasons I love rural life, and when we are sincerely grateful for our many gifts, we can truly lift our hearts to God in praise and thanksgiving for His wonderful goodness to us.

Topics discussed included "Running a Local Association," "Building Professional Memberships on the Local, State and National Levels," "Conducting a Legislative Program and Developing a Public Relations Program for a Local Association."

Should File Social Security Claim Soon

A considerable number of widows, young children, and aged parents of working people who died between June 1940 and September 1950 have failed to claim the monthly benefits payable to them under a 1954 change in the social security law, announced James E. Robertson, manager of the Cumberland social security office. Those who do not apply for their benefits before October 1, he pointed out, will not be able to receive benefits for all the months back to September 1954, the effective date of the new provision in the law.

Under this provision, it is now possible to pay monthly social security benefits to the qualified survivors of workers who died between June 1940 and September 1950 if the deceased wage earner had credit for as little as a year and a half of work under social security. The families of many of these workers applied for benefits at the time of the family breadwinner's death, Mr. Robertson said, but were told that they could not receive payments because under the law, as it then stood, the worker had not earned enough social security credit to provide survivors benefits for his family.

Where a claim for social security benefits is filed within 12 months of the time a beneficiary is first eligible, his payments can be made to him retroactively for the whole period, Mr. Robertson pointed out. But if a claim is delayed for more than 12 months, benefits for some months will be lost. He therefore urged the survivors of workers who died between June 1940 and September 1950 to get in touch with their nearest social security offices before October 1, 1955. Qualified claimants who apply before that date can be paid benefits back to September 1954.

Monthly benefits under this provision may be paid to the aged widows of such workers who at the time of death had worked on jobs under social security for at least a year and a half—to surviving children under 18 years of age, and to their mothers. Where no widow or children survived the worker, payments can be made to his aged parents if he was providing their support.

RANGE: Originally a native of Asia, transplanted to Europe, and in 1877 brought to the United States, sometimes called German carp. A variety is called "mirror carp." It is found in every part of Maryland in fresh and slightly brackish waters.

DESCRIPTION: Color varies; no teeth in mouth but grinders in throat; there are two barbels or whiskers on each side of the mouth; average weight 1 to 6 pounds, maximum probably fifty pounds.

BREEDING: Spawns in spring in shallow waters; after eggs are deposited and fertilized the parents leave; are very prolific; a 20 pound female carp will yield about 500,000 eggs.

HABITS: Roots in bottom for aquatic plants and tender roots; muddies the water and in so doing dropped them in a pile.

REHABILITATION SERVICES—Having taken up the reading chore where the Senator was forced to break off, we can now report for him on the following:

THE SCHOOL SCENE—The number of children benefiting from the National School Lunch Program has reached an all-time high of 11,000,000, and incomplete statistics on the new school-milk plan indicate that it will also set a record.

In teachers' circles, serious consideration is being given to Vice President Nixon's suggestion that Communism be discussed freely in classrooms so that youth can see its inadequacies.

Meanwhile, the educators are not forgetting the Vice President's statement that "while we are teaching the truth about Communism to our young people, we need also to do a more effective job of teaching the truth about the United States."

Governors Call For Support in Keeping Maryland Beautiful

At the 47th annual Governors' conference in Chicago recently the governors commended all individual citizens, community and state efforts to combat the problem of litter throughout the United States. A resolution, introduced jointly by Governors McKeldin of Maryland, Stratton of Illinois, Shivers of Texas, Lausche of Ohio, Collins of Florida, and Johnson of Vermont, calling upon all governors to advocate continuing support of educational programs directed to the individual citizen's responsibility for fostering care, cleanliness, and concern about the appearance of American roadsides, parks, beaches and all such public places. They complimented state officials for supporting the enactment and enforcement of more stringent laws to deal with litterbugs. The Maryland law carries a fine up to $250 and or 30 to 90 days in jail.

Statistics compiled by Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the national non-profit public service organization, sponsored by industry for the prevention of litter, show that the cost of picking up highway trash in the United States is more than $300 million a year for federal, state and county agencies. In Maryland, the State Roads commission alone spends approximately $118,000 a year in picking up after litterbugs on our highways. The cost is exclusive of the thousands of dollars spent by the state agencies, county agencies and private business in picking up after the thoughtless and careless public.

A survey showed that nineteen senators are older than President Eisenhower, who will be 65 on October 11.

Moorefield Nips Southern, 21-13

Locals Were Headed For Third Touchdown When Game Ended

The charges of Coach James DeMoss gave Moorefield a rough time on Saturday afternoon at Oakland before being beaten 21-13 in the second football game of the season. In its opener last week Southern had played Petersburg to a 6-6 draw.

Football opponents have been finding out that the Southern High gridders really meant it when they said they would be ready to tackle a full schedule this fall, their second of gridiron play.

Moorefield wasted little time in denting the scoring column, leading the opening kickoff and driving 18 yards for the score. Halfback Jim Vetter lugged it over from the ten to cap the march while Mongold booted the extra point, one of three for him.

The Jackets also threatened to score moments later in the quarter when they recovered a Southern fumble on the Highlanders' first offensive play, but their drive fizzled out on the 11 when they lost the ball on downs.

Southern got back into the game shortly after the opening of the second period when quarterback Toby Colaw passed to his cousin, Fred Colaw, with the play covering 82 yards for the touchdown. Fred scampered 65 yards after tucking in the 17-yard aerial. Toby kicked the point after touchdown and the score was deadlocked 7-7.

Mongold dove over from the one yard mark for the Jackets in the same period on a quarterback sneak to put Moorefield in front.

Mongold also added the placement for a 14-7 edge. Moorefield tried an on-side kick that was successful and had the leather on the Southern 32 when the half ended.

Sowers Goes Over

Southern's Allen Sowers' 50-yard run set up the final Highlander six-point in the third quarter. He was brought down on the 18, but on the next play, sliced around right end for the remaining yardage and the touchdown. Colaw missed his attempted conversion.

Moorefield's winning tally came in the last four minutes as Webster recovered a fumble by one of his teammates in the end zone. Mongold added the extra point and Moorefield had a 21-13 win.

The Highlanders threatened to score again near the end of the final quarter, but had their hopes dashed when the clock ran out with third down and only a yard to go for the tally.

Southern will travel to Romney on Saturday to play the School for the Deaf, and will return to the Oakland gridiron on Saturday, October 1, to meet Beall High of Frostburg.

Batting Averages Tabulated

Harold Sharpless, peppery, sharp-eyed little third baseman of the Moose team, led all Little League batters with a .520 average for the 1955 season. Runner-up honors go to the dependable Ken Jones, with a .489 percentage, closely followed by the quiet, fast-ball Moose pitcher, Dick Stuck, with a .476. In fourth place with a .431 is Arthur Lawton, K. P. second baseman, considered the league's most promising 1956 prospect. Official figures, compiled and tabulated by Charles Ray Grubb, Little League scorer, show the following leading batters based on twenty or more times at bat:

Learn a Lesson . . .

A number of persons perhaps, will be inclined to scoff at the plan for an all-out civil defense exercise, designed to teach citizens what to do in case of an atomic attack. They will say, "It can't happen here."

There has been a tendency personally to feel that way myself, feeling that all this energy being expended on civilian defense is a lot of wasted effort. Particularly was I quick to agree with an article in the October Reader's Digest entitled "Nonsense in Civil Defense," which declared a sensible and courageous approach was needed to solve the problem instead of the current propaganda for catastrophe.

The article pointed out how foolish is the theory of mass evacuation from the large areas in case of an atom attack; that such a procedure is one way to induce complete collapse of industrial defense in this country.

It also pointed out that civil defense did not mean saving as many lives as possible, at any cost, but meant training a beleaguered population to take maximum cover, while standing by its machines and workshops, its communications and transportation networks and its vital system of supply; with the duty of civilians to keep things going somehow, no matter what danger may threaten them. With this point of view we are inclined to agree wholeheartedly.

However, that should not stop people from wanting to learn the vital points of civil defense, those activities that will teach people how to take care of themselves in an emergency; and what to do under varying conditions of possible warfare.

Basically there is need for sincere effort in promoting civil defense, but not to get hysterical or outlandish about it. The plans for the exercises on October 8 seem realistic enough and the efforts of the civil defense agency should be given real support.

Buckwheat Festival Starts at Kingwood

The Firemen's hall last night kicked off three days of activity for the 14th annual Preston County Buckwheat festival at Kingwood.

From now through Saturday visitors may get their fill of buckwheat cakes served with maple syrup and sausage. Last year almost 14,000 buckwheat dinners were served at the various centers set up through the town.

Miss Alicia Finn, of Arthurville High school, will reign over the festival as Queen Ceres XIV.

The program was formally launched at 11 o'clock today with the dedication of Preston Memorial hospital. This afternoon Kingwood's football team plays Mason town in the "Buckwheat Bowl" game and W. H. Miller of the Bruceton-Brandanville Volunteer Fire department will be crowned King Fireman for 1955 by State Fire Marshal C. A. Raper.

Completing Plans For Land Week

Final plans for the observance of Maryland Land Week in this area, from October 9 to 15, are now being formulated.

"On the Level," a publication by the Maryland State Soil Conservation committee in cooperation with the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation districts, includes a tentative program which will mark the observance in Garrett, Allegany, Frederick and Washington counties of Western Maryland, which this year are to be highlighted with a four-day tour.

The tour will begin in Frederick county on Tuesday, October 11, progressing to Washington county on Wednesday, October 12; Allegany county on Thursday, October 13, and concluding in Garrett county on Friday, October 14.

Activities in Garrett county, according to Foster Yost, county chairman, will begin at 9 a. m., when the group taking the tour will leave the William-James hotel, Oakland, and will travel to the Duval Farm at Red House for an inspection of cool season vegetables and soil types.

Next on the agenda at 10 a. m., will be a trip to the Little Yorkgheny watershed and planning for flood control. At 10:20 a. m., the Hinebaugh farm municipal watershed, water conservation, tree planting and game management will be observed.

At 11:30 a. m., the group is expected to arrive at the Pleasant Valley 4-H Camp where time will be taken for lunch. During the afternoon "windshield" observations will include wet land, conservation farming and Garrett county scenery.

Another stop will be at Deep Creek bridge for lake development and fish management study. The scenic views of Swallow Falls and Muddy Creek will be seen as well as the virgin timbers.

The final activity on the program will be a visit to the Thomas Johnson farm, west of Oakland, where grassland farming will be observed.

The district conservation supervisors from all over the state are scheduled to meet in Oakland on Friday evening and Saturday morning.

The schools of the county also are planning to carry out various special programs during land week. On Thursday in Allegany county there will be a land judging contest and among the participants will be F.E.A. classes from Northern and Southern High schools in Garrett county.

The objectives of Land Week are to impress citizens of the state with their dependency upon the soil and to acquaint them with the effects of erosion, improper drainage and soil deficiencies upon their health and welfare, and to encourage the use of soil and water conservation practices for those who till the land.

Present supervisors in this county include Foster Yost, chairman; Arthur Fitzwater, Dorsey Guard, Lenwood Bittinger and Harry Hummel with John H. Carter, county agent, serving as secretary, and William W. Nace as work unit conservationist.

Bishoff Is Winner In Regional Contest

George Bishoff smothered all competition in the Atlantic States 4-H tractor operators' contest Tuesday at the Atlantic Rural Exposition in Richmond, Va., and topped first place in the event. Thirteen states competed and Bishoff had a low score rating of 379 points. His nearest competitor was a Florida contestant who made a score of 397, while third place went to a Maine boy with 400 points.

It was the fifth annual regional event, according to James McHenry, assistant county agent, who accompanied Bishoff on the trip, and Maryland representatives have won three of the five, he said.

For winning the event Bishoff received a beautiful trophy and in addition an award of $25. He drove a Ford 600 tractor in the contest and for his triumph the Ford company in Richmond also presented him with a 4-H watch. He received his cash award at a banquet on Tuesday evening and his trophy was presented by Thomas B. Stanley, governor of Virginia, after it was announced that he was now champion of the Atlantic Coast states.

Prepare To Study County Government

The Garrett County Teachers' Association participating with other county units under the leadership of the State Teachers' Association has planned a study of county government. The program is designed to better acquaint teachers with the various agencies of county government and the services they render. Persons now serving in county governmental positions are cooperating as resource people and the teachers will use field trips to visit with them in the various offices they operate and learn from them how their area of government functions. The purpose of this study is to help teachers become active participating citizens in the communities they serve.

The study will include the following areas of county government: The Board of County Commissioners, The County Treasurer's Office, The Board of Education, The Garrett County Welfare Department, the Judicial System of Garrett County, our County Representatives in State Government, and the County Roads Department. The organizational meeting will be held at the Accident Elementary school, Wednesday, October 5, at 7:30 p. m. The Steering Committee of the teachers' association, composed of Robert E. Rodeheaver, Esther Opel, and Merle D. Frantz, will direct the group in registering and give an overview of the areas to be studied.

Killing Frost Waits

Killing frost in Garrett county still was holding off for the time being in weather that was described as typically end of September weather. There was some slight rain during the week, but cloudy weather following the rain continued to hold off frost.

Days have remained moderate with nights cool. Approach of a full moon indicated however it would not be many days before a killing frost hit the area.

State Department Officials To Visit County High Schools

A team of nine officials from the State Department of Education will spend four days in the two Garrett County High Schools, beginning Tuesday, October 4. These visits are being made at the invitation of Willard L. Hawkins, County Superintendent of Schools, and according to State officials it is the first time they have visited any schools as a State Department team. Heretofore, each member of the department has visited the teachers in his or her particular field independently. Mr. Hawkins said he felt that much can be accomplished by visiting as a team, thereby enabling members of the Department of Education to coordinate their efforts and appraisal of the total progress a school is making.

According to the Superintendent both high schools have gotten off to an excellent start this year, as have all other schools in the county, and improvements in a number of areas are obvious. New teachers have become well oriented and in every case are living up to advanced expectations. There is every evidence that Garrett County Schools will enjoy one of their best years, he added.

Members of the State Department team who plan to visit the schools next week and to help teachers and principals in an advisory capacity are:

Dr. James Spitznas, Director of Instruction for the State of Maryland; Mrs. Gladys Hopkins, Director of Curriculum; Willis White, State High School Supervisor; Harry McDonald, State Supervisor of Agriculture; Herschel James, State Supervisor of Vocational Education; Miss Evelyn Miller, State Supervisor of Home Economics; Herbert Steiner, State Supervisor of Physical Education for boys; Miss Ethel Sammis, State Supervisor of Physical Education for girls; Miss Mae Graham, State Supervisor of Libraries.

Melvin C. Cole, president of the Maryland State Teachers' association, will be the speaker. Mr. Cole is elementary supervisor in the Baltimore City schools.

A film showing the shortage of teachers and the need for classrooms, under title of "The Busiest Place in Town," will be presented. The public is invited to attend. Special letters have been mailed to teachers, urging them to attend.

Polio Committee To Outline Activity

A program of activity for the Garrett County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will be mapped out at a meeting of members of the committee and other interested persons, scheduled for Monday, October 17, at the William-James hotel at 8 o'clock.

Ralph Swauger, of Friendsville, chairman of the Garrett county chapter, who announced the meeting, said Charles L. Briner would go to Washington, D. C. Thursday and Friday to attend a workshop called by Basil O'Connor, national president, to plan the program, and that Briner would make his report at the October session.

Swauger said his organization had received an emergency call from the National headquarters asking for all available money because of the large number of cases of polio throughout the nation, and that he had sent the organization $1,007 the first part of September and was holding an additional $1,007 subject to further call. He said this still left about $900 in the local fund for local emergencies. About $300 has been spent this year on patient care within the county. Only one case of infantile paralysis has been reported in the county thus far this year, he being Billy Spiker, aged 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Spiker.

This is in conformance with sections 206 and 209 of Article 66C enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland whereby the Game and Inland Fish Commission shall adopt and publish seasons, size and creel limits for game and fresh water fish in non-tidal waters annually on or before October 25 of each year, only within the prescribed seasons and bag limits as set forth by law.

Youth Under Bond In Theft of Autos

An 18-year-old Cumberland boy was being held in Randolph county jail at Elkins, W. Va., this week under $1,000 bond for action of the October term of the grand jury on a charge of auto larceny.

Two younger companions are being held for action of juvenile authorities and are charged with the same offense.

The trio who were arrested by West Virginia State Police Monday night in Elkins, were arraigned Tuesday before Justice of the Peace G. W. L. Doyle.

State Police said the arrest of the three local boys brought to an end a series of area car thefts which occurred Sunday and Monday.

The driving spree of the trio reportedly began at Cumberland on Sunday night when they stole a car from the rear of Memorial hospital. During their travels to Elkins, cars reportedly were taken in Oakland and from near McComber, three miles from Rowlesburg on route 50.

About noon Monday the Cumberland auto was recovered in Oakland by Tfc. Robert Henline. Meanwhile another car belonging to Carmen M. Monda, of Thomas, W. Va., was stolen from Oakland and later recovered at McComber.

According to police the trio then took another automobile belonging to Ralph Glover of Terra Alta from the location where the Monda car was recovered. Glover's car was later recovered by Sheriff Schooley of Kingwood.

The trio finally was arrested Monday by Lieut. W. W. Murphy of the West Virginia State police detachment in Elkins. Two of the youths were apprehended and the third jumped out of the auto on the overhead bridge in Elkins when the car in which they were traveling became stalled. The third was arrested later. Police said the car was identified as having been stolen from the campus of Davis

Is Your Name SNYDER?

DO YOU KNOW THAT:

SNYDER and its numerous equivalents, such as Schneider and Snider, are old German occupational names that are derived from "schneiden" meaning "to cut." These names were applied usually to a cutter of cloth and therefore are of the same significance as the English "tailor" from which the surname Taylor is obtained.

As indicative of the fact that SNYDER is one of the most popular of German surnames, it should be noted that the Pennsylvania German Pioneers, published in 1924 by the Pennsylvania German Society and showing the immigrant arrivals at the Port of Philadelphia from 1727 to 1908, has 150 references to the name of SNYDER or its equivalents. In the same connection, the first census of the United States, taken in 1790, has eighteen listings of individuals, and Elkins college.

Police said a billfold found in the car recovered in Oakland was identified as belonging to one of the Cumberland youths, connecting them with the Cumberland theft.

Foresters Hear Talks on Logging

Maryland foresters held a week-long conference on logging and its relation to the State Department of Forests and Parks last week at Herrington Manor, west of Oakland.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said 28 foresters participated. Fred Simmons, sawmill expert for the milling and marketing division of the U. S. Forestry Service, spoke on logging methods. Richard Jones, Mark Gordon and Hume Frayer, from the regional office of the U. S. forestry service in Philadelphia, explained a revolutionary new procedure in estimating the amount of timber in a tract.

They showed through talks and actual demonstrations the new techniques in this line by the use of cumulative volume tables that speed up the estimating.

A. R. Bond, assistant forester in charge of woodland management for the state department, issued a new forest management manual that outlines departmental procedures for those who work with private firms in the logging industry. The manual, Johnson said, would facilitate the training of new personnel. The group visited a modern sawmill in Garrett county.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

Adlai Seems Slipping

Political friends of Mr. Adlai E. Stevenson, who a few weeks ago were confident that he would be re-nominated on the first ballot of the Democratic National Convention in August, have lost that confidence. Still—and with reason—they believe he will be re-nominated, but they no longer anticipate that this will be by unanimous vote of the sort that might be expected from the outstanding leader of his party with a real personal following.

In brief, Mr. Stevenson's grip on the nomination and his party prestige have both slipped, at least a little, recently. One reason, of course, is the reluctance of Demo-

$50 Hearing Aid Now On Display At Englander's

Zenith Radio Corporation today introduced a new 3-transistor hearing aid, priced at $50, that has all of the power and performance of many hearing aids selling for more than $200. It was announced by Clinton W. Englander, Englander's Pharmacy, hearing aid dealer here in Oakland.

The new instrument will operate for a battery cost of about ten cents a week as compared to a battery cost of from one to two dollars per week for vacuum tube models.

Englander said that development of the fifty-dollar 50X was a major achievement in Zenith's long crusade to lower the cost of hearing. "Zenith entered the hearing aid business in 1943," Englander stated, "to take the racket out of hearing aids. They made good hearing possible for hundreds of thousands by consistently marketing superior hearing aids at half the average price of comparable competing instruments, and by pioneering new technical developments to reduce operating costs."

He said that Zenith had welcomed transistors for hearing aids because of their better performance and operating economy, but had regretted their high initial cost.

"When the company brought out its first transistor hearing aid for $125," Englander stated, "Zenith pledged the hard of hearing to produce lower priced models as soon as possible, even though the average price of competing instruments at that time was more than $250."

"That promise has been kept," Englander continued. "Fourteen months ago the Chicago manufacturer introduced a new 3-transistor model for $100 and last December introduced the 75X for $75, which equalled the post war price of the company's vacuum tube models."

"Now Zenith has produced the 50X, to bring the cost of a superb 3-transistor instrument substantially below the post-war price of the firm's vacuum tube hearing aids."

Englander said the 50X will open a new world of hearing for countless thousands who because of the high cost have had to do without hearing aids, even though they needed them badly to keep their jobs or make business progress, and to enjoy once more the company of their friends and families.

"The 50X has all the outstanding clarity, efficiency, and operating economy of our other transistor hearing aids," he asserted. "Its savings in battery costs as compared to vacuum tube instruments will save its purchase price in a year or less, and give users the superior performance of this new transistor instrument."

Zenith's traditional after-purchase protection applies to the new instrument, he said. These include a ten-day home try and money back guarantee, a one-year warranty, and five-year service plan. Retail price of the 50X includes a high performance air conduction earphone, cord and stock earmold.

cratic politicians, to renominate a loser—particularly a loser beaten so decisively as Mr. Stevenson in 1952 and who has not since demonstrated any access in vote-getting ability. Another reason seems to be the doubt as to whether Mr. Stevenson has it in him to measure up to the party-leader title. Up to date, ex-President Truman has been behaving more like the party leader than he.

Perhaps Mr. Stevenson's refusal to make personal attacks on the President is wise. Certainly, those that have been made so far have reacted unfavorably and the failure of the Administration to dignify them with a reply has seemed effective. Another liability of Mr. Stevenson's present campaign is the support given him by Mr. Stephen Mitchell, formerly chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Mr. Paul Butler, his successor. Both of these are ardent Stevenson supporters. Neither is popular in party circles. Neither has any political or personal influence. Yet, both have assumed the role of party spokesmen.

Hardly a week goes by in which one or both of these young gentlemen do not burst forth in a violent tirade against the President. Only a few days ago Mr. Mitchell, renewing his old and silly Disunion charges, used the word "corruption" in connection with the President and the White House. Mr. Butler's line closely follows that of Mr. Mitchell. Neither presents facts to sustain their ugly smears, but they are equally violent. Even some of those almost equally close to the good Adlai have come to regard the Messrs. Mitchell and Butler as party liabilities. Contemplation of these two important factors of a Stevenson administration has not increased the desire of some influential party members to put Mr. Stevenson in the White House—quite the contrary.

Of course, the chief stumbling block in the way of a "draft" for Mr. Stevenson is the open contention of New York Democratic leaders that Mr. Stevenson, who lost New York in 1952 by more than 800,000 votes, could not possibly carry it next year. National Committeeman Carmine DeSapio has said this most emphatically, and Democratic State Chairman Prendergast even more emphatically a few days ago. It is conceded that the New York delegation of 96 votes will be for Gov. Averell Harriman, who, while he personally has declared himself for Stevenson, has done nothing whatever to discourage his friends from working for Harriman. A recent poll of Democrats in Maryland shows Kefauver running well ahead of Adlai. In addition, it has been made quite clear that organized labor is just as strongly for Harriman as it is for Stevenson—in fact, more so. Add to all this the fact that Mr. Harriman unquestionably has presidential aspirations and that his age—64—clearly makes 1956 his last chance to realize them. It is easy to understand why Governor Harriman refrains from throwing cold water on the efforts of his friends to nominate him. After all, politics is a selfish business, and there is nothing in this state of affairs to prevent Governor Harriman from being personally for Mr. Stevenson until it seems that he can't be nominated. Conceivably a state may arrive when Mr. Harriman, having discharged his obligations to his friend, could properly call on Mr. Stevenson for support. Of course, such a situation always makes possible the nomination of a compromise candidate, such as Senator Kefauver or Governor Lausche of Ohio. Thus, while Mr. Stevenson remains the front runner and probable nominee, the attitude of Mr. DeSapio, Mr. Prendergast and Governor Harriman has cast some doubt over his nomination. A few weeks ago there seemed no real opposition to him for the nomination. Now, there seems more than a little. It may be that another favorable shift will occur within the next few months. A great many things may happen. However, it is a little difficult not to be somewhat dismayed when the party leaders upon whose efforts you must depend to carry the biggest and most important state in the Union proclaim from the housetops that there is no chance of your carrying it. Yet that is exactly what they are doing.

ONE WORD...

Can Change Your Life
By REV. ROBT. OLEWILER
Pastor, Grace Reformed Church
Washington, D. C.

ONE

Since there are so many people in this big world, how can God take the time and trouble to be concerned about you and your problems? Have you ever wondered about that?

A mutiny once broke out among the men of Napoleon's Old Guard and the risk was very great. But Napoleon knew how to meet it. He sat alone in a little room in his palace. Two larger rooms adjoined this one on either side. The members of the Guard were assembled at the left. Each man was then asked to come in alone with Napoleon and after he entered the door, was shut. Not a word was spoken, but Napoleon clasped the man's hand and looked him full in the face. Then each passed out by the door on the right until the whole Guard, one by one, had met the emperor in this fashion. The mutiny was over!

That's the way God deals with us. In the Gospels how many did the shepherd go after when ninety and nine were in the fold? One. How many pieces of silver were lost? One. How many prodigals re- turned? One. You see, God doesn't work on the scale of millions. He is big enough, great enough and good enough to take care of the needs of His children, one by one, the word that can change your life. Span applied for membership in the United Nations.

Letter to the Editor

3103 Del Rio Road S.W., Albuquerque, New Mexico, September 21, 1955.

Managing Editor,
Office of The Republican,
Oakland, Maryland.
Dear Sir:

Some time ago one of my relatives sent me a clipping out of your newspaper. This clipping concerned the heroic deed of a dog named Tag, whose proud owners are Mr. and Mrs. Chester Rutherford, twin sons Keith and Kent, and daughter Vicki Sue, of Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Tag saved Vicki Sue from possible electrocution by pulling her loose from a live electric wire. Inasmuch as Tag has won national honors by being chosen fifth, out of several hundred contestants, in the national Dog Hero of Heroes Contest of 1955, which is sponsored by Ken-I-Ration Dog Food Company, Chicago, Illinois, I thought you might like a follow-up on this story.

The story really began over six years ago when Tag's mother was befriended by the Rutherfords, when she was tossed from a passing car shortly before Tag's birth. Out of the litter of six pups, Tag was chosen to be kept as the family pet.

It seems that fate placed Tag in the family when six years later he saved the life of his three year old playmate, Vicki Sue. The facts of his heroic deed are that one afternoon last December, Vicki Sue was supposedly taking her nap while her mother was bringing in the laundry from the back lawn. Instead, she busied herself by sticking a bobby pin into an extension cord. The 110 voltage held her fast, pulling both arms high above her head. Upon hearing her screams, Tag rushed into the room, grabbed her by her coveralls, and pulled her loose. The electricity surged through his body, also. This incident left Vicki Sue nauseated and ill throughout that fateful evening and night, and with a scar on her hand which she will carry throughout her lifetime.

Tag's awards for this heroic deed include: a $100 government bond in owner's name, Keith and Kent Rutherford; a silver medal, silver plaque, silver leash and collar, dog blanket, and a six month supply of Ken-I-Ration Dog Food. These awards will be presented to Tag and the Rutherford family by New Mexico State Senator Anderson and other dignitaries at the New Mexico State Fair in front of thousands of people on September 25th. On September 25th, Tag and his family will appear on a one-half hour television program.

I thought perhaps you might be interested in this story since Mrs. Rutherford has many relatives and friends in the Oakland and Kitzmiller vicinity. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Granville Harvey, both of Garrett County. Also I am enclosing an account of the other four winners and their heroic deeds in the Dog Hero of Heroes Contest of 1955.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Wesley Miller

New Industries Are Suggested

Route 43, Box 141
Connellsville, Pa.
September 26, 1955
Editor, The Republican
Oakland, Maryland
Dear Sir:

For years a great deal of concern has been expressed from time to time about the vital need for additional industry in Garrett County—and when I say additional, I mean something besides timber work, mines, and farming.

In the area in which I now live, this same need has made itself impressively manifest in the past decade. Connellsville once was the coke center of the world. Mines hummed with activity and beehive ovens blazed day and night. That time has passed—forever. Many mines are worked out. Others are on their last legs of productivity. A giant employment problem has been developing here for a long time. The entire county needs new industry to take the place of abandoned mines. Gradually, something is being done to overcome the deficiency in jobs. An Industrial Development Commission has been set up. County and town businessmen and Chambers of Commerce are working to bring in new factories. Garrett County could benefit from such planning. Here's why.

A new factory to produce live stock feed is going up in Everson, four miles from Connellsville. Output will be 500 tons daily. It will employ a hundred or so men. This sort of thing would be tailor-made for Oakland. There's a railroad there and, since the feed mill will depend to some extent on supply of local grain, farmers throughout the county would benefit. The mayor and town council of Everson (no larger than Oakland) went after the factory with rattle and hubcap. A site was provided, along with an attractive low-tax agreement. I can't see why Oakland wouldn't be a much better location.

There's a large plywood or laminated wood products plant going up here too. And, not far away, a new Westinghouse plant which will employ 500. A new plant twenty miles from Connellsville will make windshields for older cars—those out of the wrap-around class. Another new plant three miles from Connellsville will make all types of nails, screws, brads, bolts, etc. Still another right in Connellsville, will make uniforms and trousers and other wearing apparel. Almost any and all of these would be good for Oakland. Or, perhaps a lime and time product outfit could be attracted to the area—a really big-time producer. Garrett has some of the best limestone.

Right now, attracting new industries is sort of a competitive thing. West Virginia is working at it; so are many sections of Pennsylvania. The right men contacting the right people can do a lot—no miracles, of course. Just plain reasoning and pointing out of favorable facts—location, materials supply, etc. If railway service wouldn't fully fill a firm's need, Oakland isn't far from coast-to-coast Route 46 and the much-traveled Route 50. It actually isn't remote and hemmed in as many people seem to think, and trailer trucks can move mountains today.

While many state and local officials are working outside the Garrett perimeter to latch onto resident-sustaining industry, it might be a good time for Garrett to put on a good stiff campaign in a like direction.

Sincerely,
Wilbert N. Savage

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

Here are some facts and opinions for Americans to think on as they view the Communist leaders in their unnatural pose of friendliness:

From a speech by William Randolph Hearst, Jr., to the National Press Club in Washington, upon his return recently from interviews with the Red leaders in the Kremlin at Moscow:

"These men can be ruthless. They have been merciless. Certainly no humanitarian considerations would cause them to hesitate to wipe us out if they thought they could get away with it. They believe the end justifies the means. And for them, the end remains Communist domination of the world. Khrushchev said so to me quite frankly. He said they hoped to gain the upper hand one day."

"We heard Molotov tell the Supreme Soviet (the legislative body) and I quote him: 'World civilization will not perish no matter how much it might suffer from a new war.' He predicted that what would perish would be our way of life. That should make it clear enough to us that the Soviet leadership does not rule out war because of its possible effect on civilization. It rules it out for the present simply because of the respect it has for the effectiveness of America's counter-offensive power."

One of the books on my desk as I write this column is "Twilight of World Capitalism." The author is William Z. Foster, ranking leader of the Communist forces in America. Here is the dedication on the flyleaf of Foster's book: "To my great-grandson, Joseph Manley Kolko, who will live in a Communist United States."

From a highly respected information service with authentic sources throughout the world, including Iron Curtain nations (this report from Geneva): "Peace? There will be ostensible peace for from five to six years. . . That is the Soviet objective. . . That is the time they estimate they need to put their house in order. . . They will make every gesture calculated to make the world believe they have had a change of heart. . . Many astonishing decisions will be announced by the Communists from time to time which they expect will change world apprehension."

Nikolai E. Khokhlov, former Soviet Intelligence Agent, in an interview with the U. S. News & World Report: "The spiritual resistance of everyone in the Soviet Union is beginning to bring some evident results. The right name for the nature of the internal troubles now would be 'psychological'."

Member of a Western European Parliament: "From our secret intelligence service our Foreign Office has learned that 'free' elections soon will be announced in Czechoslovakia. . . other 'free' elections will follow in other captive states. . . Nematodes Present In Maryland Soil

Nematodes and nematode diseases are present in Maryland soil and seem to be increasing, according to Dr. W. R. Jenkins, University of Maryland nematologist.

This seeming increase, Dr. Jenkins said, is due in part to a greater awareness of nematodes. He said nematodes have been around for thousands of years, but only recent research has made scientists and farmers aware of the presence of nematodes.

Dr. Jenkins said that intensive farming as we have today has provided more plants that are susceptible to nematodes, thus allowing the parasites to increase.

Nematodes are microscopic, worm-like parasites that live in the soil and feed on the roots of plants. The root knot nematode causes a swelling or knots on plant roots resulting in unproductive plants. Other types of nematodes do not enter the root but remain on the outside and suck the juices from the roots. This latter type of nematode disease has few visible symptoms, thus making detection difficult. The soil must be examined to determine the presence of this type of nematode, Dr. Jenkins said.

There are three generally accepted methods of control, according to Dr. Jenkins. These methods are crop rotation, summer fallow and the use of soil fumigants. Summer fallow, leaving the land idle for a season, starves out the nematodes.

Dr. Jenkins started a three year study of nematodes and nematode diseases last April. "It is too early to draw any definite conclusions," he said, "but we have found plant parasites in every sample studied, regardless of the crop."

A University publication, Fact Sheet 82, "The Root Knot Disease in Maryland" is available from county agents. Farmers may also get information from their county agents about having soil examined.

August Bride

Announcement was made recently of the marriage of Miss Edith Janet Bolyard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wade Bolyard, of Mt. Lake Park, and Roger Keith Gibson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Patterson, of Washington, D. C.

The Rev. W. S. Patterson officiated at the double ring ceremony on Saturday, August 27, in St. Paul's Methodist church, Oakland. Preceding the ceremony Misses Mary Lee and Nadara Rodeheaver sang "Because" and "Whither Thou Goest," accompanied by Miss Shirley Calhoun, guest organist.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a waltz length gown of white over embroidered chantilly lace on net over duchess bridal satin, styled with a fitted basque bodice, long pointed sleeves and off shoulder scallop-contrast neckline. Her tiered fingertip veil of imported bridal illusion was held by a small scalloped tulle, handmade of lace and seed pearls. She carried a white Bible with white satin streamers tied with nosegays of roses and centered with a white orchid.

Miss Peggy A. Metheny, maid of honor wore a strapless ballroom gown of ice blue lace and net with matching cover-up jacket. Her headpiece was made of lace and seed pearls with a small pompadour veil and she wore a corsage of pink roses.

Henry Lee Gibson, uncle of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Willard R. Gibson and Richard R. Gibson, both of Washington.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Bolyard chose a lavender dress of embroidered cotton with rhinestone buttons and white accessories and wore a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Patterson wore a dress of black lace over white satin with white accessories and her flower was a white orchid. Miss Patricia E. Bowman, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the William-James hotel in Oakland. The bride and groom were surrounded by the floral decorations of white flowers in standards, palms and lighted candles. The three-tiered wedding cake was ornamented with a miniature bride and groom and was cut by Beverly Merat, cousin of the groom. Presiding at the punch bowl were the groom's aunt, Mrs. Helen Triplett, and Sarabelle Burrell.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Denzil Flowers, Mrs. Gary Harper, Miss Minnie Dean, Mrs. Loyd Reiger, Mrs. Straus Wolfe, Miss Julia Zilkovich, Miss Peggy Metheny, Mr. and Mrs. David C. Bowman and children, Morgantown, W. Va.; Miss Donna J. Weimer, Miss Katherine Friend, Miss Sarabelle Burrell, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Gibson and family, Washington; Gregory Gracey, and Sheila Wincho, Fairmont, W. Va.; Miss Beverly Merat, Arlington, Va.; and Mrs. Helen Triplett, Middleburg, Va.

The bride is a graduate of Oakland High school and is employed at the Sterling Faucet company, Morgantown. The groom is also a graduate of Oakland High school and a student in West Virginia university.

For traveling the bride wore a gray coat dress of acetate and cotton with gray and white accessories accented with a touch of orange.

Following a wedding trip to Ocean City the newlyweds are now residing at 92 Quay avenue in Morgantown.

Sometimes I wonder if we aren't a monotonous lot to the other kinds of people.

I do rather enjoy the souls who give no thought to money or creation or uplift. They're the "lilies of the field" type. They neither toil nor spin—but usually they're a peek of fun. If the word money were mentioned they'd say, "Money? What's that?" In a most refreshing sort of way. They add to life what fizz does to a soft drink—nothing nutritious but a great deal of sparkle—which is just the uplift that we uplifters need.

Too Young to Marry

Recently I was talking to a girl who had graduated from college this spring about her plans for the future. I knew that she had once dreamed about a career. Since that time the pattern of life has changed.

Girls get married. And very young. Many not waiting to go to college or even to get a job. "I'm getting married" is the tune and chorus everywhere there are young women—and it's a catchy tune.

So, I just took for granted that the young lady would give up any idea of a career other than matrimony. Especially since there's a fine person waiting for her hand. "Oh, no," she replied to my question. "I'm not ready for marriage. I want to work for a while. I'm only 21."

Inwardly I wanted to cheer. That's the kind of talk I've been wanting to hear for some time. I feel very strongly that our present crop of young people—fine that they are—are rushing marriage. There is a period between 18 and 22—for most folks—that's as right for single bliss as a later period is for marriage.

Say what you please, there is something wonderful about a career, and there is also something wonderful about getting married when other longings have been fulfilled.

It's the well adjusted girl who has no fear of being left on the shelf at the ripe old age of 23 that's going to come the nearest to having her cake and eating it too. "Now just mark my word," as an old neighbor used to say.

Six Touchdown Assault Halts Opposition In Saturday Grid Tilt

Southern High school of Oakland broke the win column in fancy fashion last Saturday afternoon by smothering the West Virginia School for the Deaf at Romney 10 to 13. The victory was the first of the season for Coach Jim DeMoss' Highlanders, who had tied Potomac 6-6, and lost to Moorefield 13-6 to date.

Fred Colaw tallied Southern's first touchdown on a 10-yard romp around right end after a blocked punt set up the score. Harold Harsh and Fred Dilgard had blocked a punt on Romney's 20-yard line and Allen Knotts recovered on the Romney 10. On the first play Colaw went over for the score. Toby Colaw's place kick for the extra point was blocked.

In the second period the Highlanders annexed two more touchdowns. Fred Colaw intercepted a pass from Romney's quarterback Popovich on the Romney 42. On a 21-yard pass from Toby to Fred Colaw and ground gains by Fred Colaw and Charles Mason, Southern carried the ball to the 5-yard stripe from which point Charles Mason carried over for the touchdown. Toby's kick from placement was good.

After the Southern kick-off Romney took to the air and added by four completed passes carried to the Southern 8-yard line. On the eight Bob Glaze intercepted a Popovich pass and from this point Southern began its longest scoring march of the day, one of 92 yards. Handicapped by penalties of 15 and 15 yards, Southern was able to reach the Romney 37 from which point Allen Sowers took a pass from Toby Colaw and outlaid the Romney safety man to score. Colaw's placement kick was good and the ball ended 20 to 0.

About midway in the third quarter Romney returned a short punt to the Southern 32. A pass for 15 yards and short ground gains put the ball on the Southern five from where Popovich ran around left end for the score. Popovich passed for the extra point.

Near the end of the third quarter John Ruli blocked a fourth down Romney pass on Southern's 47. After two ground gains by Glaze and Deckman Southern was penalized 15 yards for holding. On the next play Bob Glaze broke around right end for 40 yards and the touchdown. Toby's kick from placement was good and the quarter ended with Southern on the long end of a 27-0 count.

Southern took the ball on a punt early in the fourth quarter on its own 45. Bill Deckman drove over for 45 yards and the touchdown. Toby kicked the extra point and Southern led 34 to 7. Southern scored its final touchdown by returning a Romney punt to their 45-yard line. One successful pass for 20 yards from Toby Colaw to Brohawn and runs by Deckman and Glaze took the ball to the six where Toby went over for the touchdown on a quarterback sneak. The placement kick was blocked.

Near the end of the game Romney started a drive with four successful passes climaxed by a 20-yard heave from Popovich to Buemi which accounted for the score. The point from placement was blocked.

In the final half Coach Jim DeMoss used his entire squad of 23 players.

Home Game Saturday

Another home game is scheduled for this Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock when the Highlanders will meet Beall High School of Frostburg. Last year in Southern's first year of competition the team met the Beall High Jayvees, but this year will tangle with the first stringers.

Beall High has yet to break into the win column, the Mountaineers having lost three in a row the last one to Keyser High last Saturday 21 to 7.

There is a possibility of only one change in the Southern lineup. Mason sustained a slight sprain in last Saturday's encounter and it was not definite that he would be able to start. If not Deckman would be moved to the fullback position.

Grantsville Cops Pen Mar Title

Right-hander Jimmie Perry pitched and batted the Grantsville Sluggers to a 15-2 triumph over the Mt. Savage team Sunday at Mt. Savage. To clinch the Pen Mar Baseball league crown.

The victory gave Manager Logan Wenger's Sluggers a sweep of the final series as Grantsville had capped the opener of the best of three playoff last Sunday, 3 to 1.

Grantsville's pennant winners thus assured themselves of the playoff crown also, racking up their 14th consecutive victory and making the sixth time in a row the Sluggers have defeated Mt. Savage.

Grantsville pounded the Mt. Savage hurler for six runs in the second inning. John Keiser opened the inning with a walk and after Carey fled out to left Gumble was safe on an error at second and Joe Wenger reached first on Blanks' miscue. With the bases full Jack Mort's single brought in the first two runs. Bill Saw walked to load the sacks again and Perry unloaded a grand-slam home run to cap the scoring.

Grantsville broke loose for seven more runs in the sixth before Mt. Savage was able to dent Perry's pitching for a pair of tallies in the same inning. Niles Harper concluded the scoring with a homerun with one aboard in the seventh for Grantsville.

In addition to his home run Perry collected two singles and concluded the day with six runs batted in. Harper also had a pair of singles with his circuit swat. Woodson tripled with two aboard in the

Can Change Your Life

Are you trying to lounge through life or plunge into it?
Remember the Prodigal Son in the Bible? I'm not as willing as some seem to be in dumping this young man into the trash can of human nature. That he wasted his substance in riotous living is true. That he made a wrong choice is beyond denial. He thought he could get more out of life than he needed to put into it. So, for a while, Far Street became his main thoroughfare.

The Prodigal was mistaken. He found that the writer of the Proverb was right: "The way of the slothful is a hedge of thorns." That's just what it is. Before traveling on any further, consider whether you are trying to lounge

"IN REMEMBRANCE OF ME"

For almost two thousand years the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper has been celebrated by Christians everywhere. Though variously interpreted by the churches, though administered with different ritual, it has always remained our unifying bond... the Communion of the Church with her Lord.

On World Wide Communion Sunday Christian congregations all over the globe will assemble to celebrate this Communion. Each will follow its own accustomed usage, exercising the right of religious freedom that the free peoples of the world treasure so highly. And as millions receive the Sacrament they will be conscious of the joyous faith that unites them with one another and with Christ.

This is a century of crisis in which those who treasure their spiritual heritage must stand together... must face with courage the alarming growth and ruthless power of an atheism dedicated to the overthrow of both freedom and religion.

United States Senator from Maryland

As you know, Senator Beall is now attending the meeting of the International Labor Organization in Geneva, Switzerland.

While Senator Beall is on this official visit we on the staff have been analyzing and studying the accumulation of material and found the most interest in the following subjects:

HOME BUILDING BOOMING THROUGHOUT THE NATION—The report of a survey by the Labor Department on September 17 showed that starts on new homes in August surpassed all previous totals for the month except the record year of 1950.

The Department said nonfarm housing starts jumped 8,000 from July to August for a total of 125,000. The 7 per cent increase reflected gains in all parts of the Nation.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a powerhouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should part the Church. They are (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of the community. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs the funds and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

B. C. and A. D.

Lesson for October 2, 1955

much like the story of Christ; it is the tale of a god, or at least a god-like superior being, who came to live among men a life of service and sacrifice. Songs are sung about him. — "Amida loves me, this I know, for the (Buddhist) Scriptures tell me so." Temples are erected to him. But when you inquire, When and where did this Amida Buddha live? you discover that no one claims he ever lived anywhere. He is a great big official fairy-tale. A temple to him is like a temple to Cinderella's fairy god-mother. Amida was brave, self-sacrificing, loving, godlike — only, he never existed!

World B. C.

For centuries, historians have counted time before and after Christ. All dates are either B. C. — Before Christ, or A. D. — Anno Domini, "In the Year of our Lord."

B. C. does not mean Before Civilization or Before Culture or Before Columbus but Before Christ.

What makes the world B. C. different from the world A. D. is Christ. The world B. C. was a world in which the "best" people supposed that without slavery you could not have civilization; a world in which a man could be required legally to have only one wife at a time, but in which it would have been thought "ridiculous" to expect him to be faithful to that one wife; a world in which unwanted babies (and tragically numerous they were) were simply left out of doors to die, unless men in the slavery business cared to pick them up to be sold later on; a world in which social responsibility as we know it was unknown, a world in which men who held government posts were expected to get rich out of them. If you want to see what the world B. C. was like, read Romans 1. Paul had been there. He knew.

World A. D.

Who knew, that first Christmas night, that the birth of that baby to those poor people from Nazareth was the turning point of the history of the world? God knew it; and men have found it out. The world A. D. is so different from the world B. C. that even a stupid man, if he found himself carried back by a time-machine to B. C., would pray to get back to A. D., to a world where life is sacred, where children are welcomed and cared for, where Christian homes are found, where service is a common ideal, a world where there are millions of true Christians. Such real changes in the real world were not made by a make-believe Jesus, only by a real one.

others to earn our living for ourselves and our families, and to protect our future."

This seems like a sound philosophy for all Americans regardless of political affiliations and one with which most people will agree no doubt.

felt that the law governing school bus drivers was not rigid enough. The group suggested special training to make bus drivers more aware of their responsibilities.

The group also favored a requirement for all bicycle riders to have a tag so that traffic violations could be reported by license number.

Form Planning Group Discusses School Opening

Farm Planning Group No. 9 met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Opel last week with six couples attending.

Mrs. Kenneth Buckel led the topic "School Opens." The group felt the need of a state-wide law to reduce speed limit in school zones to 15 miles per hour during school hours, and also that special signs should be erected at all school bus stops to warn motorists that children would be boarding or disembarking from a school bus.

Mrs. Buckel reported that Foster Riggs, principal of the Grantsville school, said they were strongly stressing safety to the pupils. The group felt that students should ride the bus to school instead of driving their automobiles, and also

ROCK BASS
(Ambloplites rupestris)

RANGE: Inhabits the Atlantic Coast from New England to Florida; most plentiful west of Florida. Frequently confused with the Warmouth bass (Chaenobrytus coronarius) which it strongly resembles but is of a heavier and chunkier build. Both sometimes called "reel-eyes." At one time very plentiful in Deep Creek Lake.

DESCRIPTION: Olive green to black on back; sides tinged with yellow. Somewhat mottled by dark spots on scales; yellow-white underneath; black spot on gill cover; usually red eyes; larger mouth than bluegill; average size probably half pound, but there are reports of individuals weighing as much as two pounds.

HABITS: A school fish, where one is found there will be others; prefers cool, clear waters; feeds on insects such as crickets, grasshoppers, worms, also small minnows, frogs, crawfish, hellgrammites and other marine life.

BREEDING: Prolific; spawns in early spring and like other members of the sunfish family to which it belongs, the male guards the nest which he builds by fanning away the sediment from gravel beds.

MANAGEMENT: The rock bass, like other sunfishes, can become too plentiful, resulting in stunted fish due to lack of an adequate food supply, in which case there should be some thinning out.

VALUE: It has some commercial value in certain sections, but its chief value is as a sport fish, supplying food and recreation to many anglers.

which is enduring, which eventually insures your receiving your rights. Meekness is the strength by which you win an argument by refusing to argue. When differences of opinion arise and you know that your opinion is right, your real victory lies in your recognition of the fact that right is always right regardless of who is said for or against it. Your strength lies in recognizing that fact instead of devoting your attention to thinking that you must, there and then, force your opponent to admit that which he cannot possibly accept until he understands. If his argument is weak and should be destroyed, the destruction does not require the efforts of your arguments.

In my own mind, I believe that is a small part of what Jesus meant when he spoke that tremendous truth for us. It has helped me to grow in my thinking on the subject, and I thought it might do the same for you.

Sen. John Marshall Butler

Immortality of Greatness

What kind of a man was Chief Justice John Marshall of Virginia whom we are today honoring? We know that he was born 200 years ago on September 24, 1755, in a log cabin deep in the forest of what was then Prince William County, Virginia. From childhood we have heard him described as a hero in war and a leader in peace.

But there were many men born 200 years ago. And Marshall was not the only hero who, as a close friend of George Washington, fought gallantly for nearly six years at Brandywine, Monmouth, Stony Point and Valley Forge. In those days there were, in every state, numerous leaders in the cause of peace.

Why, then, has Marshall's greatness lived and grown while that of other colonial patriots has, by comparison, faded and been forgotten? The answer lies in the fact that Marshall, through a wise and courageous interpretation of our Constitution, gave it life everlasting. Indeed there are some who say he gave it the breath of life without which it might have been merely a well-written but ineffectual document. Thus, it is not strange but rather natural that some of this immortality should have rubbed off on its creator.

While other great men were making treaties of tremendous importance at that time, Chief Justice Marshall, by his simply worded yet forceful opinions, was making law of tremendous importance for all time.

Even to the "modern" man there is nothing more valuable than human rights as guaranteed by our Constitution. Accordingly, it is to John Marshall, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States from 1801 to 1835, that we owe an ever-increasing debt of gratitude.

Deliberating uncharted courses of legal reasoning, Marshall's opinions established the principles of constitutional law and judicial review which today protect the rights of all our people. He defined for us the course to be steered in order to separate properly the Executive, Legislative and Judicial branches of our Government. Someone once said that John Mar-

Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde • 6th District, Maryland

The State Department recently announced a list of imported items on which tariff rate adjustments may be considered early next year by the recommendations of the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs. The publication of the list makes timely a word or two on some of the salient points in the tariff legislation passed last session.

In extending the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act the Congress insisted on certain safeguards for American business and protection of the higher standards of living enjoyed by the American worker. These safeguards will be particularly apparent when the Interdepartmental Committee for Reciprocity holds hearings late in October on the State Department's list of imported items subject to tariff adjustments.

Domestic producers of goods on the list and others will have an opportunity to present evidence that an imported item should not be considered for tariff relief. Importers will also have a chance to argue in favor of reductions in the tariff rate. The public may also suggest to the Interdepartmental Committee what concessions from foreign governments the U. S. should demand in exchange for a tariff rate reduction.

But perhaps the most important of the hearings designed to protect American business and its employment will be those of the Federal Tariff Commission which will also be held in late October. The purpose of these hearings will be to establish the "peril point" of each item. "Peril points" represent the level below which tariffs cannot be reduced, in the Commission's view, without causing serious harm to American industry.

There is another safeguard in last session's law I would like to emphasize. It is the provision granting the Office of Defense Mobilization authority to direct the President's attention to foreign goods that may be entering the country in such volume as to endanger the national security by putting defense-essential American firms out of business. The President may, on the basis of this information, adjust imports to whatever level seems to be in the best interest of the country.

I would like to call attention to the Frederick County Fair to be held in Frederick, Md., October 4-8.

May Do Seasonal Work Without Social Security Loss

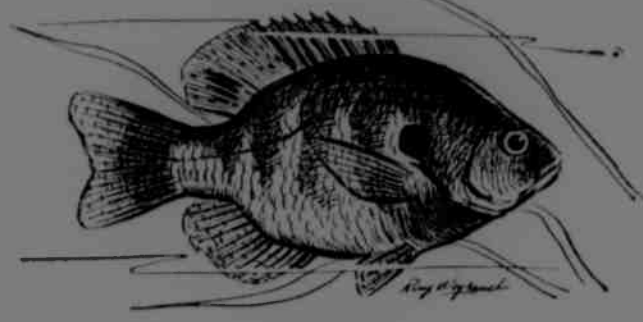

More part-time or seasonal work is now possible for beneficiaries of the old-age and survivors insurance system without loss of their social security payments. New provisions of the law, now effective, permit beneficiaries under age 72 to supplement their benefits with earnings from employment. There are no earnings restrictions on beneficiaries over age 72.

The new provision has particular advantages for beneficiaries who have seasonal employment opportunities. Previously they lost benefit payments for any month in which their earnings exceeded $75. Now, high monthly earnings in a seasonal industry will require no suspension of payments unless the yearly total exceeds $1200.

BLUEGILL
(Lepomis macrochirus)

RANGE: Probably our most popular panfish, and found in fresh waters in nearly every part of the State. Originally found in the Mississippi River Valley and Great Lakes Region, and most of the South Atlantic States; by transplanting it is now found in almost every State, and is well adapted to farm and other small fish ponds. Also found in rivers and lakes.

DESCRIPTION: While similar to other species of sunfishes it has several distinctive characteristics; it has a jet black ear flap with no margin showing; usually an indistinct black spot at the rear end of the back or dorsal fin; no spots on sides; most specimens under half pound although individuals over two pounds are occasionally reported.

BREEDING: Bluegills build nests in colonies in shallow water, and spawn several times a season; as with the black bass and crappies the male prepares the nest and guards the eggs, and also the young for a short period; increases rapidly and many waters become overstocked resulting in large numbers of stunted fish.

HABITS: Feeds on flies, worms, crustaceans, and small fish; will take artificial; furnishes excellent sport on light tackle; travel in schools and where one is caught there will be others.

MANAGEMENT: Food, cover and unpolluted waters are essential; little if any legal protection is necessary, as usually they multiply faster than the food supply will support; propagation and restocking necessary only in waters uninhabited by bluegills.

VALUE: Of little or no commercial value in Maryland although barrels of the various sunfishes are almost daily shipped to markets from Gulf States. Its esthetic value and for recreation in Maryland are inestimable; they provide a vast army of old and young anglers lots of sport, and while mostly small, the meat is firm, white and tasty, providing a large quantity of excellent food.

Boxelder Bugs Are Here Again

The little red and black boxelder bug is back again to plague homeowners. T. L. Bissell, University of Maryland Extension entomologist, said.

This annual pest is prevalent all year except during the summer months when it feeds on the leaves of the boxelder tree, Bissell said. There have been some reports of boxelder bugs staining clothing, according to Bissell, but otherwise the bugs are harmless.

Maryland was free of these insects until the 1920's when the bug followed the boxelder tree which was brought into the state from the West. The bugs live only on the female of the boxelder trees. The female tree may be identified by its small, double seed pods similar to seed pods found on silver maples. It is from these pods that the bugs feed. The male of the boxelder tree does not have the pods.

When the pods dry up and the leaves fall, boxelder bugs seek shelter elsewhere—usually in sunny exposures around the house. Bissell said the bugs can also be found on rocks, tree trunks and in wood piles.

He recommends three methods of combating these household pests. The best method, he said, is to get rid of the female boxelder trees. The next method is to make the house bug-proof and the third method of combat is to use insecticides.

Insecticides such as chlordane, DDT and lindane are useful for spraying trees and other foliage infested with the immature boxelder bugs, Bissell said. The immature bugs may be identified by their all-red wingless bodies. In using insecticides, always follow the manufacturer's directions.

Ordinary household detergents can be used to spray the boxelder bugs. Bissell recommends using one cup of powdered detergent in two-and-a-half gallons of water, applied with 25 to 50 pounds of pressure. A thorough soaking of the bugs is important, he said.

In the house, Bissell recommends a good strong fly swatter or a kerosene based fly spray.

Let's take
the NEW '56 FORD!

It's the fine car at half the fine car price!

4. The new 202-h.p. Thunderbird Y-8 will give you a new lease on driving enjoyment. It's available in Fordomatic Fairlane and Station Wagon models. You can have the "GO"-packed 176-h.p. Y-8 in Fordomatic Mainline and Customline models, or Ford's new 137-h.p. Six is available in any model.

6. This Lifeguard cushioning for instrument panel and sun visors is optional. It gives you extra protection when thrown forward in an accident. You may also have optional seat belts to help keep occupants securely in seats.

5. Note the deep-center design of this new Lifeguard steering wheel. The wheel rim is over three inches above the post to help cushion the driver in case of an accident. It's a feature of new Lifeguard Design which Ford spent over two years developing... to give you added protection in case of an accident.

2. Here, on your left, is the inspiration for the styling of the '56 Ford—the famous Ford Thunderbird. Look at those broad, flat hoods, for example. Here is styling that will stay in style.

3. Here's what you ride on. This frame has five crossmembers including a special K-bar member up front. It can really take it! By the way, the control arms of Ford's Ball-Joint Front Suspension are angle-mounted to cushion out the head-on as well as the up-down shock of bumps.

7. Here's Ford's new Lifeguard door latch. It is another member of Ford's new Lifeguard family. A double-grip locking engagement reduces the chance of doors springing open under unusual strain of impact. Chances of serious injury in accidents are less when passengers remain in the car.

Well, that covers the important points. But there's a lot more. So we'd like to invite you to come in and see the new '56 Ford for yourself. Then you'll see the colorful new exteriors and interiors, the quality workmanship that is evident everywhere. Then you'll learn the full story. When you do, you'll know that Ford is the fine car at half the fine car price.

Name Committees To Finish Flood Control Outline

Information To Be Compiled By End Of November

A meeting to develop the work outline necessary to keep the flood control project for Oakland moving along smoothly, was held Monday evening in the council chamber.

Eight typewritten pages of "things to be done" to complete the work plan that must be presented to Congress next year for its approval were gone over item by item with a designation in each case of "who" is to do the work, and "when" it is expected to be completed.

Attending Monday's meeting were Robert Hall, geologist from the engineering and watershed planning unit of the Soil Conservation service, from Upper Darby, Pa.; W. R. Ratledge, party leader of the watershed work plan party, College Park; Al Millender, party leader of the watershed work plan party, of Maryland; William W. Autumn Glory Train On Sunday Will Be Sellout

Tour Of Area Will Include Swallow Falls And Deep Creek Lake

The first of two Autumn Glory excursion trains from Baltimore and Washington is expected to be a sell-out. It was announced this week. The excursion will run to Oakland this Sunday.

B. and O. officials told Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce officials early this week that 600 reservations already had been sold at that time and 400 for the following week, so it was evident that both weeks would go over the limit. Over seven hundred tickets were sold last year.

The excursion is scheduled to reach Oakland at 1 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, at which time they will be welcomed briefly by Mayor Joseph Hinchbaugh. The Southern Band will be on hand for the brief ceremonies at the station before the excursionists board the busses for the four-hour tour.

Plans for the event were completed last week by the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce. The autumn glory queens and princesses from Northern and Southern High schools will be taken to Keever where they will board the train at 12 o'clock. They will serve as ambassadors of good will during the hour's ride to Oakland and brief them on what they will see on the tour. They also will distribute the bus tickets so that each person will know when he arrives at Oakland which bus he will get on for his trip. This will keep groups together and will prevent confusion at the railroad station, it was felt.

Queens, Princesses Named

Queens and princesses were named by the respective schools during the past two weeks. The two queens are Hazel Mosser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mosser, McHenry, of Northern; and Janet Leighton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Leighton, of Oakland, of Southern. The princesses are Shirley Resh, Jennings; Thelma Hamlin, Accident; Kathleen Emory, Bittinger; Donna Rae Edwards, Grantsville; and Judy Friend, Friendsville. Northern: Ann Troy, Arveta Bell, Shirley Yoder, Beverly Winters and Vonda Pike.

Queens and princesses will be on the platform at the station during the brief ceremonies. Garrett County Turkey Growers have arranged to have a booth at the station where Garrett county products will be displayed.

Autumn Glory officially was proclaimed by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin from October 3 to 27. "In autumn, foliage of Western Maryland mountains is a miracle of nature," said the Governor, and "now that foliage is at the height of its beauty."

Only fifty participated in the first autumn glory train three years ago but by 1953 the number climbed to 250. Last year more than 700 made the Sunday excursion and popular demand made it necessary to schedule two excursions on two consecutive Sundays this year.

Family finds telephone saved enough in one week to pay for a whole month's service

This family kept a record of the actual travel, time and expense the telephone saved them. One week was enough to convince them telephone service doesn't cost—it pays!

Among the calls listed were those to make arrangements to have the car picked up for repairs—to order groceries—to arrange transportation for a friend, thus avoiding a long trip—to have a wedding present delivered from town. Each saved time, trouble and considerable travel expense. In fact, the actual money saved in one week by using the telephone was enough to pay for service for an entire month!

In almost countless ways, the telephone can save you money, time and trouble, too. So use it often—let it work for you. Note that you think of it, aren't there some calls you should make right now?

*Name withheld, but story is an actual case taken from our files.

Attendance Is High

Attendance at Southern High school for September was considered unusually high, according to John L. Fitzwater, supervisor of pupil personnel.

There were 1,166 in attendance during September with 1,122 average being in attendance every day for a percentage of 96.4.

A number of the rooms had 98 percent or better with some reaching as high as 99.1.

The report for Northern High also showed a good attendance mark. There were 801 in attendance with 762 having been in school every day during September for a percentage of 93.8. Attendance percentage was higher in the upper grades with 96.6 for the group 10 through 12, while the group 7th through 9th had 91.6. Several rooms in that school also had 98 percent or better.

Mr. Fitzwater said that as far as was known, all students are in school at both Northern and Southern, as required by law. All boys and girls are required to attend school up to their sixteenth birthday.

Turkey Growers Plan for Booth

The Garrett County Turkey Growers during their special meeting on Monday night made final plans for their booth near the B. and O. station for the Autumn Glory excursions October 9 and 10. Fresh frosted turkey, smoked turkey, maple syrup, maple candy and turkey pottery will be sold. A turkey platter also is to be offered as a prize when the train arrives at the station.

Turkey farms to be included in the bus tour will include those of Richard Glatfelter and Curtis Savage on the McHenry-Power House road.

It was announced that the Maryland share of the national East More Turkey publicity fund had been oversubscribed. The local growers are subscribers to the fund.

The Turkey Growers prepared a hand decorated miniature jug containing maple syrup for distribution at the annual meeting of the National Secretaries of State in Florida. The call for some such item was received from Earle R. Poorbaugh, director of Information for a remembrance for Blanchard Randall, Maryland Secretary of State, to distribute. Each jug had a little folder tag tied to it with yellow and black wool yarn. This tag has the Garland Turkey label on the cover. In the center fold are "Greetings from Garrett County, Maryland, Pure Maple Syrup, another Garrett County product. Garrett County Turkey Growers."

The jug cover points out there is agriculture, industry and recreation at Oakland, Maryland. The jugs were flown to Florida for the meeting. A small supply of similar jugs will be available at the Autumn Glory booth, it was stated.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

Prowling In Strange Places
To prowling among the dead may seem a strange pastime, but somehow or another I have found it interesting to roam around in old cemeteries and read the epitaphs. This interest started in childhood. If we arrived early for Sunday School the only thing there was to do was to stroll up one path and down another in the cemetery. At first I was intrigued by the lambs or doves or angels atop a stone. Later I practiced arithmetic to see who lived the longest before they took over.

But what their dear ones thought of them has held my interest to this day. Last Sunday, for instance, we read epitaphs in one of our country cemeteries but none of them had the originality that has been found elsewhere. Like:

"Here lies the mother of 29. She would have had more, but she didn't have time."

"Here lies the body of Solomon

Pease,
Under the daisies, under the trees.
Pease is not here; only his pod.
Pease shelled out and went to God."

"Here lies the body of Mary Ann She lives in the arms of Abraham.
It's awfully nice on Mary Ann.
But awfully hard on Abraham."

"Here lies a poor woman
Of two husbands bereft.
Richard on the right,

But the strangest of all tombstones that I have ever seen was the one of Calamity Jane in Deadwood, S. Dak. It bore only the name, "Calamity Jane," with a devil's head chiseled on each side. The people of the community had erected the stone.

Eagle Rock
My, what a view! Why aren't we giving it more of a play? To me it has as much to offer as Hovey Crest without having every ounce of energy taken out of one to get there.

Now that the fire tower has been erected atop the rock, from its top one can really see the world in all directions. This week it is autumn in all its glory—miles and miles of colorful forest. A few farm houses and the upper arm of Deep Creek and the sand plant give only slight evidence that it's an inhabited world.

One nice thing about Eagle Rock. It can be reached comfortably in high heeled shoes—so close is it to the road.

Ouch!
When I read this I felt downright uncomfortable.

"Your love of God is best shown by the way you treat the person you like the least."

Guess if we could put our finger on why we don't like people we would discover that it isn't the creature but certain negative things within him that foul us up.

Like the man who said, "See that man over there? I don't like him." "Why don't you like him?" he was asked.

"Because I don't know him."

How I missed
When you live closely with someone for years I guess it is natural that you think alike. For years I gave my husband the big laugh with the beginning and close of every season. To him they were always unusual.

The first autumn I lived here we were gathering nice tender green beans from our garden the first of October. That was unusual, said George—even though he was new at gardening.

And it was! For not in the 20-some years since, until this fall, have we been able to cut out of our gardens in October.

There has also been an unusual statement going around—unusual for Garrett county. "I'm so sick of tomatoes I don't know what to do!"

Fairchild Aircraft division announced it would lay off 500 of its 10,000 workers in Hagerstown.

Parents' Day To Be Observed
When Southern High School and White Team faces St. Francis of Morgantown Saturday afternoon on the Highlander gridiron, the first Parents' Day to be held at a Southern football game will be observed.

One parent of each football player will be seated on a bench behind the team. Each parent will wear the corresponding uniform number of his or her son, who plays on the team.

In Southern's initial contest this season, the Highlanders' team tied Petersburg 6-6 on the home field. After dropping a hard-fought contest to Moorefield 21-13, the Highlanders romped over the West Virginia School for the Deaf 40-13.

Grid Team Drops Game To Beall By 27-6 Score

Beall High's Mountaineers of Frostburg proved too much for Southern's Highlanders as they defeated the Red and White 27-6 on the home field last Saturday afternoon.

The Beall attack was spearheaded by a single wing offense, the first Southern had played against this year, and was able to make short ground gains due to good blocking by their offensive linemen.

Southern threatened in the first quarter by driving to the Beall 31 but was stalled and an attempted field goal by Toby Colaw was low.

First Opposition Touchdown
The Mountaineers' first touchdown came early in the second quarter when Felker scored from 8 yards out. Stevenson ran for the extra point.

Late in the same period, Felker intercepted a Colaw aerial on the Red and White 34. Then Stevenson lugged it over from the 22. Wilson ran around end for the extra point to give Ray Hull's eleven a 14-0 halftime edge.

After Southern had lost the ball on their own 37, halfback Felker broke loose from 22 yards out, and scored his second T.D. of the game.

In the last stanza Doug Cook ran 11 yards for Beall's final markers.

Felker's attempted conversion was wide of its mark.

Highlanders Score
Southern's lone score came in the fourth period when a 60 yard drive was climaxed by a 19 yard Toby Colaw to Fred Colaw scoring pass. Toby's kick was blocked.

The starting lineup for Southern included Garrett, McRobie, Raymovich, Hoyer, Lee, Evans, Knotts, T. Colaw, F. Colaw, Glaze and Mason. Substitutes included Sowers, Deckman, Marley, Grubb, Walla, Ruff, Dilgard, Brohawn, D. Evans, and Bittinger.

The Southern High band entertained between halves with special maneuvers and numbers.

The Highlanders final home game will be played on the 8th of the month when Southern plays host to St. Francis of Morgantown.

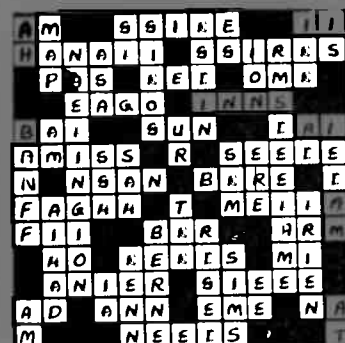

Game time will be 1:30 p. m.

Fire Towers Open

Some twelve forest fire towers of the Western Maryland district were opened Tuesday for the fall season to prevent possible disastrous fires that might occur.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said that six of the towers are being manned in Garrett county, three in Allegany county, one in Washington county and two in Frederick county.

The towers will remain open until fall rains assure there is little danger of forest fires or when the winter snows begin to fly. Johnson said that at the present time the fire danger is medium and the hazard will mount with the falling of foliage and a continued dry spell.

The fire situation depends upon the rainfall and the carelessness of hunters who will trek to the woods in quest of game. Hunters are urged to use caution in throwing away lighted cigarettes and also to be sure camp fires are out.

In case a hunter or resident of the district spots a fire he is asked to contact the forest wardens, district forester's office or State police.

A listing of forest wardens appears in the telephone directory just before the yellow pages.

Yugoslavia and U.S. announced they settled their "differences of opinion."

THRESHOLD

What is education but a broadening of man's knowledge, enabling him to live a better life? Education is like a doorway leading to the fulfillment of dreams and ambitions. Beyond it lies the vast chamber of the mind, and scientists know that in a lifetime most men develop only a small part of their mental potentialities.

In our search for education today, one type is sometimes slighted... religious education. Yet in all the fields of learning what could be more important? Man needs Faith and a knowledge of his Church if he is to reconcile so much that is happening in the world of today with the kind of future he would like to have. In your reading and studies, don't forget religion. There is nothing stuffy about the study of it, nothing dull. It is as significant as yesterday... as full of promise as all tomorrow.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four strong reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Politics, Prognostications, and The People

In the political sense, and others perhaps, 1956 will be a year of momentous decision. Politics, with its resulting excitement and controversy, will set the stage. Already, the crystal-gazers, pretending foresight, are teeming with predictions, omens, guesses, odds-on-favorites, and the like.

At issue fundamentally will be the continuance of a Republican Administration as contrasted with a resurrection of the New Deal-Fair Deal variety of government. It might therefore be timely to review briefly the meanings of each.

Some of the basic principles of the Republican Party as stated by the Republican National Committee are "decentralization of government, a free enterprise, incentive economy, government economy and fiscal stability, liberal welfare without regimentation or socialization, anti-communism, and peace and security. It is the party of human freedom and equal justice, and the political expression of American enterprise and self-reliance."

The Democratic Party, tracing its origin from the Republican party of Jefferson's days, has been captured by the New Deal-Fair Deal and motivated by the evidence of spend, spend, spend... tax, tax, tax... spend, spend, spend. Self-evident are the lasting ravages of these fiscal gymnastics. Yet, the leading Democratic Presidential aspirant says that his Party stands for three things—social progress, civil freedom and peace. Worthy ideals indeed, but conveniently silent on the necessity of national solvency.

Though inevitably complex, the political scene is further complicated by the conservative versus liberal contest prevalent in both parties. A liberal is defined as one who believes in utilizing the

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Background Scripture: Luke 2:41-52. Devotional Reading: 1 Timothy 4:1-2.

Jesus Is Real

Lesson for October 9, 1955

IT IS hard to say what is the most important doctrine of the Christian religion. Probably you would get more votes for the doctrine we call the Incarnation than for any other; because so many other doctrines hinge on this one. If you do not believe in the Incarnation you haven't much left of the Atonement, and if you really face it you have lost what is most valuable in your doctrine of God. Be that as it may, if you asked for a vote among people who have given this some serious thought, as to what is the most distinctive Christian doctrine, you would have a practically unanimous answer: The Incarnation. This is expressed in various ways both in the Bible and in Christian theology. About the simplest way of putting it in Bible language is that "God was in Christ" (II Corinthians 5:19). The simplest way of putting it in theological language may be that Christ was both human and divine.

Jesus Was a Real Person

You wouldn't think it necessary to hammer on the point that Jesus was a real person, that is to say that he really was, and didn't just seem to be, a child and a boy and a grown man. Yet the church has often had to call a halt to men and movements that explained-away the real humanity of Jesus till there was really nothing left of it. The great church council held at Chalcedon (the Evenson of that era in 451 A. D.) found it necessary to say—in their own way of course—that Christ is as much divine as God is divine, and as much human as you and I are human. For some strange reason, however, the reality of Jesus as a human person is forgotten or denied by men. Again and again we have to be brought up with a start by the gospel story, the story of a real man. Like all real men, Jesus grew from a real boy. The modern interest in childhood and the realization that "the child is father of the man."

The Child Grew

Legends, tales without foundation, have made the boy Jesus into a smaller-sized adult. According to some of these legends, when Jesus went to school, the very first day, he not only knew the alphabet already but he delivered a philosophical discourse that astonished the teacher. Luke does not give us any such picture of an already-grown mind in a tiny body. He gives us a glimpse of a real child really growing. At first he grew without trying, of course, as every one does. What he ate and drank made him taller and stronger. He learned the Aramaic language, spoken in his village and in his family, just as children learn their mother-tongue everywhere in the world. Just by hearing it and trying to speak it, till it becomes as natural as breathing. His mind grew by what was put into it, because it was a really human mind. Dolls are all the same no matter what goes on around them; human beings on the contrary grow or shrink, depending on their surroundings. It is not too much to say that if (for instance) Jesus' mother Mary had been a different kind of person, he would have been different too. To think otherwise is to fancy Jesus a kind of doll.

The Boy Moved Forward

As has been often noted, Luke uses a different word for Jesus after his twelfth year. Before that, he "grew,"—the same word used for flowers and buildings, elsewhere in the Bible. After that, he "increased"—and the word always implies will, effort. Up to a certain age a child can't help growing; he doesn't even give it a thought. But after a certain age, not the same in every one to be sure, if a person grows it has to put his mind on it, and he can choose the direction in which he will grow. Jesus could choose his friends; he could do what he would with his spare time. He grew by his work in the carpenter shop, was may be certain, but what about the hours when he was not working? When Jesus was fully grown, we know how familiar he was with the Scriptures. We know how well he understood the Bible. Could he have achieved any of this without trying, without growing?

full force of government for the advancement of social, political, and economic justice." On the other hand, conservatism has long been regarded as a reasoned philosophy directed toward the control of the forces of change to conserve the best elements of the past by blending them into an organic unity with new elements in an ever-evolving society. This tug-of-war between conflicting attitudes provides much fodder for the tipsters.

Which ingredients shall compose the recipe of the future—Republicanism, New-Fair Dealism, Conservatism, Liberalism? An enlightened public, not the star-gazers and prognosticators, will decide. In the final analysis, the people are the articulate voice of Government. They are the Government.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

As new bulletins from Denver traced the progress of the President's recuperation, the communications cables of the world continued to hum with messages promising the Chief Executive prayers and hopes for a speedy recovery.

A tone of genuine sincerity was readily apparent in the telegrams and letters. Although plans for the 1956 elections were making front-page news each day, partisanship was forgotten. The nation had sickness in its own personal family, it felt, and responded accordingly.

Typical of the messages sent to Mr. Eisenhower was the one forwarded from Senator Beall, who is still in Geneva. The Senator wired:

"We are praying that your recovery will be early and complete. It is a privilege and an honor to serve with you, and our sincere hope is that you will be back with us soon."

"Mrs. Beall joins me in wishing you the very best of everything."

Meanwhile, the country took a quick survey of the position into which the President had led it before he was confined to a hospital bed. What it found, in part, was this:

DEFENSE—The average firepower of an American Army division is 80 percent higher today than in World War II, according to Army Secretary Wilbur M. Brucker.

Three million men are now under arms in all branches of the defense organization, he added, and the national security which they represent is backed up by the men and women in the various reserve programs.

In the guided missile program, funds which will be spent during the coming year will exceed last year's expenditures by 23 percent.

INCOME—An all-time high in the per capita disposable income of the American people was reached in the second quarter of this year, according to the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

On the basis of an estimated population of 164,911,000, the average spendable income for every man, woman and child was $1,620 in current prices and $1,627 in 1954 prices, compared with $1,569 in spendable income a year ago.

POSTAL FINANCING—The Post Office Department reported that despite pay raises for postal employees and heavier mail, the department's deficit for fiscal 1955 had dropped.

The year ended with a deficit of $362,700,000—an improvement of $29,200,000 over the previous fiscal year. The 1955 figure was also 47 percent below the all-time record for fiscal 1952.

During the period that we on Senator Beall's staff have been handling his weekly "Senate Cloakroom" messages, we have received numerous letters from him.

Apparently, judging from his report, he has been scurrying around

Seniors To Be Given Aptitude Tests Soon

General Aptitude Battery Tests will be given to all senior classmen of Southern High at Oakland desiring to take them on October 10, 11, and 12 in the cafeteria. The exams will be given by Mr. Charles Briner and Mrs. Mary Browning from the State Employment Office in Oakland. Mr. Spoerlein will assist them.

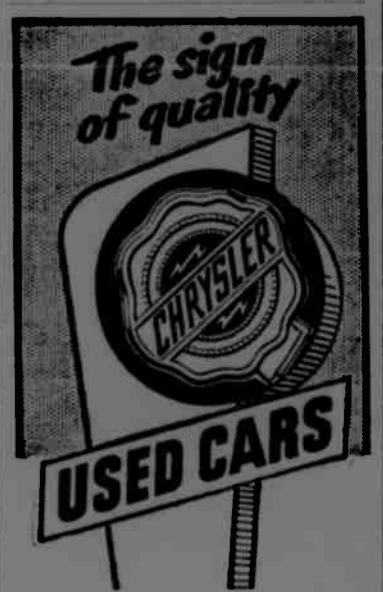

The purpose of these tests is to determine the type of employment for which a student's abilities are best suited. The results of the various exams, which will include both hand manipulation and the paper and pencil variety, will class the student in one or more occupational ratings out of a possible twenty.

Geneva as actively as if he were attending to home-front affairs in Washington and Maryland. His personal comments on his trip will be written following his return on October 17th.

One particularly interesting incident which he mentioned in one of his letters concerned his tour of a cigarette factory. While visiting the plant, the Senator was interviewed by newspaper reporters and was photographed next to a truckload of tobacco.

The tobacco, wrote the Senator, was from Maryland.

Since the dedication, the outlays for a number of improvements have been made to the church property. On the outside a canopy and new cement steps were built in front of the church. A new enclosed church sign was placed on the front lawn. A garage built in the parsonage basement shrubbery placed in the front of the parsonage and a cement walkway between the buildings. The church has been repainted inside. Parsonage walls were repainted and the building rewired. Work on the church and parsonage was done by volunteer workers of the congregation.

mail in recent days indicate a great deal of misunderstanding as to the meaning and implications of the Reserve Forces Act passed at the last session of Congress. First, I would like to make clear that the Selective Service Act is in full force and operation and is to continue through June of 1959. It is this law that grants the authority to draft men between the ages of 18½ and 26. Our military manpower needs are obtained through the draft and voluntary enlistments that permits youths between the age of 17 and 18½ years of age to enlist directly into the Reserve for a period of 8 years, undergo 3 to 6 months in active service, then transfer to the Ready Reserve for the remainder of their obligation. Under this program youths can "sign-up" at any time before they reach the age of 18½ years and be deferred until they have graduated from high school, left school or attained the age of 26. Young men in planning their individual careers now have a number of choices which they can make

What The Congress did last session was to add to the basic military manpower procurement laws an Act strengthening the Reserve Force. The new law spells out the length of service in the two categories of the Reserve: Ready and Standby. The time required in each depends on the number of years spent on active duty. Two years of active service normal for a draftee would be followed by three years in the Ready Reserve, then one year of Standby Reserve.

The important thing to remember is that one who was in the Armed Forces prior to August 9, the date the Reserve Forces Act became They'll Be Back . . .

There is no way to measure the value of these Autumn Glory excursions, but from talking to some of the excursionists the value is beyond belief. Those people may not be of the moneyed class, but it is safe to assume that a large number of these people will be back to visit us whenever it is possible to do so.

There are several reasons why this assumption is correct. People enjoy the color and beauty in the forests. The scenic grandeur of the mountains at this time of the year is unsurpassed.

They enjoy the friendliness of the local people. We are sure this friendliness could be improved by participation of more persons. There must have been several hundred people at the station Sunday to meet the excursionists. Even though they didn't say one word, their presence signified a friendly feeling and showed a spirit of hospitality. There could easily be more people there if only for a token showing of interest.

They enjoy the variety of the trip. It isn't just a 30-mile jaunt through the area with no breathing spell. They are able to see out and walk around at Swallow Falls, Deep Creek Lake, and one of the various turkey farms of the county. It isn't a wearing trip but enough action to keep one's interest aroused.

They enjoy the invigorating climate. Taken year after year there is just nothing like the Garrett county climate. There are other reasons. The fare is reasonable and there is nothing comparable to it offered by any other agency besides the B. and O. railroad.

All in all it is a good deal for the average person. The Chamber of Commerce and the railroad are doing the county a real service in offering these excursions.

The best part of the entire program is that each year we get new converts for Garrett county, people who will return at every opportunity. The value of these excursions through the years is just beyond measure.

Gas Company Says No More Free Gas For City of Oakland

Directive Draws Reply From Mayor Hinebaugh Asking For Reconsideration

The question of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland passing cash for natural gas used in its municipal buildings came up for another airing this month.

The Cumberland and Allegany Gas company through its vice-president, J. E. Coleman, informed the Mayor and Town Council last month of its intention to discontinue free gas service, effective October 1, and stated that municipal gas used would be billed at the regular general service rate in the future. This brought a reply by Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh on September 17, telling of the latter's shock and surprise and declaring there was no understanding that the plan under which they had operated previously would be changed.

He further declared, "The franchise under which your company operates in Oakland provides for free gas service for municipal purposes. While the original term of the franchise has expired you have continued to operate as before, have accepted the same benefits as you did during the original term of the franchise and we feel the town is also entitled to advantages granted it under terms of the original franchise." Mayor Hinebaugh requested reconsideration of the order to make a charge for the gas used.

At the Council meeting on Monday evening it was recommended that the attorney to the town prepare a new franchise and that its contents include a charge of $2,000 annually for the franchise permit.

A franchise obtained by the C. and A. Gas company in 1909 granted the Mayor and Council of Oakland the use of all the gas they needed to furnish heat for the city hall and city buildings, in return for the privilege of the company.

Local Lions Club Launches Cake Sale

The Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club will launch a fruit cake sale on Sunday, October 16, to raise money for the club's community betterment fund. This campaign will take the place of the annual brown sale which has been conducted for the past two years.

Robert W. Stemple, general chairman of the project, announced that fruit cakes may be obtained from any member of the club after Sunday. Sixty or more members of the club thus will become fruit cake salesmen during the ensuing four weeks of the sale.

Money derived from the sale of the fruit cakes will be used to sponsor activities of the Boy Scouts, the Little League, and other local community programs.

The Lions club is planning to have a booth at the B. and O. station on Sunday for the Autumn Glory excursion, and will also have booths on the streets of Oakland on Saturday nights, October 22, 23, November 5 and 12. Orders will be taken for three and five pound cakes for $3.25 and $5.00. Seventy-five percent of the ingredients of the cakes will be choice mixed fruits.

In promoting the coming sale, it was announced at the regular meeting on Monday night that "Lots of people like fruit cake who are not crazy about brooms."

The Lions club members heard John Barnard, of the Washington office of the Soil Conservation service, deliver an address at the Monday night meeting. This was in observance of Maryland Land Week. He spoke of conservation practices and the importance of supporting the Land Week program which has for its objectives "to encourage the use of soil and water conservation practices by those who till the land, and to impress all citizens of the State with their dependence upon the soil and acquaint them with the effects of erosion, improper drainage and soil deficiencies upon their health and welfare."

State Educators Advise Changes In Curriculum

Recommend A Course In American History For Eleventh Graders

Some changes in the school curriculum were recommended by State educators, after eight different educators from the State Department of Education had spent three full days in the county last week.

The primary purpose in mind was to study the content and offerings of the curriculum of the schools. The visitors came at the invitation of Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, and represented what they claimed to be their first team visit to any schools.

After studying the program, observing classes, looking at available instructional materials, and talking with many teachers, a number of specific recommendations were made. Some of them are listed:

1. The units of work used in the English and social studies area in all grades need to be re-worked, re-vitalized and brought up to date. This calls for a summer workshop.

2. Supply every Core teacher with complete sets of English textbooks of one kind.

3. Develop a well defined course in American History for all pupils in grade eleven. This course is to be centered around problems to be studied as they grow from the founding and development of our country—and will consume an entire year in eleventh grade social studies. In other words, one full year of American History for all pupils in grade eleven.

4. General guide for each grade level setting forth minimum standards of achievement in the field of language arts, meaning spelling, grammar, literature and composition. This also calls for a summer workshop.

5. Continuous effort to advance the science program of the schools, and to keep abreast with present day demands to attract a larger percentage of intelligent young people into the field of advanced science.

6. Study the advisability of continuing Spanish as a language offering at Southern due to small enrollment in this subject, and consider offering French for each of the three years in senior high school as an alternate.

Mr. Hawkins said plans were being made to implement these.

"School Night" To Feature Southern High P.T.A. Meet

Final plans were made this week for the "Back to School Night" on Monday, October 17, for parents and friends of students attending Southern High School.

The "Back to School" program which will be the principal theme of the first Southern High School P.T.A. meeting to be held this year, gets underway at 7:30 p. m. in the gymnasium. William Rees, president of the Southern P.T.A., stated that there would be a short business meeting, prior to "attending classes."

Beginning promptly at 8:00 p. m., classes of 12 minutes duration will begin. Parents will follow a typical day's schedule of his child. After a short explanation of the course taught by the teacher, a discussion will follow at which time parents may ask questions.

All parents and friends of Southern High School students are invited to attend.

Shot Accidentally

Fred Fike, aged 44, of Crellin, apparently shot himself accidentally on Monday afternoon and is now a patient in Memorial hospital, in Cumberland.

The charge from a 12-gauge shotgun struck his left shoulder when the gun was discharged in some manner while he was walking along one of the streets of Crellin. After being wounded Fike drove his car to his home, and was later brought to the office of Dr. James Feaster, and then sent to Cumberland.

Officers have been investigating the circumstances of the shooting.

Election Board Recommends Buying of Voting Machines

Company With Higher Bid Is Given Nod Over It's Only Competitor

A recommendation that the Board of County Commissioners purchase 36 voting machines from the Automatic Voting Machine company was made last Friday morning by the Board of Supervisors of Elections, and officially presented to the Commissioners on Tuesday morning.

The price for the machines, delivered in Oakland was set at $1,474 per machine, for a total cost of $53,064, less two percent discount, or $1,061.28, which would make the total cost $52,002.72.

Only two bids were presented to the Board at its regular meeting held last Friday morning at 11 o'clock. The Board received a bid from the Schoup Voting Machine company totaling $50,801.12 for 36 machines. This would figure $1,200 less than the machines of the Automatic Voting Machine company.

The bid of the Schoup Voting Machine company was figured at $1,385.92 each for 36 machines, making a total of $55,828, but the Schoup company agreed to furnish Garrett county free of charge four identical machines for demonstration, education and election purposes, if it was awarded the contract, but if the Board decided that it did not need the four additional machines at this time the value of these machines would be deducted from the total purchase price, which reduced the figure to $50,801.12 for the 36 machines.

The bid of the Automatic Voting Machine company stipulated that the price included all equipment necessary to accommodate present and future elections in the county such as primary mechanism party lever and straight ticket mechanism and also an instruction model to facilitate instruction of voters. The Automatic Voting Machine also granted an option to purchase on or before April 1, 1956, ten or less additional machines at the price of $1,474 each.

In making the decision to recommend the voting machines of the Automatic Voting Machine company, Francis W. Sanders, board member, made the motion, but William O. Treacy, another board member, declined to second the motion, claiming that the Schoup bid ought to be clarified before making definite action. After an hour or more of discussion, and finding both members firm in their convictions, Mr. Treacy was made temporary chairman of the board, and William L. Gibson, thus relieved of his position, then seconded the motion and the motion carried.

The Board then adjourned and met again Monday morning briefly to prepare a letter to the County Commissioners, informing them of the official action of the Board of Supervisors.

The manually operated machines were not considered by the Board. The price of the manually operated machines from both companies was $100 less per machine. The machines considered were both.

Bloomington Bridge Bids Are Opened

The Case Construction Corporation of Mt. Airy was low bidder for construction on the Bloomington overhead bridge, advertised by the State Roads Commission. The price was $157,224. Other bidders were John D. Sheetz Construction company, Inc., $169,101.40; Cumberland Contracting company, $177,694.55; E. H. Nunn company, Hallethorpe, $184,819.28.

At Bloomington where Route 135 is being relocated, there will be a bridge 170 feet in length with a 35-foot roadway.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the Roads commission, said this project and the relocation and remodeling of another two miles of Route 135 remains in the modernization program set up for that highway.

The contract was awarded this week to the Case Construction company.

Autumn Glory Excursionists Are Welcomed Here

Between six and seven hundred persons are expected to be on the second and final Autumn Glory excursion train from Baltimore and Washington on Sunday afternoon, it was announced. The excursion is due in Oakland at 1 o'clock p. m.

A similar number was welcomed to Oakland last Sunday. The train was about half an hour late in arriving but received a warm welcome from the Southern High school band and the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce, headed by Newton Coplin. A brief welcome message was extended by Charles L. Briner, secretary to the Chamber of Commerce, and the twelve girls representing Northern and Southern High schools, were on the platform to be recognized as queens and princesses.

These girls had boarded the train at Keyser about an hour before its arrival in Oakland and were introduced throughout the train. The same schedule will be carried out this Sunday.

Twenty busses were on hand to take the excursionists on a 30-mile bus tour of the area, giving them time to stroll at Swallow Falls state forest, and around Deep Creek Lake and one of the many turkey farms throughout the county, and a similar tour is arranged for this Sunday.

Many of the excursionists commented very favorably of the trip and voiced the desire to return again at their earliest opportunity.

Air Raid Alert Is Considered Success

The air raid alert held last Saturday afternoon in Oakland, was considered very successful, according to Fred Tichenell, county civil defense director. The various demonstrations were carried off according to schedule and were considered very realistic. Officials co-operating in the alert said they considered it one of the best demonstrations yet given in the state.

Tichenell announced that sometime during the middle of November a first aid mobile unit would be in this area to give instruction in civil defense activities.

Mercury Sinks to 29

The thermometer dropped to 29 degrees this week after four continuous days of early morning freezes, but flowers still seem to be hanging on obstinately, with many flower gardens showing only slight damage.

The low reading was on Wednesday when the mercury dropped to 29. There was frost on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday mornings, also, but in the early thirties. It was 33 degrees this morning.

Warmest day of the month was on the 7th when the thermometer reached 81. During the week there was 10 of an inch of rain, with only 59 of an inch recorded during the entire month.

Bonfire Pep Rally Set For Tonight

A bonfire pep rally for Southern High football boosters will be held tonight, Thursday, October 13, from 8:00 to 9:00 on the lot beside the Manhattan hotel, in Oakland.

This rally will precede two football games which will be held on Friday and Saturday against Terra Alta and Northern High. Both of these games are scheduled for the opponents' fields. Southern High Jayvees will be Northern High opponents.

Among the planned activities of the evening will be the lighting of the bonfire by the co-captains, Toby and Fred Colaw; speeches by Coach James DeMoss and Kenneth Johns, principal, cheering by the crowd and cheerleaders; and several band selections by the Southern High Band.

This event is sponsored by the Southern High cheerleaders. The entire football team will be present for the festivities.

Hearing Set on Beer Law Violation

The Board of County Commissioners, sitting as a Board of License Commissioners, set Monday, October 24, as the date for a hearing in the case of John Keister, of Grantsville, to determine whether or not his beer license should be revoked.

Keister pleaded guilty to violating the Garrett county beer laws before the court on September 29, and was fined $200 and costs. Conviction of a violation makes the individual liable for suspension of his license to sell beer. The law requires a hearing before any judgment is passed.

An average speed of 550 miles an hour on 3,038-mile non-stop test flight of new jetliner was announced.

Ribbon Cut On Kitzmiller Span

Bridge Officially Opened To Traffic Following Ceremonies Tuesday

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin on Tuesday morning cut the ribbon marking the official opening of the new bridge over the Potomac river that connects Kitzmiller with Blaine, W. Va.

A little later that day he cut the ribbon which marked the opening of a second bridge across the Potomac river, this time at Cumberland.

It was the first time in history that the State of Maryland has opened two bridges on the same day.

In a brief speech of dedication Gov. McKeldin said the bridge would serve to bring the states of Maryland and West Virginia closer together.

Several hundred spectators witnessed the ribbon-cutting ceremony. Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley, master of ceremonies, opened the program and called on various individuals for brief remarks.

Those responding were Russell McCain, chairman of the State Roads commission; Earl S. Shank, mayor of Kitzmiller; State Senator Clifford Friend; M. L. O'Neal, chief engineer of the State Roads Commission of West Virginia; and H. D. Swartzentruber, president of the Board of County Commissioners.

Governor McKeldin also officiated at the unveiling of the bridge plaque, along with Miss Alma Propst, Kitzmiller girl who had been named queen for the occasion. The plaque is at the Maryland entrance to the bridge, signifying that the structure shall be known as the Kitzmiller-Blaine Bridge.

Preceding the ceremony both the Northern High and Southern High bands played a number of selections.

Governor McKeldin noted in his address that in addition to the new record, the bridges "point up the progress of our 12-year highways program."

"Today is a red-letter day in Maryland's ceaseless struggle with the roadblock of her rivers," he declared.

Addresses Rotary On Postal Problems

The postoffice department as one of the biggest businesses in the country was explained last Friday evening by Robert E. Brown, assistant to the regional director of the Postoffice department, at a meeting of the Oakland Rotary club.

Labeled as one of the biggest business organizations on earth, Mr. Brown pointed out that the department's yearly financial transactions are in excess of 21 billion dollars, employing over 500 thousand people in nearly 10,000 post-offices, moving 54 billion pieces of mail, more than all the rest of the world combined.

Mr. Brown related a number of improvements that had been made since Postmaster General Summerfield had taken office, including establishment of a bureau of personnel, improvement in facilities, overhauling of transportation policies, extension of rural free delivery service, expediting of money orders, and a decentralization program.

He also pointed out that postal rates should be adjusted in order to reduce the daily deficit of around one million dollars. He declared the fiscal plight of the postoffice department was due primarily to the fact that postal rates have not kept pace with other price increases during recent years. He favored raising the 3-cent letter postage to four cents in order to bring the receipts more in line with the spending.

He pictured postal people as being proud of their history and proud to be playing a vital role in the payment of American life.

Announce Dates For Surplus Food Distribution

Oakland, October 20, 9 to 12; Bloomington, October 20, 13 to 16.

Kitzmiller, October 20, 3 to 4.

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

Fifteen Minutes A Day
Many people have never had an opportunity to get a college education, yet they have become educated in the best sense of the word by reading. Many of our time leaders in the past have done just that, including Lincoln.

Some one has figured it out in minutes and hours how many books can be read by devoting 15 minutes of every day to reading. The average reader can read 300 words a minute; in fifteen minutes he can read 4,500 words, or 31,500 words a week or 1,512,000 words a year. Since the average book is only 75,000 words long, an average reader by reading only fifteen minutes a day can read twenty books a year.

There is no expenditure of time that can pay such high and rare dividends as intelligent reading. In addition to making you a more interesting and broader person it can bring more pleasure than almost any other experience.

Books are the magic carpet by which we can travel to other lands, and get to know that country as well as though you had actually visited and seen it. A good book can give us a new insight of the thinking and customs of people of other lands.

The wonders of bird life, the stars, trees, animals—all the exciting mysteries of God's universe are unraveled for our pleasure. You can read about the mystery of Elizabethan England or the incredible courage of our pioneer American explorers if you take time to delve into a fascinating history book. You can learn the exciting new discoveries in farming, foods, or atomic energy; or you can view the great art treasures of civilization if you read a book.

All these riches are ours for the little time and energy spent in reading. Nearly every community in our country has access to some kind of library service. Our public libraries are willing and anxious to serve us. No greater service can be done our country than to increase the level of popular education through making time books easily available.

Most European countries have more libraries and do more reading than we do. In England, Germany and the Scandinavian countries about seven times as many persons read books as we do. Radio and TV have had an influence on our reading habits.

I am sure if we try, we can recapture the joy of reading, and make it a truly enriching and growing experience.

Nine criminally insane inmates of Weston State hospital who escaped were recaptured within twenty-four hours.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK E. KENT
Copyright © The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Speculation. Not Prophecy
There are few things less certain in this life than politics. Take the present situation. Two weeks ago the re-nomination and re-election of President Eisenhower seemed as sure as anything that far off could be. Today it seems equally sure that neither of those things can happen. But so many other things can that it takes a bold man indeed to prophesy.

However, there are two assumptions which seem safe to make. No. 1 is that Mr. Eisenhower, despite hopes in the hearts of many, is irrevocably out as the convention nominee. No. 2, that Chief Justice Earl Warren is also irrevocably out. Recently, notwithstanding his unequivocal statement last month on this subject, the Chief Justice privately has repeated that "under no circumstances" would he leave the Supreme Bench. No real friend of Mr. Warren and no real friend of the court would want him to violate that pledge. Probably he could be elected, but that merely makes his flat-footed refusal to be considered the more admirable. Further, it relieves the apprehensions of millions of Americans, whose basic belief is that the Supreme Court is and always should be completely aloof from politics. The firm stand of the Chief Justice is a rebuke to certain of his colleagues who, after their elevation to the highest bench in the world, continue to mingle with low-grade labor politicians and ostentatiously hold themselves open to "promotion" not only to the Presidency but to the Vice Presidency.

It isn't easy to upse these statements, but there are certain Republican politicians who nevertheless

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

During a typical year my speaking schedule takes me to more than 100 meetings, conventions, conferences, college and school assemblies, forums, workshops, dinners and luncheons. Among the most stimulating experiences are the occasions when I discuss the American way of life with high school or college students and faculties. As this column is written I have returned to my office from an especially inspiring experience in the field of education. The occasion was the school-opening program for the educational and administrative staffs of the Springfield (Missouri) public schools.

A full day was devoted to "Education for American Citizenship." In this city of 70,000, love of country and concern for the future freedom and happiness of the oncoming generation seemed to be a civic characteristic. What the Springfield public schools are doing, and how they are doing it, is of significance at a time when much public discussion is centering on education, its basic purposes, its academic programs and its methods.

School Superintendent Willard J. Graff keyed the day's activities with a "Statement of Purpose" adopted by the Springfield school system: "The administration and teachers in the Springfield Public Schools believe that the primary purpose of public school education in the United States of America is to maintain and promote the American way of life. They are earnestly committed to teaching the meaning of freedom and the know-how required to remain free."

The opening assembly program was followed by panel discussions on "Education for American Citizenship," with teachers serving as panel members. In my address opening the afternoon session I identified "the crisis of our generation" as the world situation in which nation after nation is being turned away (through force or subversion of thought) from the principles of faith in God, constitutional government, and private ownership of property. The challenge, which I have been emphasizing for many years, is to teach an oncoming generation in America the rightness of our American principles, how our system works, its comparative advantages, and the responsibilities of citizenship.

All the teachers participated in the workshops which followed. The citizenship education goals which were kept before each of these groups were: (1) To teach youth to value their heritage and to imbue them with a desire to safeguard it; (2) to create an understanding of and belief in the ideals upon which our nation was founded; (3) to instill in the hearts and minds of students an appreciation of our liberty and an attitude of loyalty to America.

It is my conviction that any education program in any public school in America which does not have similar goals, and whose administrators and teachers do not work diligently and intelligently toward achieving these goals, falls far short on its responsibilities in this critical period.

I continue to urge the Warren nomination on the ground that he would be a sure winner. Also, they urge that notwithstanding the completeness with which he has expressed his determination to remain on the court, Mr. Warren would yield to the urgent request of the President to resign and run for the Eisenhower convention support. It is also possible that after his nomination the President might not be able to transfer his own big personal following to his choice. There are some striking instances where presidents of great popularity failed to transfer their personal following to someone of their choice. Perhaps the most striking in our time was in 1928, when the late President Roosevelt undertook to "purge" the Democratic senators he had not been able to convince to supporting his radical New Deal program. One of these was former Senator Millard Tydings of Maryland. In his case the Roosevelt opposition increased rather than decreased his majority. These are dangerous days to prophesy.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

Maryland, as visualized by reporters for three States newspapers, is a State which lives above all from the exportation of tobacco.

It is also a State which "feels very near to Switzerland" because it does not compromise either with liberty, the newsmen explained to their readers.

The explanatory comments, included in stories which the papers carried concerning Senator J. Glenn Beall's current official visit to Geneva, were carried in La Suisse, Journal de Geneve and La Tribune.

Clippings of the stories accompanied by translations from the original French just arrived here and indicating from their contents, the Senator received the type of reception that is a legislator's dream.

Spirit of Liberty
In La Tribune, for instance, the article began with, "Un eminent homme politique américain . . .". The translator rendered that phrase as "An eminent American politician."

Additional background for the interview was provided through such remarks as: "Maryland is in majority Democratic, but Senator Beall is himself Republican, which shows the States' spirit of liberty and tolerance."

Freedom of Commerce
It was the Senator's philosophy on trade which made the greatest impression on the Swiss newsmen, however.

One newspaper ran this quote from the Senator: "In the realm of exchange, we recommend freedom of commerce in order that other countries can buy what we produce."

Another paper attributed the following statement to him: "We want you to continue to buy our tobacco, and we also want you to be able to sell your Swiss watches in the United States."

Surprise Due
Senator Beall, who is attending a conference of the International Labor Organization, will arrive home October 17.

And there'll be a surprise in store for him. The electrical fixtures in his office, which have long looked like farm-shed brass, are gradually being shined up into a light-reflecting silver.

The discovery that silver plating was hidden beneath the dark cover which had accumulated over the fixtures in the old Senate Office Building was first made by the staff of Senator O'Mahoney, of Wyoming. Having rubbed out their own lights, they then told other offices of the secret.

Original Fixtures
According to the superintendent of the building, the fixtures probably have been under their dull coating since shortly after the structure was erected in 1909.

It would have been too expensive to have kept sufficient men on the regular custodial force to shine all the lights, he explained, and the silver finish probably faded away without being missed by anyone.

29 Marriage Permits Granted Past Week

Twenty-nine marriage licenses were issued during the past week ending Monday at noon from the office of Richard L. Davis, clerk of the Circuit court. Thirty-two licenses were issued the previous week, making sixty-one for the two weeks' period. Twenty-two of those were issued in September which brought the total for the entire month to 134 October licenses now total 39.

Two of the licenses issued during the past week were marked "don't publish."

ONE WORD . . .
Can Change Your Life
By REV. ROBT. OLEWILER
Pastor, Grace Reformed Church, Washington, D. C.

BEST
If you tackle your task resolving to do the best you can, so that others, through your success will be blessed, you have enlisted in the true way of life.

Take an ethical physician. Just as soon as he has created a new medicine or invented a new instrument for the relief of suffering, he announces it immediately so that all the world can share in the healing advantages. How thankful we can be for so many physicians, nurses and humanitarians in every field who, looking upon us in our various ills and pains, take seriously those words of the Carpenter of Nazareth: "For their sakes I sanctify myself."

There are many people in the world of course, who are satisfied to do, not their best, but just their bit. You don't have to join their ranks. Keep company with the Carpenter. Remember that you make the most of your life when the victories that come to you are blessings that go to others. So always do your best, the word that can change your life.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

A Matter of Indifference

It is unfortunate that so many of our own people do not realize to this day the hazard of communist infiltration of free institutions; that they do not recognize the foot-print of the Kremlin in our government, our labor unions, and even our schools. "What can 25,000 card-carrying communists do?" they scoff.

Ask the people of Estonia, Latvia, Rumania, Hungary, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia. Ask them how a handful of people in the right places were able to open the gates of their country and place the hawks of Red Russia in the very seat of their governments? Ask the people of Germany what six men and a painter by the name of Adolph Hitler were able to do to their homeland. Ask the people of the Soviet what Lenin and a few faithful followers were able to do to the Russian bear and her untold millions of martyred people? Ask the Christian world what twelve simple men, filled with dedication and purpose, were able to do in transforming the spiritual face of the earth?

Dedication and purpose, those are the keys that give a single man the power and strength of an army. That is a point the scorners might well heed. And all the rest of us have to do to betray America is precisely nothing. Be neutral and indifferent. Continue in our complacency long enough, and all of our troubles will be over. Neither an honorable dead man nor a cowering slave worries about maintaining the strength and integrity of free institutions.

Some of our own good neighbors may be an unwitting accomplice of those who exploit the decency and the traditional tolerance of our country. Not I say, because they do not love America, but because they do not know the evil that would ensue if they did. If they could clearly see the headliness of communism and the falsity of its pretended concern for peace and human welfare they would surely be able to summon the moral courage and the Safety Is Feature of Club Meeting

An informal discussion on the topic of "Safety" featured the opening meeting of the Junior Woman's Civic club of Oakland for the fall and winter months. The session was held last Thursday, October 6, at the William-James hotel.

Guests included Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh, Henry Arnold, chief of Police; Corporal Sam Conrad, of the State Police; and Mrs. E. Irving Baumgartner, first district president, Maryland Federation of Women's clubs.

Questions were asked of the guests on what the club as a whole could do toward making the town a safer place for its adults and children. It was agreed that safety educational programs would aid in making people more aware of the dangers of speeding and disregard of traffic signs.

A list was given to Mayor Hinebaugh of "dangerous spots" in Oakland which he agreed to bring to the attention of the Mayor and Town Council.

A brief business meeting followed the discussion. The club plans a bake sale at the DeWitt and Delivery store on Alter street on November 11.

Southern Spills St. Francis, 13-7

Will Play Sixth Game At Terra Alta Friday Afternoon

A well balanced and improved Southern High school football team of Oakland added another victory to its record last Saturday by spilling St. Francis High school of Morgantown, W. Va., to the tune of 13 to 7 on the local gridiron.

The win was the second in five tries for Coach Jim DeMoss' Highlanders, their other win coming over the Romney School for the Deaf. They have dropped decisions to Moorefield and Beall while knocking Petersburg in other encounters.

The home team built up a commanding 13-0 lead by intermission and then hung on to log the win over the same Trojans who tripped LaSalle's Explorers of Cumberland the previous Sunday 19 to 14.

Southern threatened early in the first period. Southern had the ball on its 32 and aided by an 18-yard pass interference penalty reached the St. Francis 18 stripe where a pass from Toby Colaw to Sowers was intercepted. St. Francis failed to gain on three running plays. A short punt was run back to the St. Francis 24. Southern went on the ground to the 4 and Bob Glaze scored around left end but was penalized fifteen yards for holding.

On the third down Toby Colaw passed to Dan Garrett in the end zone for eleven yards and the TD. Allen Sowers' placement was blocked.

Late in the first quarter St. Francis went to the Southern 37 on a 44-yard run by Hollis but after three line plays gained only five yards and lost the ball on an incomplete 4th down pass.

Near the end of the second quarter Fred Colaw returned a punt to Southern's 46. Aided by runs of 15 yards by Deckman and 25 by F. Colaw Southern carried on the ground to the four-yard stripe where Deckman carried it through center for four and the TD. Toby Colaw's placement was good and the half ended 13 to 0. The second quarter was all Southern. St. Francis failed to make a first down.

After an exchange of punts Southern had the ball on the St. Francis 21 as the half ended.

St. Francis came storming back after an apparent halftime pep talk to completely dominate play in the third quarter. It was in this quarter that the Frankies pushed 82 yards for their lone touchdown. A 29-yard pass play from quarterback Sam Hollis to end Charles Buffalo highlighted the spurt and moved the Trojans to within two yards of paydirt. Hollis sneaked over on the next play and Mascio converted.

Early in the quarter Southern made two first downs and went into St. Francis territory but a 15-yard penalty forced them to give up the ball on a punt.

In the final quarter Southern controlled the ball most of the time, giving it to St. Francis for only eight plays.

In the final minute of the game Southern returned a punt to the 45. On the first play Deckman ran to the 11 and was tackled from be-

PROUD PARENTS—Parents of Southern High school's football team were in the limelight at last Saturday's game with St. Francis of Morgantown, the event being officially hind to end the game. It was the final home game for Southern and was celebrated with a Parents' day. Parents had special seats behind the substitute bench and carried numbers similar to those their sons were wearing in the game.

Starting for Southern were Garrett and Knotts at end, McRobie and Evans at tackle, Marley and Lee at guard with Hoyer center, Toby Colaw at quarterback, F. Colaw and Glaze at halfback and Deckman at fullback.

Substitutions included Sowers, Mason, Grubb, Raynovich, Jackson, Walla, Harsh, Don Evans, Brohawn, John Ruff and Fred Dillard.

Southern will play its sixth game of the season on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Terra Alta against Terra Alta High school.

On Saturday the Southern Jayvee team will play the Northern High Huskies at the Cove. The game will start at 1:30.

Ribbon Cut On

(Continued From Page One) clared, "Today, in doubleheader ceremonies, we dedicate not one major bridge but two, both across the Potomac river and as the crow flies, only six miles apart."

"The bridge at Kitzmiller, with its 1800 feet of approach roads on both river banks, replaces the old wooden bridge built in the horse and buggy days of 1881 and large enough then to accommodate only one wagon at a time. I understand negotiations are in progress to the end that this old landmark may be decided by the two states to the municipality of Kitzmiller for use as a pedestrian walkway to the neighboring town of Blaine, West Virginia."

"The new bridge at Cumberland replaces the old iron and wooden plank structure built in 1903 when the first automobiles were emerging on the current scene but were not thought to be a serious threat to the dominance of wagons and carriages."

"Maryland does not often dedicate a new bridge. When it does, it points up the progress of our 12-year program but also sets a new record. State Roads engineers advise me that never before in our history have we been able to open two new bridges on the same day."

"The records show that since

1905 our State has built 10 new bridges across the Potomac river in addition to the magnificent toll bridge at Morgantown in Southern Maryland. Upstream from Washington there is the bridge at Point of Rocks built in 1937; the new bridge at Brunswick just constructed and opened to the public this past July; the bridge at Sandy Hook built in 1947 and supplanting the one destroyed by the flood of 1936; the one at Shepherdstown, West Virginia, erected in 1938; the bridge at Hancock, spanning not only the river but the railroad tracks and U. S. Route 40, built in 1939; the one at Paw Paw, West Virginia, built in 1930; the Wiley Ford bridge in Cumberland, built in 1908, remodeled and repaired in 1936, and still concededly inadequate; the Keyser-Motolo bridge built in 1951; the Westernport bridge erected in 1925; and the bridge at Gormanville erected in 1931.

"These average out at one new Potomac bridge built by our State every five years."

"This year three bridges have opened. And now two in one day, both built by the State Roads Commission but financed jointly by West Virginia. In fact, these new bridges will be the joint property of both our States."

"This achievement signifies not only our determination to improve our bridge system but brings into focus the inadequacy of many of our bridges. From the point of view of modern traffic needs. Many more new bridges lie ahead of us in our 12-year program, which is moving steadily ahead on schedule. After a whirlwind start in 1951 a breathing spell was in order this year while the draftsmen caught up with the bulldozers. Beginning this month, Road Commission engineers advise me, our program will move ahead at a fairly steady pace of about $1,000,000 per month in right of way acquisition and construction work put under contract."

"Thus our program is moving ahead strictly on schedule. And that is the way we want to keep it."

Prior to beginning his planned address the Governor remarked briefly on the continuing necessity of taxes if people want better roads.

"The only way to keep from having more taxes is for people to stop having babies," the governor declared. He went on to explain that the plan for additional money for secondary roads had been prepared by adding to the automobile registration tax, but which the legislature refused to pass. This was the reason, he said, that additional county roads could not be constructed at this time.

The new bridge at Kitzmiller has a 28-foot roadway plus sidewalks. There are 1200 feet of approaches in Maryland and 650 in West Virginia. The bridge was built by the George F. Hazelwood company of Cumberland at a contract price of $311,901.

A luncheon at the Kitzmiller fire hall followed the ceremonies.

Republicans signed contract with San Francisco's Cow Palace for its national convention there August 29, 1956.

Gas Company Says

(Continued From Page One) operating its gas mains in the town and providing gas for the use of individual citizens. The old franchise expired in 1949. Late last year the company offered a new agreement to the town which did not include free gas but the city council tabled any action.

Gas company officials then agreed to continue to provide free gas until this past summer when some other arrangements were to be worked out.

Other Routine Business

Other business before the Mayor and Council on Monday evening was mostly routine. Receipts for the month amounted to $6,804.69, with $257.80 from water, $3,994.01 from taxes and $3,052.88 from miscellaneous. Among miscellaneous items were $740.31 from parking meters and $1,600.01 from bank stock tax.

Expenditures totaled $6,987.62 which included paying out $1,304.60 for street labor and $1,098.48 for street supplies. There was a bank balance of $6,075.82.

A test of the city water showed O.K. Sunday movie tax amounted to $51.30 for the month of September. A permit was granted to Kitzmiller and Edgar to erect a residence for Spencer Graham on North Third street, 37 by 61, brick veneer, at a cost of approximately $15,000.

Ralph Pritts appeared before council in regard to repair of the alley in rear of his garage and an outlet for some garages on Ninth street. The council agreed the work needed to be done but noted it could not be done this year.

A new traffic light is to be placed at Third and Green streets. Council also agreed to pay Joe Cogley $336.50 for painting residence and pump house on municipal water farm. Council agreed to repair Wilson street north of Pennington, widening the street enough to permit parking.

Northern Defeats Terra Alta High

Northern High school, a comparatively new face among the area's grid teams, picked up its first football victory in history of the school last Saturday by surprising Terra Alta high school 13 to 7, at the Cove.

The win enabled the Huskies of Coach Denver L. Mitchell to remain unbeaten in two games, having played the Meyersdale B team to a 6-6 tie in the opener.

Northern capitalized on a blocked punt early in the initial quarter to set up its first score. After kicking off to Terra Alta and holding the West Virginians on downs, Roy Rexrode crashed through to bat down a fourth-down punt and recovered on the opponents' 20-yard stripe for Northern.

On third down quarterback Carl Mazer hit Joe Bender, with a screen pass and the speedy halfback scooted across for the tally with less than five minutes gone in the game. An attempted pass from Mazer to end Dick Spear for the extra point was knocked down in the end zone.

With four minutes left in the first half the visitors put together a sustained ground march of 40 yards for their lone TD. After taking a Northern punt to the Husky 40 Terra Alta moved in five plays for the score with a 30-yard carry around left end by Friend, carrying to the 10. In two plays Terra Alta had its touchdown with Friend going over from two yards out. Friend planned for the point after touchdown to give Terra Alta a 7-6 lead at intermission.

After a scoreless first period the Huskies, playing alert ball, recovered a fumble deep in Terra Alta territory which led to the eventual margin of victory. After Friend had intercepted a Mazer aerial on his own 26 Eddie Rush, Northern's right tackle, turned around and recovered a fumble at the same point.

Two successive passes from Mazer to right end Ross Selby netted 18 yards and a first down on the eight-yard line. Mazer, with the aid of a key block by Rexrode, ran to the end zone on the next play. A Mazer to Bender pass for the extra point wrapped up the scoring and Northern's first win.

Rexrode, Bender and Mazer played best for Northern while Friend was the mainstay for Terra Alta.

Heads Power Co

Retirement of A. C. Spurr from the presidency of Monongahela Power Company and the election of Don B. Potter to succeed him were announced last week.

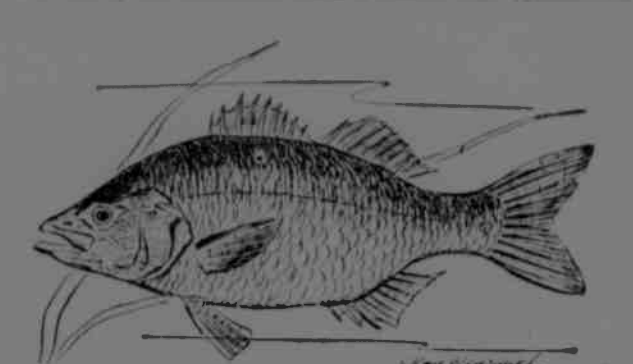

Spurr, a 30-year veteran of Monongahela and its affiliates in the West Penn Electric System, will complete his services on October 31. Potter, for the past year the company's Administrative Vice President, takes over as president on November 1.

The changes in top management of the electric utility serving central and northern West Virginia, most of Garrett county and adjacent areas in Ohio and Virginia were made public following the regular October meeting of the Monongahela board of directors. The West Maryland Power Company is a subsidiary of Monongahela.

The Spurr retirement removes from the utility field a man who, as president of Monongahela since 1935, has made an outstanding record and has gained national recognition for progressive management practices. The Fairmont executive and his family will move to Wheeling, where he resided before coming to Fairmont. He will remain as secretary of the Upper Monongahela Valley Association, a regional development body which he helped originate, and as chairman of the management committee of the Fairmont Coal Bureau. He plans to retain an active interest in the continued economic develop-

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

WHITE PERCH
(Morone americana)

RANGE: Found mostly in tidal region of the Atlantic coast from Canada to South Carolina, also in freshwater ponds, particularly in New England where they grow to large sizes abundant in Upper Chesapeake Bay, Susquehanna River and other Bay tributaries; most common where the water is brackish.

DESCRIPTION: Sides are silver, getting greener towards the back; large specimens from Upper Chesapeake Bay are almost black along back; sometimes reaches a length of 15 inches, but the average is around 8 or 9 inches; very similar in looks to the white and yellow basses and closely related to them and also the striped bass; has smaller mouth than any of these species.

BREEDING: Usually in region of Maryland the spawning period is from about April to June; the height of spawning period is probably last of April and first part of May; they will spawn in brackish and even salt water, but many migrate into shallow fresh water to spawn. Eggs in stickier masses are more or less scattered on bottom and receive no parental attention; hatch at a temperature of about 60 degrees F. in two or three days; takes longer in colder water.

HABITS: A school fish, equally at home in fresh or salt water; prefer brackish waters; found in deep holes in Chesapeake Bay throughout a good part of year; around bars and shoals in spring, summer and fall. Feeds on crustaceans, aquatic insects, fish eggs, blood worms, and most any other marine life. Green shrimp a popular bait with the angler.

MANAGEMENT: Can be afforded legal protection through restrictions on commercial netting, daily and size limits; however it could become too plentiful resulting in a shortage of food in some waters, and stunted fish; at present it is very plentiful in Chesapeake Bay waters and probably needs no protection further than it is now receiving.

VALUE: A fine food fish and of great commercial value in Maryland; it also provides good sport to many hook and line fishermen, who also harvest a large supply of excellent sea food.

Adult Education
Classes To Begin
Monday, Oct. 24

One hundred and eighty-three persons registered at Southern High school last week for a variety of Adult Education classes to begin the week of Monday, October 24. People registered for classes in typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, mathematics, English, history, agriculture, science, shop, home economics, and a new area to be developed in "Self-Employed Handicrafts."

There is still time for others who failed to register to this date to become a member of some Adult Education class. Anyone over 18 and not in school is eligible to enroll. People who need refresher courses in mathematics, science, English and history preparatory to taking a high school equivalence examination will find the opportunity through adult classes to do so. An average attendance of at least 10 must be maintained in order to conduct a class in Adult Education. Except for materials used there is no cost attached to attending these classes.

Six centers were set up for Adult Education classes this year. They are in the schools at Southern High, Northern High, Kitzmiller, Grantsville, Friendsville, and Red House. However, up to the present time the only center which has enrolled enough adults for night classes has been Southern High School. Other centers will have from now until October 21 to establish sufficient enrollment for classes. Adults are urged to take advantage of these night classes.

Some thought is being given to the establishment of a new class to be called "Self-Employed Handicrafts." This class is for people who wish to develop some skill in handicraft arts for their own commercial benefit. People interested in a class of this kind should contact the principal of one of the schools listed above as a center for Adult Education. A variety of handicraft will be developed in this program, as well as a plan for marketing the finished products.

The program committee plans to repair the playground equipment as its project for the year. The next meeting is set for October 19.

Five Year Program
Given for Schools

The five-year program for Maryland Schools was fully outlined last Thursday evening at a meeting of the County Council of Parents and Teachers, held at the Southern High school.

Melvin C. Cole, president of the Maryland State Teachers association, was the speaker. A film showing the shortage of teachers and the need for classrooms entitled "The Busiest Place in Town" was presented.

Mr. Cole went into detail in explaining the five-year plan, declaring that the soaring school enrollments had posed a pressing challenge. He gave figures which showed that compared to 1945 when 273,556 children were enrolled in grades 1 to 12 in Maryland, that in 1954 there were 435,907, and that in 1960 the figure would reach 562,000.

Maryland's schools were depicted as already overcrowded and that the teacher shortage threatened to become more severe. The need of an average of 3,000 new teachers each year was pointed out.

Mr. Cole also showed that at least 6,000 new classrooms would be needed by 1960 and this figure is recommended as a part of the five-year program. Other recommendations include increased aid for teachers colleges, improved retirement benefits for teachers, a new state minimum salary scale for teachers, additional state aid for public libraries and state aid for driver education in public high schools. A breakdown of the figures showed it was estimated that Garrett county would need 66 new classrooms by 1959-60 school year.

A $200 million school building program during the next five years is proposed with at least one-half of the amount to be provided through State aid. Also proposed in the program is a minimum salary scale of $3,200 to $5,000 for teachers with a four-year degree.

Mr. Cole declared that according to most recent information available the citizens of 39 states pay a larger part of their income for sup-

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

The World Is So Full
The child's verse by Robert Louis Stevenson, "The world is so full of a number of things, I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings," surely applies to us this month.

So much beauty, so much color, the air fragrant, all nature leisurely—all except humans.

I wish it were illegal to do anything this month but gather nuts and moss and driftwood, and hunt. And stand on high hills to feast on landscape. Or rustle leaves in wooded paths with a pause here and there to watch leaves afloat in mountain brook.

It's all ours—just for the planning, and the gypsy does run rampant in all of us now and then. When she does, then we have things to remember forever.

Davis Plains

Such was the case when I hit the gypsy trail with my neighbors this week—and visited a foreign country some fifty miles from here.

I had heard them enthuse over this spot for several years—this high plateau beyond Canaan Valley. How many acres of huckleberries and how lush the cranberry bogs. But as Heather said on viewing it—"It's like Cinemasia. You can't describe it. You've just got to see it for yourself."

To have a motive for a trip makes it twice as interesting. Like adding salt to potatoes. This day it was to visit cranberry bogs and gather berries.

I had visions of picking them from bushes that grew in swamps. But I supposed we'd keep our feet on dry land while reaching out for them.

Now a bog is unlike any swamp I ever saw. There's water underneath and moss as thick as a foam rubber mattress and every bit as soft. This pink spongy moss is the plant on which the cranberries grow. They're a sister of the turkey berry. There were berries by the acre. When the sun shone on them it took the tiniest imagination to feel that you were visiting Solomon's mines.

I Learned A Lesson

Isn't it wonderful the way God provides for our needs—I thought as I set down my 10-quart kettle to make fast work of filling it. At that moment I got generous. I could think of dozens of people I'd like to give sauce for their Thanksgiving table—all free for the picking.

But God protects His interest—I soon found you couldn't squat, you couldn't bend at the knees—you just had to bend from the back—with feet spread apart—sinking deeper by the minute—reaching down, pulling these pea sized berries out of the moss. It wasn't long until I prized what I had picked as if they were jewels from King Solomon's mines.

The four hours we were there I got three quarts, plus aches in muscles that I didn't know I had.

I Got A Laugh, Too

As long as I live I will remember that day as a mountain top experience. But I will also chuckle as I have every time I picture her in my mind. Her happened to be Sally Naylor (Mrs. Paul), a woman whom I always thought of as immaculately dressed and even sedate.

She was in this party and looking pretty nice for such a jaunt—blue flannel dress with ear rings to match, both the shade of her eyes. Her white fluffy hair completed a very pretty picture against a blue sky. That was my picture of her as I moved into the bog.

The next time I viewed her I could hardly believe my eyes—wearing her nylons looped around her neck. She was barefoot and in to the shins—right into the swing

With The Guard

The army is beginning to stir with activity in preparation for the two big affairs which will take place there within the next few weeks. The first of the affairs will be on October 30 when a representative of the Inspector General's office will be on hand for the annual Federal Inspector General's inspection. On November 12, the formal dedication of the Army will take place. Details have been assigned to each platoon for completion in readiness for this event. All of the unit's equipment and training aids will be on display. The kitchen personnel will set up the kitchen and serve refreshments. We are in hopes that this will be one of the most successful dedications that have taken place in the State.

Members of "C" Company assisted other civil defense organizations during the practice alert held last Saturday. During an actual alert, all members of the unit would, at the first signal, report to the armory. At this time the situation would be explained to the men and they would be dispersed to points where they could best help get the situation in hand.

A firing squad and color bearers in the charge of Cpl. Richard Criss went to Sand Flat to participate in the funeral of a World War II veteran.

Several promotions have been granted recently. They are: Cpl. William E. Lewis, to Sergeant; Pvt. Benjamin E. Shaffer, Daniel L. Tasker, Thomas F. Turner and Darryl E. Uphold to Pfc. These men have been doing a fine job in the unit and we know that they will continue to do so.

Crew served weapons will be highlighting the training of members of this unit for the next few weeks. Crew served weapons are those which require a crew of two or more men for their efficient operation. These weapons include: Machine guns calibre .30 and .50 and the .55 rocket launcher. This training will be given by the following instructors: Sfc. Floyd O. Custer, Sgts. Doyle E. Biser and William E. Lewis, and Cpls. Richard Criss and Kenneth Methoney. Saturday, Nov. 19, is the date which has been set by Battalion Headquarters for the firing of these weapons at Camp Dawson, W. Va.

It was announced the 1956 season would begin June 1 with a dinner and dance in conjunction with a series of boat races. Plans also were formulated for installation of a new locker room for the women, remodeling the living room and enlarging the docking facilities.

of things trying to fill the cup of her thorns.
Laugh—I thought I would die. But she had the last laugh. On the way home she looked as fresh as the morn, drinking in the mountain scenery in dry shoes. While I looked like a wind blown, weather beaten hag of the mountains, feeling the way anyone feels who has spent the day in wet shoes.

New Industry Seen For Grantsville

A new industry in Grantsville, the manufacture of charcoal briquettes, will soon be a reality if efforts to raise necessary capital are successful.

Mountaineer Charcoal Corporation is the name of the new business venture and a certificate of incorporation has been issued by the State of Maryland.

Harry W. Fritz, Jr., Cumberland, president and general manager, pointed out that briquettes are for home use as well as for industry and the demand for the product is increasing.

The plant would be housed in the building formerly occupied by the Carroll County Cooperative Cannery. The site was obtained with the assistance of Albert H. Hargreaves, industrial promotion director for the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce. Target date for production is April 1, 1956.

Advantages would include access to the Casselman railroad. It is also only a short distance from Route 40 and within 31 miles of the Pennsylvania Turnpike. Nearby woodlands of oak, maple and hickory offer an ample supply of raw material.

Built in 1947, the three-story concrete block building has reinforced concrete floors and structural steel to assure a strong plant. There are 37,000 square feet of available space. Operation of the manufacture of the oval-shaped briquettes, which measure two inches by two inches by one and one-eighth inches, begins in the kilns which would be located near the community of Grantsville.

The newly-formed corporation has been authorized to issue 2,500 shares of stock with a par value of $100 per share. The company is contemplating issuing 1,200 shares of stock and 500 bonds at the value of $100 for each certificate. A prospectus has been prepared.

Mrs. Glenn Eagle, chairman of World Community Day of the Oakland Council of Church Women, called a meeting of her committee last Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Paul B. Naylor, president of the local council. Plans were made for the annual meeting which will be held Friday afternoon, November 4, at 2 o'clock in the E. U. B. Church at Loch Lynn.

"Building Lasting Peace" is the theme of World Community Day and all church women of the county are invited to the meeting.

The offering will go for food for the hungry and needy, supporting the Church World Service program of "Share our surplus" in such areas as French West Africa, to Arab refugees, in the mountain villages of Greece and Austria where men are learning to farm marginal land, and to Japan to train teachers to help disabled and handicapped men and women to earn a living.

Mrs. William Bell, chairman of "Parcels for Peace" states that parcels of clothing will go to Pakistan, India, Okinawa and Korea. The request is for boys' clothing from 15 years up, men's clothes, especially suits and overcoats, children's clothing and also yardage of denim or sheeting for refugee mothers to make into work clothes for their husbands and sons.

The topic for the day will be "Give Us This Day Our Daily Bread."

Staff Sergeant Winston W. Teats, son of Mrs. Verdie Teats, Friendsville, re-enlisted in the U.S. Air Force for a period of six years, beginning October 5. Sgt. Teats is assigned with the Wright Air Development Center at Wright-Patterson AF Base, Ohio, as a photo technician.

Suggest Ways To Improve Safety

The Junior Woman's Civic club of Oakland presented a letter to the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland at Monday night's regular meeting in which the club gave a number of suggestions to improve safety conditions around the town and also listed a number of danger spots where safety precautions could be improved.

The seven suggestions:

1. Larger signs at entrances to town stating speed limit.
2. Suggested garages test cars out of town instead of in city limits.
3. Publish names of people who are fined.
4. Make "Children Playing" signs available for any area needed.
5. Request State Police to enforce speed limit on state highways through town.
6. Remove 30-mile sign on 4th street because of danger when entering or leaving hospital drives.
7. Extend 25-mile speed limit out Oak street to town limits.

They listed the following danger spots:

1. Corner 4th and old Deer Park road.
2. Center street at Elementary school and Oak street in front of Parochial school with suggestion for 15-mile limit for school zones.
3. Second street and Omar streets, noted for excessive speeds.
4. Entrance to State road from Deer Park road, with blinker light suggested.
5. Turn off toward hospital opposite Legion home.
6. More patrolling of state highway from Custard stand out toward the lake.
7. Overhead bridge on Third street with single lane sign suggested.

Southern Magazine Campaign Progresses

Southern High School's Annual Magazine Campaign hit the quarter mark last Friday afternoon during a special assembly program held to show the various standings of each homeroom.

9B, Miss Dilgard's homeroom, is leading in the campaign with sales totaling $166.66. The following homerooms have met their quota: 9A, Mrs. Hutchinson; 9C, Mr. Bishop; 7B, Mr. Domenick. When the magazine campaign closes Monday, October 17, it is hoped that the magazine sales will have reached $3,500.00. Last year, Southern students sold $2,200.00 worth of magazines.

Money from this campaign is used to enrich the learning situations of the students. If this goal is reached the school plans to purchase a new set of encyclopedias for the library and to increase the services of the Audio-Visual Aids department in the school. This latter organization provides educational films and film strips for the student body.

Approximately one-third of the total sales is returned to the school.

Planning Groups Discuss Opening of School Term

Seven planning groups reported to the secretary for September which included group 1 by Mrs. Guy Stanton, group 2 by Mrs. Walter Harman, group 3 by Mrs. Parker Warnick, group 4 by Mrs. Mary Breneman, group 5 by Mrs. Ethel Schlossnagle, group 6 by Mrs. Pearl Shultz, group 7 by Mrs. Donna Giotfelly.

"School Opens," was the topic used. The discussions centered on safe transportation to and from school. Nearly all groups felt that blanket state-wide laws were not the only solutions to the problem. Most groups felt that a slow 15-mile speed zone near schools was needed but should be applied especially where roads were near school buildings.

The groups felt well planned safety discussions were needed in the schools. Merle A. Garlettis, secretary, said the report showed the people felt that safety was taught but not enough emphasis was being placed on safety in the schools. There was complete agreement that no 16-year-old should be allowed to drive cars to school and transport other students, declaring it was dangerous and unnecessary.

Groups lauded the results of driver training courses but felt it was too limited and not available to students needing it most. Most groups indicated the use of pictures illustrating results of accidents was questionable, being a negative teaching. But they felt that the law governing school bus drivers should remain rigid and be enforced.

Mr. Garlettis said the monthly reports from the groups had been intelligent and worthwhile.

Final quarter of year found retail sales climbing, plenty of jobs at good pay, and continued boom in industrial production.

Meet The Students

This is the second in a series of articles appearing about the students of Southern High school. This week the two students chosen are Fred Teets and Doris Lawson.

Fred Teets, 16, is a senior at Southern High, 11th grade. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Teets. He has two brothers, Charles, eight years old and attending Oakland Elementary school, and Bill, who was graduated from Southern last year. His father is employed as a car salesman at the Lay-Tek garage in Oakland.

Fred's birthplace is near Silver Knob Sand company, and he is presently residing there with his parents.

Fred participated in many school activities. He is vice president of the Student Government and is very active in council work. Last year he was one of the delegates who attended the Student Council convention at Bladenburg. He is also a member of the Dramatic club.

Fred is excellent in the academic course and is particularly interested in mathematics. He hopes to attend college and study engineering.

The classes which Fred enjoys are Spanish and Algebra. He favors the country team and football and basketball. He favors the trombone. He has been a member of the band for five years.

Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

Gainful employment during school hours and on week-ends is one of the most effective moves available to counteract the baneful results of the young people having "time on their hands." Last week, as a part of American Newspaper Week, a day was set aside to honor the carriers of our newspapers. These youngsters are reaping the benefits of a gainful occupation and at the same time learning the rudiments of business life. I am proud of the newspapers of the 6th Maryland District and of the youngsters who deliver our papers.

Last week's observance of Newspaper Week is an important reminder of the part newspapers play in our Republic. In noting a recent history of the development of the newspaper as a disseminator of information I was struck by a phrase which I think best characterizes our American press. The phrase referred to the fact that newspapers in this country do not have the age that some of the world's great papers do, but "because of freedom from political control they developed more rapidly."

Since December 15, 1791, we have had as part of our Constitution the guarantee of a free press. It is our heritage and we must ever strive to permit free access to news in government as well as to defeat censorship moves whenever and wherever it appears.

With every form of freedom there is an equal responsibility to exercise that freedom with wisdom. I think that the record of the Pattern to Follow . . .

A substantial gift to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital this week has recalled for us again that such a practice should be a never ending one for all of our citizens.

The possibility of a gift to the hospital could very well be on the minds of all of us, for the problem of continuous mercy to the ill and ailing is an ever present one. Hospitals are instruments of mercy and unless such gifts are forthcoming from time to time, it might be very easy for a board of directors to become hard-hearted and seemingly cruel because of the need for making ends meet financially.

These substantial contributions now and then light up the pathway that might otherwise be unpleasant and too business like.

Although Mr. and Mrs. White would be the last ones to expect public thanks for their very generous gift, nevertheless these thanks are expressed here in all sincerity. It is not the first time Mr. and Mrs. White have been thinking of their former residence. They have made previous generous contributions to the hospital and to other local projects.

We just hope their kindly act will inspire others who have the means to take similar steps, so that the hospital could remain on a paying basis and not be subject from year to year to the mercy of the County Commissioners.

The Commissioners, thus far of course, have never failed to come through for the support of the hospital, and in fact agreed to originally to assume responsibility for its upkeep. Thus far the expense has been less than in former years when certain sums had to be paid annually to other hospitals for care of the sick and needy. But that doesn't lessen the need for continued thought on hospital contributions as an ideal way to carry out some of the teachings of Jesus. The act of Mr. and Mrs. White is a pattern to be followed.

Presents Gift of Large Farm To Garrett County Hospital

Contributors Are Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. White—Appraised At $45,000

The outright gift of a large farm with all its buildings, equipment, live stock and mineral rights was presented to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board of Directors at a regular meeting of that group on Monday evening.

Contributor is Charles M. White, of Cleveland, O., who is now president of Republic Steel Corp.

The property has been valued at about $45,000.

The various deeds to the farm known as "White Farm," were turned over to the hospital board as a memorial from both Mr. and Mrs. White to their parents, the late Charles E. and Estella Jarboe White, of Oakland. The letter from Mr. and Mrs. White was presented to the board by J. M. Jarboe.

Mr. White also made arrangements to pay the farmer on the property for three additional months' salary to operate the farm until the board could determine what to do with it.

The board gratefully accepted the gift but took no action Monday as to what will be done. "Whatever is done will be done to the best advantage of the hospital," A. G. Goutner, president of the board stated, "and this is the way Mr. White would want it."

Mr. White stated he was reserving a small plot of ground, about thirty acres, on the northwest corner of the farm which had little value to the farm itself but was being kept for the view and sentimental value.

It was further stated that the oil and gas rights for which he was paid a regular quarterly fee, were under option to a firm in Uniontown, and he said he was asking that this option be turned over to the hospital board.

In his letter to the board, Mr. White concluded by saying "I feel that the Memorial Hospital has been badly needed for many years in Oakland and is doing a wonderful service to the community. It is with sincere pleasure that Mrs. White and I make this donation."

Mrs. White is the former Helen Bradley, Lonaconing, daughter of William B. and Jean Bradley. They have one daughter, Mrs. George Thomas, and two grandchildren, of Cleveland. Mr. and Mrs. White have made previous substantial contributions to the hospital and other local projects.

Present at the Board of Directors to receive the gift on Monday night were A. G. Goutner, Dr. Thomas Lusby, Virgil T. Steyer, Hubert Friend, Mrs. Pearl Thrasher, H. D. Swartzentruber, Aubrey Brennenman, Ervin A. Roth and Mrs. E. Z. Tower. Two members were unable to attend. They were Dr. E. I. Baumgartner and Floyd Leighton. Mrs. Virginia Hart, of Oakland, a sister of Mr. White, was a guest at the meeting.

Nationally Known Educator to Visit County's Schools

DR. HOWARD DAWSON

Dr. Howard Dawson, nationally known educator, author and teacher, will be in Garrett county next Friday, October 28, to spend the day with Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent, visiting the high and elementary schools of the county.

He will be accompanied by Dr. James Spitznagel, director of curriculum for the State Department of Education.

These two educators are coming to the county at the invitation of Mr. Hawkins to study possibilities of an educational program to help improve the economic base through the school curriculum.

A special group of teachers met recently with the superintendent and supervisors at the Accident school to make a preliminary survey of the possibilities of developing a particular set of resource units on various grade levels, in fields relating to industry, agriculture, recreation, restoration and conservation. These are the areas, Mr. Hawkins said, which directly relate to the economic welfare of the county, both present and future.

Dr. Dawson has had a wide and varied experience in education on a national scale. More recently, he has given considerable attention to school and community relationships, especially to programs and means of making the work of the rural school indigenous to the needs of the community, and to the professional organization of rural school administrators. Mr. Hawkins said.

Dr. Dawson is director of the division of rural service in the National Education Association, having been appointed in 1936. Since 1930 he has also served as executive secretary of the Department of Rural Education. Prior to joining the NEA, Dr. Dawson had been a rural teacher and superintendent of rural schools in Arkansas.

Diagnostic Lab Almost Complete

Commissioners Turn Over Building's Keys To Technician Tuesday

The diagnostic laboratory in Oakland has been practically completed and in a brief ceremony on Tuesday afternoon, H. D. Swartzentruber, president of the County Commissioners, turned over the keys to the building, northwest corner of Green and Fifth streets, to Donald Geddis.

Geddis is the technician assigned to the laboratory by the Livestock Sanitary service at College Park. Dr. A. L. Brueckner, V.M.D., is state director. Attending the ceremony also were Aubrey Brennenman and Ervin Roth, the other two County Commissioners.

The laboratory has been in the process of remodeling since about the middle of July. The Garrett County Turkey Growers assumed the responsibility of remodeling the building at the request of the County Commissioners.

Among others present Tuesday were Roy O. Glatfelter, president; Harold Bowman, vice-president; John Beckner, treasurer; Robert O. Glatfelter, assistant secretary; Lowell Loomis, secretary; James Glatfelter, Edward Glatfelter, director; Marvin Beitzel and Kermit Glatfelter, the latter a past president and member of the House of Delegates.

The Turkey Growers had been actively spearheading a drive for a laboratory in the county since their annual meeting on March 12, 1953. At this time each member put his signature to a letter requesting such a laboratory. Last year Governor McKeiden placed the item for the laboratory in his personal budget to assure available funds for it.

A complete staff for the laboratory will include a full time veterinarian, a technician and an assistant technician. Mr. Geddis is the only definite appointment as of this date. He declared that interviews are continuing for a veterinarian and assistant technician. He said Dr. E. D. Custer may serve temporarily as veterinarian if no one is appointed prior to the official opening.

Salaries of all staff members are met by state appropriations as has been the case in many other counties for a number of years. The County Commissioners will furnish the building and heat, light and water bills.

The laboratory will be available to all residents of the county and state who have need for diagnostic work of live stock and poultry.

The building has been completely remodeled inside and there still remains some exterior work to be done. This will not interfere with the laboratory service, it was explained.

Mr. Geddis began moving in equipment and supplies following his acceptance of the keys. He hopes to have enough equipment on hand to be open for service the first week in November. Notice will be given at that time.

The Mountain City band is sponsoring a Halloween dance to be held at the Oakland Fire hall on Saturday evening, October 29. Dancing will be from 9:30 to 12:30. Music will be furnished by the Mid-Nighters.

Autumn Glory Train Had 769 Customers

The second Autumn Glory special excursion train which operated Sunday from Silver Spring and Baltimore to Oakland, had 769 paying customers. It was the largest autumn glory train in the history of the event and was a far cry from the 50 persons who came to Oakland the first year the special fare was offered.

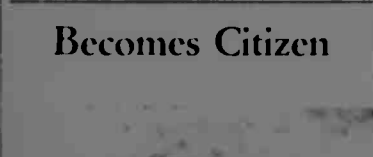

Twenty buses and a number of private automobiles were used to take the excursionists to the 30-mile tour of Swallow Falls, Deep Creek Lake and one of the many turkey farms in the county.

The weather remained fair and cold until about half an hour before the train was scheduled to depart. By the time the train had pulled out of the station, it was raining and blustery.

At a hearing last Thursday, George Schroyer pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery brought by Violet Schroyer. He was sentenced to the county jail for six months and fined $25, but the sentence was suspended upon condition he remain of good behavior in the future.

County Commissioners Reject Supervisors' Recommendation

EGIL LUDVIGSEN

In a special ceremony at Albany, Ga., a few days ago Egil Ludvigsen became a United States citizen. He had been preparing for that day for the past three years, ever since his graduation from Accident High school, in 1952.

Egil is a nephew of Peter E. Basland, of route 1, Oakland, and came to live with the Basland family on January 18, 1949. He was born in Oslo, Norway in 1933.

During his three years at Accident High school he played soccer and entered into various other activities of the school. He entered the U.S. air force March 20, 1953, and is now stationed at Albany, Ga. after serving 18 months on Okinawa with the air police.

Egil received his first citizenship papers last October 5. He plans to return to his native land next year but only for a visit with his parents and other members of his family. He plans to make his permanent home in the United States.

Call Joint Meeting Next Monday To Conclude Matter of Voting Machines

The County Commissioners unanimously agreed at their regular meeting on Monday that they would not accept the recommendation of the Board of Election Supervisors in regard to the purchase of voting machines, until further consideration at a meeting which would be attended by members of both boards, their attorneys and clerks.

The Board of Supervisors of Elections made a recommendation last week that the Commissioners purchase a voting machine from the Automatic Voting Machine company. The price for the machines delivered in Oakland was set at $1471 per machine, for a total cost of $52,061, less two percent discount, or $1,661.28, which would make the total cost $52,002.72.

The only other bid was from the Schoup Voting Machine company totaling $50,801.12 for 36 machines. This would figure $1,201.90 less than the machines of the Automatic Voting Machine company.

H. D. Swartzentruber, president of the County Commissioners, said he and his board were of the opinion that any decision on the purchase should have been made jointly by the two boards, according to the law, and pointed out there was nothing in the law which said that any recommendation should be made by the Board of Supervisors of Elections to the County Commissioners for approval of the latter.

ONE WORD...

Can Change Your Life
By REV. ROBE. OLEWILER
Pastor, Grace Reformed Church
Washington, D. C.

PART

Here's a word that shakes the soul. The sweet ties of life are snipped in two—soon or later. None of us escapes forever.

The beautiful friendship of Jonathan and David comes to mind. The hour of parting came for them too but they had so lived together that one could say to the other at the end: "Go in peace... in the name of the Lord."

Jonathan might go back to the "hunted" house where his father would curse and exile David might wander in the wilderness, yet each was prepared for whatever was to come because they resolved to trust the living God.

It can be like this with you in your hour of parting, sad as it might be. Put your trust in the living God and his strength and courage will prepare you for whatever is ahead after you part. The word that can change your life.

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

Are You Listening?
Professor Harold Zelko, of the speech department of Penn State University, says that in a speech course one of the most important things to learn is how to listen. He reached this conclusion both from observation and research.

In his classes, he can quickly spot a "bad listener" by the glazed, faraway expression on his face. A check usually shows the student's academic record suffers from that inattention.

By research it has been shown that those who listen well profit and those who listen poorly lose.

Listening, according to Professor Zelko is one of the most important things we do. A former lawyer, he was impressed by the importance of listening, and he noted in cross-examining witnesses that every word might be the key to a point that would decide the trial.

After beginning a career in teaching and research in the speech field, he found new evidence of the importance of listening. His research showed you can make better decisions and come to better solutions to problems by listening to others. You can increase your total knowledge and growth as a person by listening before making a decision. Each one of us can improve our listening ability, and he gives some rules:

1. Realize the value of good listening.

2. Analyze and correct your listening faults.

3. Break down the barriers to good listening.

4. Listen alertly and for ideas.

5. Evaluate and apply what you hear.

President Eisenhower is quoted by the press as having an amazing power of perception as he listens. His great success as a military leader was due partly to his learning to listen to his subordinates. As President, he utilizes this ability in Cabinet meetings where he listens closely and dis-

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission

List of Available

The weeks since the President's heart attack have been full of political speculation—some of it of the wildest kind. However, there are a few clear facts that stick out and must be generally recognized. The outstanding one is that, though apparently the President is not only going to survive, regaining much of his strength and vigor, nevertheless his condition is such that he will not be able to run again for the presidency.

Wanted: Cautious Drivers

Expect the unexpected where children are concerned. All the safety rules they have been taught can easily be forgotten when a precious ball bounces into the street. Be alert to all signs, signals, school crossings and school patrols, and to the youngsters themselves.

PLEASE DRIVE SLOWLY

Especially in our residential areas and places where children congregate. Speed and carelessness here may mean the loss of a life—and your peace of mind.

Mrs. Callaway, before becoming associated with Binney and Smith, Inc., taught and supervised art in the public schools and Ohio.

The workshop is limited to fifty teachers, necessitating a number to be placed on the waiting list as many teachers are eager for this experience. Those attending the Art Workshop are given the opportunity to get a broader scope of Art Education in the use of materials and the planning and teaching of school art through actual participation where projects are carried through to completion. This is not a lecture or demonstration series, as actual teaching is done by the art consultant and all teachers attending are required to work. The theme of the workshop is: "Learn To Do By Doing." The entire expense of this program is borne by Binney & Smith, Inc. Edwin Elias, Elementary Supervisor for Garrett County schools, will conduct the workshop.

Mrs. Robert T. Hoffman entertained members of her bridge club on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Sineell have returned from New York and Baltimore, where they spent the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Resford Purbough and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Smith had a recent trip to the Smokey mountains, North Carolina, returning last Friday.

Herbert Shaffer and Miss Floss Shaffer left last Friday for a motor trip over the Skyline drive in Virginia and North Carolina and are visiting friends and relatives in Washington, D. C., for a few days.

Army announced it had built biggest wave-making machine in world.

On the 19th a son to Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Frank Blamie, Mt. Lake Park.

During the week the hospital admitted 31 patients and discharged the same number.

Father Saves Life Of 3-Year-Old Son

Little David Lewis, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Lewis, 32, of Keyser, formerly of Loch Lynn Heights, is alive today because his father was a well-trained combat infantryman in World War II.

David all but drowned in a backyard fish pond filled with three feet of water last Thursday. His father, a tractor-trailer driver, happened to be at home and saved his son by giving him artificial respiration for almost half an hour. Meanwhile he instructed his wife about blankets and other things and had her call a doctor. After half an hour the child's color started to return. The child was taken to Putnam Valley hospital where he was placed in an oxygen tent.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis moved to Keyser about two months ago from Loch Lynn. He is a native of Parsons and she is a native of Romney. Lewis has been employed for several years as a driver for a Keyser trucking firm.

THE AMERICAN WAY

SLIPPING AWAY

By Alfred P. Haake, Ph.D., Chairman of the Laymen's National Committee, a noted economist, author and lecturer.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." What a lovely sentiment, and isn't it too bad that we don't really believe it, or think so little of liberty that we are unwilling to pay the price? Or is it that it is just too much trouble, and what difference does it make anyway?

That seems to be the attitude toward the one great boon that made America possible, the hope of all mankind for years to come being scorned by the very people who will cry for it once it is gone.

I recall an interview with a member of the new Congress early in 1953. "We are going to cut the budget," he declared. "The reckless spending must stop. We must cut down the national debt and restore integrity in Washington. And, already, that sense of integrity is beginning to make itself felt in Washington." So intoned the legislator who was elected on a platform to restore the American Way of Life, resurrection of the principles on which we built America and which the totalitarian New Dealers had stashed away under their neo-socialistic pseudo reforms.

But, the debt is now greater than it was then. The spending has increased. We are entering a new era of inflation and the very Secretary of State who as a private citizen, pointed to the necessity of curbing the power of the President in making foreign agreements with the effect of amending the Constitution of the United States, without even the formality of Congressional approval to say nothing of letting the people have a voice in the matter, now opposes the Bricker amendment which would accomplish what he yearned for before he had power of his own to protect against being taken back by the people and the state.

We prate of law and order, the sacredness of the individual and his rights as a personality responsive to God, but public officials sit on their hands while leath-free criminals debauch the very rights, they want protected when exercised by themselves.

If you have the courage, read some of the most disgraceful incidents in American history in the Congressional Record of August 2, 1955, pages 11129 to 11130. It is bad enough that the real leaders of the disorders described in those pages get away with their hypocritical pronouncements of interest in human welfare and even wear the aura of churchly approval of their monopolistic violations of law and decency. The crowning disgust, however, must be heaped on the public officials for their supine failure to protect the people against organized violence by law-contemptuous goons, letting the police stand idly by while property is destroyed and citizens maltreated.

Two Mayors and a Governor should, if any capacity for shame remains in them, bow their heads in remembrance of the turning away of a Norwegian ship from the harbors of Sheboygan and Milwaukee, Wis., by goons who infested the ship docks of those cities and prevented the landing of materials consigned to a factory near Sheboygan.

But that is the way of professional politicians, of cowards who find their way to public office. The law-deceiving goons represent power over votes, a power which is greater because of its tenacity in disregarding law and decent consideration for the rights of others. The average politician quivers in fear of what the unions may do in an election and even the public refrains from effective expression of its power to elect law-abiding public officials.

One remembers a Robert Taft who fought the power-corrupt leaders of his state in their own backwoods and beat them. We need more Tafts in this unscrupulous slipping away of our liberty. The boxer man is not so serious after all, in the face of honest courage and true devotion to American principles, Taft proved that. The final tragedy is that men in office fail to realize that truth.

There are ups and downs, of course, but if you still believe in God you must agree with me that obedience to His laws and principles must overcome even good violence, and conquer the world, as was once demonstrated on a cross of agony and frustration, the greatest victory of all.

It would take so little, by the right people, at the right time, in the simplicity of courage, to stop our liberty from slipping further and further away from us. It is worth while to fight with eternal vigilance for the liberty that is still ours.

STRIPED BASS
(Morone saxatilis)

In Maryland better known as rock or rock fish. It is a true bass.

RANGE: From St. Lawrence River down the coast and around Florida to Louisiana; more plentiful from Cape Cod to North Carolina; successfully transplanted from New Jersey to California about 1880. Found in nearly all of Maryland's tidal waters, the Chesapeake Bay and tributaries being one of its main spawning grounds.

DESCRIPTION: Greenish on back, silvery on sides, white underneath; seven or eight black stripes on the sides from which it receives its name. Most striped bass are less than 15 pounds, but individuals have been taken in nets over 100 pounds; a handsome, gamey salt water fish.

BREEDING: Migrates to fresh waters to spawn from April 1 to early June in Maryland. It has been said a 2 pound female will lay about 15,000 eggs. Chesapeake Bay area is probably the most important breeding grounds of this anadromous fish; its spawning area, however, has been reduced by pollution, and the dam across the Susquehanna River at Conowingo. Some years breeding is more successful than others.

HABITS: Travels mainly in Maryland waters in schools; large numbers frequently surface and break, classes as long as same did not interfere with school use.

Polio Shots For Children, 1 to 10, Are Now Available

Maryland State and Baltimore City Health departments, after conferring with medical and statistical advisors, announced that the current priority established some time ago restricting polio vaccine to children 5 through 9 years old, has been extended, effective at once, to keep up with the new National policy.

On the basis of careful studies of paralytic polio case rates by separate years of age during the past five year period it has been determined to extend the age limit downward four years and upward one year. This means the new priority group approved will make eligible for polio vaccine any child mer curriculum workshop involving 25 or 30 teachers.

Approved decision to have Board serve as host to two foreign teachers for a three-weeks' period during January. Teachers will be Miss Pham Thi Thuy, from Viet Nam; and Nien Hsien Wong, from Malaya.

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

BRYANT FOX SQUIRREL

(Sciurus niger bryanti or sciurus niger neglectus.)

Note: S. Niger bryanti is the scientific name applied for many years to the large, gray fox squirrel that is found on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. However, recent studies revealed that this mammal had been given the name of Sciurus niger neglectus; but there is a question in the minds of many whether the squirrel now existing in small numbers in Dorchester and surrounding Counties is typical "niger" or a sub-species larger than niger. Therefore both names are given here.

RANGE: The heaviest concentration seems to be in Dorchester County where there is a sanctuary established for its preservation, called the E. Lee McClellan Bryant Fox Squirrel Refuge. It is said to range or to have ranged from Chester, Penna., to Pocomoke.

DESCRIPTION: Gray above, white underneath; white nose; average length from tip to tip about 23 inches; tail at broadest point about 6 inches in width, edged with narrow white border. Rare specimens have been taken weighing over 2 pounds.

BREEDING: Nest generally constructed in old pines, also in hollows; nest usually placed well out from the trunk towards the tips of branches; serves as home in winter and summer. Mating takes place during the latter part of February and early March; 3 or 4 young.

HABITS: Feeds more on the ground than the common gray squirrel and stays close to home; no records of mass migrations; quiet and shy and not given to depredations in corn; does not do a lot of jumping from tree to tree, but does jump from tree at quite a distance from the ground at times. The bark is deeper than that of gray squirrel. Feeds on acorns, walnuts and particularly on the seeds of the loblolly pine.

MANAGEMENT: The species is growing scarce and it should be afforded as much protection as possible by law and through sanctuaries, both of which are difficult to supply successfully; closing the season on the Bryant squirrel and not the gray would result in illegal kills.

VALUE: Should be served for its rarity and beauty; unfortunately it also supplies a delicious food, hence is pursued and legally taken for this purpose; it is more valuable alive for aesthetic purposes than dead for food.

3. Insist on audited circulation reports that give you the FACTS about the audience that your sales messages will have when you buy newspaper advertising.

A. The A.B.C. is a cooperative, non-profit association of 3,450 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers in the United States and Canada. Organized in 1914. Brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring, auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

Q. What does A.B.C. do for me?

A. At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors makes a thorough audit of the circulation records of each publisher member. The results of each audit are published in an easy-to-read A.B.C. report for your use and protection when you buy newspaper advertising.

Q. What are the FACTS in A.B.C. reports?

Q. Is this newspaper a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations?

A. Yes. We are proud of our circulation. We want you to know the FACTS about the audience your selling messages will have when they appear in these pages. Ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.

A.B.C. REPORTS — FACTS AS A BASIC MEASURE OF ADVERTISING VALUE

Miss Rita Bittle Wed

Miss Rita Bittle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster David Bittle, of Oakland, and Lieutenant Richard James Sparks, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Richard Sparks of Bethesda, were married on Saturday, October 8, at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church in Myersville.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Raymond L. Markley. The altar was decorated with vases of snapdragons, chrysanthemums and gladioli. The chancel was lighted with candles in tiered candelabra banked by palms.

A program of nuptial music was presented at the organ by Miss Barbara Pyles, of Myersville, who accompanied Mrs. Robert David Bittle, sister-in-law of the bride. Mrs. Bittle sang, "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee," by Gounod; "The Lord is My Shepherd," by Tchaikovsky; and "O Perfect Love," by Burleigh.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a waltz length gown of embroidered nylon tulle; her fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a scalloped tiara of seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis with an orchid center and streamers of white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Gene Macafee, of Bethesda, was the matron of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a blue crystalet gown and carried a crescent bouquet of fall tinted chrysanthemums.

Captain Robert A. Chambreau, of Elkins, W. Va., was his brother-in-law's best man. The bride's brother Robert David Bittle of Cumberland, and Robert J. Taylor, of Rockville, were the ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bittle wore a frosted rose cascade dress, with rose accessories, and a corsage of orchids and roses. Mrs. Sparks, mother of the groom, wore an autumn blue dress of embroidered taffeta, with navy accessories, and a corsage of orchids and red roses.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. David Edgar Bittle. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake ornamented with miniature wedding bells. Mrs. Kyle Waters Bittle, cousin of the bride, served the wedding cake, and Mrs. D. Edgar Bittle presided at the punch bowl.

For her going away attire, Mrs. Sparks wore a charcoal brown suit with gold and brown accessories, and the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

After a wedding trip along the Gulf of Mexico, the couple will reside at 407 Elm Street, Ardmore, Oklahoma.

Pre-Nuptial Events

Miss Bittle was the guest of honor at a Boudoir Shower given by the American Red Cross Staff at Fort Knox, Ky., on August 9.

Supplemental Report on Fish Suffocation Program Given

Additional information about the Deep Creek Lake suffocation experiment on September 7 appeared in the October issue of the Maryland Tidewater News. The preliminary report was given by H. J. Elser and R. Mansueti.

The complete report is given below.

Overpopulation of Yellow Perch Also Cited

Two of the most important preliminary results of the Deep Creek Lake suffocation experiment, based principally on field operations at this time, are that: (1) over 85 pounds of fish per surface-acre were killed, a figure very near the one predicted in a preliminary estimate, and (2) yellow perch comprised the bulk of the weight and numbers of all species of fish killed. The experiment, in which Hoop Pole Run, an arm of Deep Creek Lake, Garrett County, was rotenoned during September 7-8th, was a successful one from several standpoints: scientific, conservation, educational, and public relations. This project turned out to be the largest of its kind ever undertaken in Maryland. It was conducted jointly by a committee of Deep Creek Lake residents, the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission and the Maryland Department of Research and Education. Five other agencies cooperated. Over a thousand local residents and visitors, in addition to those who participated, listened to a running account of the proceedings as announced over the loud speaker. A scoreboard containing the results of fish collected during the day was in full view. Weather conditions were generally ideal throughout the experiment.

Estimate of Pounds Per Surface Acre Does Not Yet Include Bottom Kill

Rotenone was spread over the arm of the lake during early morning, and the first fish were recovered at the surface shortly after 9 a. m. By dusk of the first day at least 52 pounds of fish per surface-acre were sorted, identified, weighed and measured. During the following days the number of pounds per surface-acre increased cumulatively as follows: 2nd day—72 pounds; 3rd—79, 4th—81, and 5th—85 pounds. As yet the pounds of dead fish that fell to the bottom during the first days operation have not been computed. Aqualung divers estimated that on the first day roughly 1,500 pounds of dead fish were evident on the entire bottom, but on the following day, the estimate was reduced to about 300-500 pounds. Observations made by the divers indicate that no one species characteristically fell to the bottom instead of rising to the surface, the bottom collection was represented by all species. Many fish were observed stuck in grass or in mud.

Fishing Problem at Deep Creek Lake Exemplified By Yellow Perch Numbers

The great density of yellow perch, presumably representing overpopulation, was observed shortly after the spread of rotenone. Roughly 90 percent of all fish in numbers, and 75 percent in weight, consisted of this species. Among small fish, largely fingerlings hatched in early spring, this species also clearly overshadowed all others. Most of the yellow perch ranged from 7 to 9 inches in total length, and there are some indications that this species may be stunted in growth, a characteristic that accompanies overpopulation. Many stomachs of yellow perch were examined in the field and a great variety of food items were recorded, including: fingerling yellow perch, young sunfish, immature insects, small crustaceans and crayfish. A vast number of weights, lengths and scale samples from all size groups have been collected, and when these are processed, information on the age, growth rate, and general physical condition of this species will be available for comparison with other areas.

Six of 17 Recorded Species Never Before Found at Deep Creek Lake

Seventeen species of fish were recovered. The game species included: largemouth and smallmouth bass, yellow perch, bluegills, rock bass, pumpkinseed, black crappie and hatchery rainbow trout. The rough fish included: brown bullheads, yellow bullheads, white suckers, and carp. The forage species included: eastern mudminnows, golden shiners, fallfish, river chubs and redbell pickerel. Six of the preceding species had never been recorded in the Deep Creek Lake area. They are: eastern mudminnow, yellow bullhead, carp, fallfish, river chub and redbell pickerel. Two recently stocked species, the white bass and gizzard shad, did not appear in the rotenoned sample. Maximum weights and lengths of many of these fish placed on public display at the site of operations are as follows:

POUNDS CHECKED IN FIVE DAYS AFTER ROTENONE APPLICATION
SIZE OF FISH
Small	Med.	Lge.
Smallmouth Bass	23	201

Hoop Pole Run Became 'Fishable' In Five Days

The rotenoning operation was not believed to be 100 percent effective on the first day. Live fish were recovered on the second day, and a fresh kill of a small number of fish was observed on the third day. On the fourth and fifth days following the initial application of the sufficient, an additional kill of very small yellow perch was observed at the entrance of the experimental area of Hoop Pole Run. In the experimental area proper, live fish were observed along the water's edges on the fourth day. Two anglers began to fish the rotenoned area on the fourth day to determine when catchable fish apparently returned. An angler caught a pumpkinseed five inches long just inside the boundary of the area, thus signifying that the arm was once again becoming "fishable."

No Conclusions Can Be Made At This Time Based On Field Operations

It is too early at this time to predict the full significance of the collection of raw data. No clearcut solution to the Deep Creek Lake dilemma is immediately forthcoming from the field operation. The latter revealed a number of important aspects that contribute to the understanding and management of this mountain reservoir, but the entire problem can be properly evaluated only after the data is worked up and carefully analyzed. This aspect of the study will

Dam Prevents Damage by Flood

The Younghighly River dam project in Garrett county and also Fayette and Somerset counties in Pennsylvania, has prevented flood damages estimated at $25,170,000 since put into operation in 1948.

This information is contained in a booklet, "Water Resources Development in Pennsylvania," which is a report of the Corps of Army Engineers.

The Army Engineers, said the cost of building the dam which caused the removal of the town of Summerville, was $9,671,300.

The dam, about 12 miles upstream from Confluence, which backs water up to the town of Friendsville, is an earth-filled structure, 181 feet in height with an ungated side-channel spillway.

It controls a drainage area of 431 square miles and provides 128,000 acre-feet of usable storage.

This reservoir is operated jointly for flood control and for low-water supplementation for improved navigation and pollution abatement.

The amount of storage reserved for these purposes is varied according to their seasonal requirements. This dam and water storage area is operated and maintained by the Corps of Army Engineers as a unit in the coordinated reservoir system for flood control in the Monongahela River basin and the Ohio River valley, which is designed to reduce flood heights on the Ohio river to stages below the top of federally constructed local protection works on that river. The reservoir also contributes to the reduction of floods on the lower Mississippi river.

Not long ago a hush hush, camouflaged '56 Chevrolet scorched the nerve-breaking road up Colorado's Pikes Peak for a new "NASCAR" certified record—the first time that old King of the Mountains has seen a new official stock car record in years! And what a road! 170 chilling turns and no guardrail! It's the first and only time a new model ever proved itself such a great road car before its introduction! The '56 Chevrolet showed the kind of performance that makes driving safer and more fun. So wait for the car that beat the King of the Mountains!

Local Group Studies County Government

The Garrett County Commissioners were invited to participate as guest speakers in the first program of the local IMPA group which was held last Wednesday evening at the Court House.

IMPA was explained as the Institute on Maryland Public Affairs, which is a state-wide program designed to give teachers greater opportunities to become "better informed and participating citizens."

After the introduction of the County Commissioners to the group by Merle Frantz, H. D. Swartzentruber, president of the board, and spokesman for the group, explained the commissioner districts, term of office and qualifications of the members. Some highlights of the study included the important services rendered by the County Commissioners, county assessments, county budget, present tax rate, county indebtedness and the program of improvement planned.

The Commissioners stated it was of "inestimable help to public officials when people want to understand their government."

Robert F. Rodheaver, IMPA chairman, said the group had gained a great deal from the study and added that this was the first attempt of this type to gain information about the local government and that he felt the commissioners had done a fine job in presenting the information to the group.

This was the first in a series of topics to be studied by the IMPA group. The second topic for study couple spent the week-end in Garrett county.

The groom is employed as a mechanic in Washington. The couple will reside in Greenbelt.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

In the 18-foot-high halls of our Senate Office Building, glass-fronted wall boxes offer first aid equipment for sick or injured persons.

The closest box to our office, which is room 14, is located in an area between the rooms of a Republican and a Democrat. Inside the transparent door of the container can be seen a brown canvas pack marked:

"Battle Dressings."

Even after a hectic day on the floor of the Senate, the gentle humor of the situation makes us smile—and relax.

Favorite Joke . . . ?

Perhaps at times we all need such little things to soothe us. We were reminded of the battle dressings the other day when we received a letter from a book publisher asking for our favorite joke.

or humorous experience.

"To date," wrote the author of the letter, "I have contributions from President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon, Cabinet members, Governors, leading business men, and prominent figures in the arts and sciences."

We haven't decided yet which joke we'll submit. But we'll surely send one. Then, after the book is published, we'll be particularly interested in comparing our offering with the item which was No. 1 in provoking the well-known Eisenhower grin.

Office Humor

In talking to you about the lighter side of the Washington scene, we surely can't ignore the "office humor" and ribbing to which all of us are subjected.

Newcomers usually bear the brunt of the good-natured jokes, but a young attorney who just joined our staff is rapidly learning to get the last word. Recently, for instance, a fellow worker asked the man if he could find his way through the winding corridors and the subway tunnel from the Senate office building to the Capitol, which is about a block away.

Having been with us just long enough to collect his first money from the pay office on the main floor of the Capitol, the lawyer had a ready answer.

"Sure," he quipped, "the Capitol is that big building that they've built around the Disbursing Office."

Open Door

The humor isn't exactly the rib-splitting type, we'll admit. But at least we try to be friendly.

Why not visit our office, pick up one of our complimentary tourist guide pamphlets, and see for yourself?

We're easy to find. Just look for the streak of light which juts out into the long hall, way on which we're located.

The light comes from our door, which is one of the few on the floor that is always open.

Northern Defeats Southern Hi "B"

Northern High's Huskies outclassed Southern High school's "B" team last Saturday afternoon in the first football game on record between the county's only two high schools. Since it was the second year for Southern and only the first year of play for Northern, the game had been arranged earlier, limiting Southern competition to its junior varsity players. Approximately 400 witnessed the contest.

Coach Denver L. Mitchell's team experienced little resistance, either offensively or defensively as they picked up their second win in three games. They have a tie on their record, with the Meversdale "B" team.

The Huskies kicked off to Southern and forced the Little Highlanders to punt. Taking the ball on their own 14 they moved for a quick touchdown with a 30 yard pass from quarterback Carl Mazer to end Dick Spear. Mazer plunged for the extra point to lead 7-0.

The next time Northern got the ball it moved in eight plays from the Southern 34 for the score. After two first downs carried to the Little Highlander six-yard stripe, Mazer swept wide around left end to make the score read 13-0. Bender's attempted plunge for the extra point failed.

Before the second period was over the Huskies tallied two more times to leave the field with a 25-0 edge at intermission. Miller scored first on a 54-yard sprint off tackle and Bender intercepted a Bittinger aerial at midfield and raced 50 yards for the second.

The Huskies scored once in each of the last two periods. Bender slashed over guard from the one-yard line for the fifth TD and also added a point on a plunge. Then with Wayne McKenzie calling signals when Mazer twisted his ankle, the Huskies moved to the one yard line in the last quarter. McKenzie crashed over for the 38th and final point.

W. Miller, Joe Bender, Ed Rush and Jenkins played best for the Huskies, while Pike, Bittinger and Jackson were outstanding for the Southern Jayvees.

The Little Highlanders picked up only two first downs compared to Northern's eight and were out-gained in total yardage 246 to 18.

Starting for Northern were: Spear, Glass, Fritz, Rexrode, B. Miller, Rush, Selby, Mazer, W. Miller, McKenzie and Bender. Subs included D. Miller, Humbertson, Durst, Beachy, Stanton, Jenkins, Wright, Glottelty, Charles, Jones and Schroyer.

Starting for Southern were: Lane, Ours, Rynovich, Evans, Rodeheaver, Jackson, Brohawn, Bittinger, Fry, Callis and Pike. Subs:

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

The Springfield (Mo.) public school program, with its emphasis on education for American citizenship, utilizes the best of the new and the best of the old methods and techniques of teaching. The fundamental tools of learning—reading, spelling, writing and arithmetic—form the basis for the entire educational program. They are given highest priority. Spreading out from this basic foundation are the subjects designed to develop well-rounded individual citizens, intelligent and capable.

Since there is considerable national discussion on how reading should be taught, the following from the Springfield program will be of interest: "A planned program leads pupils to use many ways of recognizing printed words as means of expressing ideas. Phonetic analysis or phonics is taught as one method. The use of the dictionary is taught as another method of pronouncing words as well as a way of learning proper meanings. Other means include teaching pupils to notice beginning and ending sounds, prefixes, suffixes, words within words, and clues from the context of the sentence."

And here are some other items of interest from Springfield's program.

DISCIPLINE: (The Springfield schools seek) "to teach respect for proper authority whether embodied in a person, in a group, or in regulations, with recognition that proper authority is a necessary and reasonable factor in group living. . . . To develop the ability to exercise freedom wisely and to know that there is no freedom from consequences of one's actions."

HOME WORK: "Home work is assigned at any grade level to aid pupils in making up work missed or work in which additional practice and requiring the teacher's direction will be helpful." And this policy is designed "to develop incentive for the development of greater initiative, responsibility, and self-reliance."

PROMOTION: "The child is retained in the same grade in the elementary school when in the judgment of the teacher, principal, and parent, retention will improve the pupil's opportunity for further learning. At the high school level pupils are passed or failed in terms of their achievement in individual subjects."

REPORT TO PARENTS: "In the American way of life each person is recognized as an individual and is judged and regarded for his own efforts and achievements. The emphasis in reporting is on the individual and his potentialities rather than on conformity to an arbitrary standard for the masses. Pupils compete with themselves and each other as in real life situations."

tutes, included Sanders, Cerne, Pauch, Thayer, Sellers, Dignan, Devitt and Lewis.

Officials were Cavanaugh, Pence and Blough.

Progress in Mental Health Is Stressed

The fact that very few mental health cases are now considered hopeless, and nearly all can be helped to some degree was pointed out by Dr. Irving J. Taylor in the panel discussion at the luncheon meeting of the First District of the Maryland Federation of Women's clubs, held last Wednesday in Cumberland.

Dr. John Walker Powell, Baltimore physician, led the panel discussion. The panel brought out how Maryland has pioneered in the improvement of state mental institutions and particularly in the field of voluntary help. Dr. Taylor briefly discussed the use of the new miracle drugs in mental treatment and explained the difference in electric shock treatment and insulin shock treatment.

Mrs. E. Irving Baumgartner, Oakland, presided at the session attended by 77 delegates representing 300 district clubwomen. Miss Nellie A. Shaffer, Oakland, is corresponding secretary of the group.

Reports were given by various officers, and departmental chairmen presented their plans for the coming two years. Chairmen reporting included Mrs. Grover C. Stemple, Oakland, Welfare.

Hostesses were the three Cumberland Federated clubs. The next district meeting will be held next April in Frederick. About 100 members and guests attended the luncheon.

Among those who attended the district meeting were Mrs. O. T. order: Carolyn Spoerlein, Ann Lee Lohr, Willard Ann Glatfelter, and Georgia Ann Glatfelter, Grade 9; Don Stemple, Margaret James, Luis Swartzentruber, Barbara Humberston, Grade 10; Dolores Riley, Neva Bowers, Janice Jenkins, and Artie Ashby.

Kansas City and Back—Tom Glatfelter, junior, recently returned from a week-long trip to Kansas City where he represented the local Future Farmers of America at a nation-wide meeting.

Chosen as State Historian—At a regional meeting of the Junior Future Homemakers of America, which was held at Flintstone High School, Joan Clary was elected as State Historian of the organization. Joan, who is president of the local order, was chosen over candidates from Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties. Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

The growth of any geographical area, such as our 6th Maryland District, depends on many factors. There is, of course, a natural population increase. Then, there is the attraction of a region's advantages offer to men and women and their families. These advantages take many forms; for some it is the opportunity to raise a family in a progressive, quiet, suburban section; for others it means opportunity for employment in industry.

I am frequently asked how a community can persuade new industries to move into an area. Despite the many exceptions which may come to mind, which in a sense prove the rule, it is the attractiveness of the community itself which draws a new industry and makes paid publicity campaigns successful. By attractiveness I mean the physical and spiritual assets which a community has to offer.

Among the physical features a community can offer to a prospective industry is an ample transportation system. This means not only good roads and highways, but roads on which traffic is well regulated and policed. It means a plentiful supply of good water. It means generally well-manned and efficient fire and police forces. I know that one does not ordinarily think of industry considering the question of churches, schools and community recreation facilities when it searches for a location. But it does.

Communities attract new industry just as people attract new friends. The community makes itself into the kind of a community it would like to be, which in turn makes an industry want to become a part of the community life.

The 6th Maryland District has areas well suited to new industry and it has areas which would prefer to remain non-industrial. To those communities of our District which seek new industry, I suggest they look realistically at the problem. They move because of the advantages a community offers in the way of physical features.

Public spirited individuals joining together in a concerted effort can do more toward bringing new industry into a community than any other single factor, and in making their community attractive to a new industry they, incidentally, pay themselves a handsome dividend in creating a better city or town in which to live and work.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

The China Egg Chairmen
In an election year the two men in the country who make more political statements and mean less are the respective chairmen of the Republican and Democratic National committees. Hardly a week goes by that there does not emanate from each of these gentlemen some charge, or allegation designed to damage the opposition party or promote his own.

That is natural and to be expected. What is not routine in their present performances is that they should now be making pronouncements which are the exact opposite of what they believe. For example, Mr. Paul Butler, Democratic chairman, recently proclaimed his conviction that, with General Eisenhower out of the running by reason of his health, Vice President Nixon is the easiest man for the Democrats to beat, the weakest of all aspirants in his party. Now, Mr. Butler knows this is not true. In fact, he knows the reverse to be true as shown by all private and other polls that have been taken.

What Mr. Butler is really trying to do at the moment is to disparage the foremost Republican candidate conceded to be Mr. Nixon. Undoubtedly, Mr. Nixon is the most effective campaigner in his party, the most experienced and logical. He may not get the nomination, but Mr. Butler knows that it is likely with Mr. Eisenhower's blessing he will. Therefore, he takes every opportunity to proclaim Mr. Nixon the feeblest of all Republican aspirants. No one in either party, including himself, believes the stuff which Mr. Butler is putting out about Mr. Nixon. Most of them discount it in the same way they discount the Democratic publicity organ, the "Democratic Digest." Mr. Butler and his friend, Mr. Mitchell, don't want Mr. Nixon nominated by the Republicans. Hence, they pretend they do.

Of course, the insincerity of the Messrs. Butler and Mitchell on the Democratic side is exactly matched by that of Chairman Leonard B. Harrison on the Republican side. Sometime ago Mr. Hall's public pronouncements gave clear indications that he felt that, though defeated once, Mr. Stevenson would be renominated by the Democrats and was, in fact, the strongest man the Democrats could put up. Now, Mr. Hall and his allied Republican publicity agents are letting it be known that they do not consider Mr. Stevenson a strong candidate at all and that even with Mr. Eisenhower unavailable the Republicans will have no difficulty in again defeating him with any candidate running on the Eisenhower record. Of course it is true that recently two rather outstanding Democrats—ex-President Truman and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, heretofore outspokenly for Stevenson, have gone out of their way to declare they are not in the least committed to him. Governor Harriman, for example, asserted this week that he is not morally bound in any way to Mr. Stevenson, though certainly that has been the general impression fostered by Mr. Harriman's repeated declarations that "I am for Adlai."

At least four times Mr. Truman has made strong statements in favor of the good Adlai. But, now, after a visit to the New York candidate in Albany, the jaunty little ex-President is telling all and sundry that he is "free as a bird"; that it is the duty of the convention to name the candidate. He will, he says, support the man the convention names, but at the moment he has no candidate of his own. All of this may tend to sustain Mr. Hall's position that Stevenson could easily be beaten by nearly any available Republican. However, it is not necessarily true. On the contrary, Mr. Hall knows that the forces of united labor are more solidly behind Mr. Stevenson than anyone else, that most of the Democratic governors are supporting him and that he clearly is the "front runner" so far as the Democrats are concerned.

Mr. Hall now plays the other tune. He points out that the Stevenson nomination will not be accomplished without a vicious fight in the convention and that all the talk about Democratic harmony behind a Stevenson ticket is silly. Mr. Hall does not really believe all this any more than Mr. Butler and his literary aides believe in their voluminous output against Mr. Nixon. It is, of course, possible that the insincerity on both sides is unwitting and through constant repetition these party spokesmen may come to believe their own stuff, silly as some of it is. Clearly these party chairmen can be properly classified under one of Mr. B. M. Baruch's favorite definitions. They are political "china eggs" and not to be too seriously taken. Of course, there are differences between china eggs. Some are more offensive and less effective than others. But, they all operate on the same lines.

Attend Five-State Meet

Some 50 Maryland youth assembled at Jackson's Mill, W. Va., last week-end with youth from four other states for the annual Young Men and Women's training conference. Other states represented were Delaware, Ohio, Virginia and West Virginia. The theme was "Let's Look at Ourselves."

Of the ten workshops offered Maryland was in charge of two. Miss Dorothy Emerson, associate state 4-H club agent, guided the discussion on leadership, confidence, and Mrs. George Hanst, of Oakland, led group discussion on marriage. Miss Ella Fazzolari, club agent in Prince Georges county, and former Oaklander, was among those accompanying the Maryland youth people. There was no representative from this county.

Land Week Program Carried Out Here

Soil conservation officials considered the planned tour quite a success, in spite of the inclement weather. The tour included an inspection of cool season vegetables at the Duval farm at Red House, the Little Youghiogheny watershed, the Hinebaugh farm municipal watershed, observations of wet land and conservation farming, a visit to Deep Creek Lake for fish management study, and observation of grassland farming on the farm of Thomas J. Youths Indicted

Two Cumberland youths have been indicted by the Randolph County, W. Va., grand jury on a charge of automobile theft.

The two, Richard Gene Colburn and Donald Louis Walters, along with an 18-year-old companion, were arrested in Elkton, W. Va., September 26, after going on a driving spree in autos stolen from Cumberland, Oakland, McComber and Elkton.

The 18-year-old youth was sentenced to the Industrial Home for Boys at Pruntytown until he is 21.

West Virginia State Police apprehended the trio after the car they had stolen from the Davis and Elkton college campus stalled. On September 25, the trio started the spree in an auto stolen from the rear of Memorial hospital in Cumberland. It was recovered at Oakland by the Robert Heine, another car owned by Carmen M. Monda, of Thomas, was stolen at Oakland and recovered at McComber. They took another car owned by Ralph Glover, of Terra Alta, from that spot. This vehicle was recovered at Kinwood by Sheriff W. R. Scholtes, police said.

Both youths were sentenced to the West Virginia penitentiary at Moundsville following their conviction in the Randolph County Circuit court at Elkton last Saturday.

Rats Can Cause Much Damage

Rats cost Maryland residents more than $100,000,000 every year and now is the time of year to outsmart them, according to T. L. Bissell, University of Maryland Extension entomologist.

Studies have shown that one rat can eat 30 pounds of food in one year and contaminate another 80 pounds. In weight, this loss is equal to more than a sack of feed. With an average of ten rats on each farm the amount of loss can be very high and costly, the entomologist said. Rats also spread diseases and may even bite sleeping youngsters.

Rats can be controlled by destroying their homes, by starving them and by ratproofing buildings. Rats live in dark enclosed, hard-to-find places. On the farm, double walls are the biggest offenders.

Trash and garbage should be destroyed regularly and not allowed to accumulate. Bissell warns, "Don't invite rats to your farm, and don't encourage them if they are there," he added.

Bissell recommends keeping food in covered metal containers or protected in metal bins. Stack grain sacks in racks and keep the floor clean, he said. Rats will enter through wood on unprotected edges, and Bissell suggests using sheet metal, concrete or hardware cloth around these unprotected areas to stop the rodents.

Poisons may be used effectively in combating mice and rats, but always follow the manufacturers' directions when using poisons. Bissell said. As in eliminating all pests, whether they are insects or rodents, cleanliness is the best procedure to follow, he concluded.

A 233-year-old house was moved successfully at Annapolis. It was birthplace of Charles Carroll, who wrote Maryland's Declaration of Rights.

State Mine Safety Teacher to Retire

When Lewis C. Hutson, native of Kittiler, retires November 1 from the University of Maryland Extension faculty as instructor of mine safety engineering, he will close the door on a career of public service that has been spread over a period of 32 years.

Hutson's education began at Kitzmiller elementary, continuing at West Virginia Preparatory school, now Potomac State college 1906 to 1909.

He remained in the coal fields as a miner until 1920. He took special courses at West Virginia university, Morgantown, until 1921 when he became an instructor of extension classes in mining. He was connected with West Virginia University until 1923 when he became instructor of night classes in mining for the Maryland Bureau of Mines.

In 1924 he became instructor in mine safety engineering at the University of Maryland, the position from which he will retire November 1.

Since the mining education program was started more than 7,000 students received instruction and approximately 600 of them have qualified for Certificates of Competency, issued by the Maryland Mine Examining board. Hutson believes that two of the largest night mining classes ever held in the United States were held at Frostburg and Vindex.

Hutson was married March 30, 1918, to Edith C. Jenkins, of Kitzmiller, and they have five children, John H. Hutson, group supervisor

ONE WORD...

Can Change Your Life
By REV. ROBT. OLEWILER
Pastor, Grace Reformed Church
Washington, D. C.

BEATITUDES

Our attitude toward anything is our habitual way of regarding it. The sum of our attitudes is our philosophy of life. When you know a man's attitude toward his work, his family, his neighborhood, toward labor and capital, toward men of other races and toward the Church, you know the essential man.

The Beatitudes in the New Testament are the most helpful guide we can find anywhere for the development of the right attitudes we ought to have. Each one of these gems reveals the holiness of God and puts before us a pattern of righteousness which can only result in blessedness and loving service.

Living up to the highest we know is never easy. It takes hard work, meditation and prayer. But surely you want to aim for the best there is, and the best there is can be found in the Beatitudes, the word that can change your life.

For the Internal Revenue Service, Cumberland: George L. Hutson, with the Internal Revenue Service in Washington; Charles D. Hutson, stationed in California with the air force; Mrs. Evelyn M. Paul, San Francisco; and Mrs. Ruth H. Ryan, Swanton.

Well Kept Secret . . .

If anyone had the feeling that Garrett county was becoming a well known vacation and beauty spot following our two successful autumn glory excursions, he may as well get that feeling out of his system. Sometimes we get the impression that our advertising campaigns to tell the world about Garrett county are really paying off permanently.

But a Washington Post writer has just confessed that "this mountain Shangri-La, high atop the Alleghenies in Garrett county, must be one of Maryland's best kept secrets."

Apparently, according to this writer, "few people in Washington ever hear about this remarkable spot."

He, Aubrey Graves, country life editor of the Washington newspaper, didn't find out about it until he came here on the first autumn glory excursion on October 9.

He described the scenery he had seen as some of the "most vivid, breath-taking scenery in the Eastern half of the continent."

He seemed to feel that these excursions and two-day package tours were so reasonable that Deep Creek Lake would not long remain such a "well guarded secret."

This account only serves to emphasize the fact that this job of advertising our community is a never ending one. Persons must never relax even for a day, but must keep the information always before the people whom they write and visit that Garrett county really is THE vacation land.

The Deep Creek Lake Promotion council did a superb job this spring by distributing thousands of tabloid newspapers which told about the area and carried advertisements of persons who had places to rent. But it will have to repeat something similar next year, if it expects good results.

The person in business who gets to the point where he feels that everybody knows him and his business and says he doesn't have to advertise, soon finds that customers have passed him by and are going elsewhere.

We've got to keep plugging at every opportunity. Don't let there be any implication that we are keeping this good news about the mountain top such a well guarded secret. Let's tell it to everybody we know and keep on telling.

Scout Advancements Recommended for '56

A goal of 830 advancements in boy scouting in the Potomac Council for 1956 was recommended as the result of a meeting of district advancement chairmen held Monday evening in Westernport. This is an increase of ten percent over the goal set for this year.

Deep Creek district with 186 scouts, already has an advancement record of 57, which is seventeen more than the goal set by the district council last year. The goal for 1956 will be 60 scouts advancing at least one rank during the year.

Other goals for the Council: Mt. district, 135; Tin-Towns, 100; New Creek, 100; Cumberland, 400; South Branch, 35.

The advancement chairmen also recommended that troops schedule monthly boards of review, and that every advancement be recognized within three months by a regularly scheduled Court of Honor or public meeting. They also hoped to recruit and train merit badge counselors to examine boys who are qualifying for their merit badges, and decided to make available to ministers. The information concerning the religious award that may be earned by qualified scouts. All recommendations will be subject to approval of the Potomac Council which meets later this month in Cumberland.

A farm family will be named as Garrett county winner, as the result of grading of the booklets of the seventy-three enrollees in the program this year. The family that has made the most improvement on the farm during the year is declared the county winner. The family is then eligible to compete for a regional award.

Ernie R. McCue, director of general extension of West Virginia University, at Morgantown, will be the principal speaker for the program following the dinner. Lewis R. Jones will serve as toastmaster. Mrs. Russell H. Brown will lead the singing and Rev. William A. Rem, Lutheran pastor at Red House, will deliver the invocation. The chorus of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America will make its appearance about 7:30 for a program of selections.

Prizes will be awarded to all farm family participants in the program. This part of the program is in charge of Lowell Loomis and Howard C. Rice.

The turkey dinner will be served by members of the Home Economics department of the school. Mr. McCue joined the University in the summer of 1947 after being in the Department of Education staff at Fairmont State college. Prior to joining the Fairmont State faculty he was a teacher and principal in elementary and junior high schools of Lewis, Greenbrier and McDowell counties.

He completed requirements for a master's degree at the University in 1937 and has completed course requirements for the doctorate from the University of Chicago. He is president of the Morgantown Kiwanis club and is president of the West Virginia University Service Clubs Loan corporation, established to lend money to needy University students.

Win Awards For Egg Production

Three Garrett County farmers have won awards for the outstanding production records achieved by their poultry flocks during the 1954-55 season. Victor L. Koenig, executive secretary of the Hy-Line Poultry Management association, announced.

Mrs. Lloyd Kamp of Grantsville, will receive a Champion Egg Producer trophy, awarded to owners of Hy-Line laying flocks which make a record of more than 250 eggs per hen housed in a 12-months' period. Mrs. Kamp's score was 250.5 eggs per hen housed.

Allen J. Maust and Henry Ell Vander, both of Grantsville, will receive Master Egg Producer Awards, given to owners of flocks making a record of better than 225 eggs per hen housed. Maust's score was 212.9 and Vander's score was 212.9.

Yoder's hens averaged 222.5 eggs apiece.

They and about 250 other poultrymen in the Eastern States, keep daily records on the performance of their flocks and send these records in each month. The figures are analyzed and each member gets back a report showing how his flock's performance compares with that of other flocks of the same age and breed. Members use these comparisons to find and correct any defects in their methods of flock management.

Seventy-Five Prizes To Be Awarded At Hallows' Parade

Seventy-five or more prizes have been contributed by individuals and business places for the annual Hallows' parade which is scheduled for next Monday evening, October 31, in Oakland. The event is sponsored by the Mt. City Band.

The parade is set to start on Fourth street between Oak and I Avenues and will get underway at 7 o'clock. The procession will take the usual route, covering Oak to Third, Third to Center, Center to Second, Second to Alder and around the downtown business block where judges will be stationed to award the prizes.

Prizes are to be on display in the window of the West Maryland Power company and they will be awarded immediately after the parade. It was hoped the list would be in shape so that it could be published and persons would be able to dress accordingly, but this was found to be impossible.

Usually five hundred or more persons, young and old, take part in the parade and merrymaking. Following the parade the band will give away an electrically operated piece of kitchen equipment. The winner will have the choice of a Bendix dryer or a portable Jamesway dish washer.

The Mountain City Band also announced it was sponsoring a Hallows' dance, to be held at the Fire hall on Saturday evening, October 29. Dancing will be from 9:30 to 12:30. Music will be furnished by the Mid-Nighters.

Snow Falls Here

Strong winds struck Garrett county on Monday in advance of a cold front that sent the mercury dipping twenty or more degrees within the space of two hours. Temperature dropped from the 60's to the 30's.

While no damage to speak of occurred in this county, in other nearby sections trees were blown down in the gale that lasted several hours.

Heavy frosts have occurred upon several mornings with the coldest reading being 25 degrees.

The heavy winds of Monday brought a driving rain to the area which ended up in flurries of snow on Monday evening. Heavy ice was formed on Tuesday morning and the weather has remained cold since that time with some slight moderation occurring Wednesday.

To Present Charter

A new Boy Scout charter will be presented to a troop at McHenry on Tuesday evening, November 1, which will mark the ninth scout unit in the Deep Creek district.

The organization work was completed recently by the district Organization and Extension committee.

James W. Savage will be the scoutmaster. There are nine boys in the troop at present. Attending the ceremonies Tuesday will be Willis V. Smith, scout executive of the Potomac Council, Cumberland, also John Forman, Merrill Feather and Ralph Fautner, of Oakland.

Telephone Projects Near Completion

Of two improvement projects by the C. and P. Telephone company, underway for the past several months, one was completed this week and another is scheduled for completion early in November.

The project completed yesterday covered an outlay of $19,000 in the Bittering area where 21 additional subscribers were brought into the system in the Mandler Ridge section.

The improvement included the erection of 119 poles, 116 cross arms and 44 miles of wire. The new installations will provide facilities for an unlimited number of people.

Work on the improvement of service in the Mt. Lake Park-Deer Park and Swanton area is progressing. A program was authorized several months ago at a cost of $31,000 to provide additional telephone facilities in the area.

This project involves 17 miles of additional wire, 101 cross arms and 28 additional poles; and placing four and one-half miles of additional aerial cable. The cable has been placed and is now being spliced.

Richard K. Dayton, local telephone manager, said it would be necessary to change several hundred cable pairs on as many lines to provide facilities where necessary. Telephone lines at Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn have been filled to capacity for some time and it was impossible to get new customers, but after all improvements are completed those desiring service will get it, Dayton said. All types of service will be available to anyone in the Mt. Lake Park, Swanton or Deer Park areas.

C. H. Leathem, former executive vice-president of the Monongahela Power company, Fairmont, W. Va., will be the speaker at the rural-urban night of the Oakland Rotary on Friday evening, at 6:15, at the Williams-James hotel.

A native of Frostburg, he began his career as an engineer for West Penn. Power company in Uniontown, Pa. He was on a special research assignment for West Penn. Power company at Pittsburgh in 1933 and remained there until 1935 when he went to Fairmont as assistant commercial manager for Monongahela. He advanced to the position of commercial manager and in 1937 was elected vice-president.

Company officials credit him with playing a dominant part in the growth of the company in the post-war period during which time Willow Island and Albright generating stations were put into service and the Riverside station enlarged.

Farm people will be guests of the Rotarians at this meeting.

ADDITION TO BE DEDICATED—This addition to St. Paul's Methodist church in Oakland, partly shown in the above photograph, will be dedicated at a special service Sunday morning at 10:45. Included in the building are recreation hall, classrooms for younger people and a children's chapel. Methodist Addition To Be Consecrated Sunday Morn

The new recreational and educational addition to St. Paul's Methodist church will be opened officially on Sunday morning, October 20. The departments to use the new building will meet in their usual places and will then go to their new quarters.

A special service of consecration will be held at the morning hour of worship at 10:45 with Dr. Vernon C. Cutright, district superintendent of the Moorefield district, preaching the sermon. The senior choir will sing, "Praise to the Lord," by Gesangbuch and "Gloria in Excelsis," by Mozart. The junior choir will appear for its first number, singing, "Jesus, Rest Redeemer," by Billgood.

The new addition has a recreational hall on the first floor and classrooms on the second floor. The recreation hall provides a large play area which can be divided into two rooms by use of a folding door. There is a fireplace in this area.

The second floor houses the Beginners and Primary departments of the Church School. There is a large room for the beginners, three classrooms for primary boys and girls and a children's chapel. All rooms are decorated attractively and new furniture, including pianos, worship centers, chairs and tables have been purchased for these rooms. New equipment has been purchased for the recreational hall.

Hugh J. Giffen, Rosemont, Pa., was the architect and Edgar T. Hardesty, the contractor. Members of the building committee have been E. Ray Jones, chairman, Herbert C. Leighton and Richard H. Parbaugh. The finance committee has been headed by B. Breeson Snyder, with S. Townsend Naylor, Richard L. Davis, Robert W. Stemple, Merrill H. Feather, Mrs. William E. Funds for the building were provided by the generosity of the late Miss Grace Loar who bequeathed $25,000, and through gifts of members and friends of the congregation. The cost of the structure was approximately $30,000.

"Open House" will be observed from 4 to 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Invitations have been sent to the local pastors and their congregations, and the public is invited to come and see the new building. The Women's Society of Christian Service will serve refreshments.

Four persons were injured, none seriously, early Sunday morning when an automobile owned by Archie Shahan, collided with a pickup truck owned by John Lilly. Other occupants in the truck were Mrs. Lilly and son.

The Oakland fire department was called when the upset truck started to blaze, but the flames had been extinguished when the fire truck arrived. All four persons involved in the wreck were taken to Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland for emergency treatment and then released.

Shahan was charged by Trooper first class Robert D. Henline, of the state police, with driving under the influence of liquor, driving on the wrong side of the road, and driving with an expired chauffeur's license.

Shahan is scheduled to have a hearing before Trial Magistrate W. O. Butler on Saturday morning.

Farm Bureau Session Covers Many Subjects

Almost 500 Attend 18th Annual Meeting Last Thursday at Grantsville

Many topics uppermost in the minds of Garrett county farmers were discussed at the eighteenth annual meeting of the Garrett County Farm Bureau held last Thursday evening at Grantsville. Four hundred eighty-one persons, including members, wives and guests, attended.

The turkey dinner was served at three churches in Grantsville by the ladies of the Lutheran, Methodist and Reformed churches.

Emerson Bischoff, of Hoyes, was re-elected president for the ensuing year at the business session held following the dinner in the Grantsville Elementary school. Mrs. Orval Glotfelty, president of the Associated Women, has another year to serve.

Mr. Bischoff pointed out how the Farm Bureau membership had increased in spite of lower income of farmers, indicating the need felt by rural people for an organization to represent them in state and national affairs. The president also proclaimed an important aim had been to nurture the idea of neighborliness, not only to those who live across the hill, but to those who live in the most remote corners of the county and state.

The Farm Bureau has grown from 60 charter members, 18 years ago to a group of several hundred. William Winterberg, first president, was introduced, as well as Foster Yost and Marvin Callis, past presidents. Mr. Bischoff commented on the congeniality of his board of directors and the help and interest of the delegates and senator for the service to the farm group, and also mentioned the work of Merle Garlett as secretary to the eight discussion groups affiliated with the county farm bureau.

Mrs. Orval Glotfelty reported on the work of the Associated Women. She attended all state meetings of the Farm Bureau. She summarized the activities of the women's group as Pennies for Friendship drive, Jars for Greece, Rehabilitation kits, Farm Quore, contest, 4-H scholarship to club week, and the addition of two more discussion groups.

Meeting Postponed

The meeting which was scheduled to be held jointly by the County Commissioners, the Board of Election Supervisors, their attorneys and clerks, set for Monday afternoon, October 21, has been postponed until Tuesday afternoon, November 1.

H. D. Swartzendruber, president of the County Commissioners, said it was found that some members of the Board of Supervisors couldn't attend on October 21, and when the date of November 25 was suggested, it was found impossible for another member to be present.

Swartzendruber then had a letter sent to the members of the Board of Supervisors setting the date of Tuesday, November 1, to conclude the matter of the purchase of the voting machines.

The Board of County Commissioners last week refused to accept the recommendation of the Board of Election Supervisors that 36 voting machines be purchased from the Automatic Voting Machine company, until a joint meeting was held to decide the matter.

The Automatic Voting Machine company submitted a bid of $32,002.72 for the 36 machines. The Schnupp Voting Machine company submitted a bid of $30,801.12 for the 36 machines.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Citizens of Garrett County: One member of the Garrett County Teachers' Association would like to take this opportunity to express sincere and grateful appreciation for promoting and carrying through the legislative measure on the cigarette tax which supplies teachers' salaries.

Teachers realize that the exact amount of the bonus depends upon the proceeds from this special tax. It has been understood that the amount to be paid may not reach the maximum of $200.00 per teacher. Should this occur, the salary of the Garrett County Teachers' Association will still be the lowest in the state of Maryland.

The picture would have been much more discouraging had it not been for the interested and faithful citizens of Garrett County.

The backing provided for legislation encouraged many competent teachers to remain in Garrett County. It also enabled the Board of Education and Mr. Willard Hawkins, the Superintendent, to be more selective among the applicants for teaching positions.

Once again, thank you.

Sincerely,
Paul Muha, President
Zeola L. Robeson, Sec'y.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

"Maryland, My Maryland"

Land of the free! Land of the brave! These two phrases went humming through my mind in the course of my recent travels in Maryland. Following closely on the heels of my official trip to Europe, these words seemed to assume a more special meaning for me. The radiance of the autumn foliage only served to accentuate the popular notion that our State was indeed "America in Miniature."

From corner to corner, the evidences of the rich history of Maryland—and of our Nation—are many. The beautiful Chesapeake Bay, its tributaries, and the white-capped breakers of the Atlantic Ocean are truly inviting. Prominent on all sides are the signs of the industrial, commercial and business progress which have paced the growth of our State. And with the people—their faith, courage and tolerance—this appealing picture is complete.

Here in what might well be regarded as a cradle of democracy, we find much of the history and legend of the Revolutionary and the Civil War. "Giving proof that our flag is still there," the flag of the United States is displayed for 21 hours of every day of each year at the grave of Francis Scott Key in Mount Olivet Cemetery in Frederick. The same phenomena exists at Fort Mifflin, where the flag is often illuminated by spotlights during the night, and at Terra Rubra Farm, the birthplace of Francis Scott Key, at Keyville, near Taneytown. Last year, as a result of legislation sponsored by the Flag House, in Baltimore, where the original Star-Spangled Banner was made, was also granted this privilege by the Congress. The Star-Spangled Banner, a revered and resplendent emblem of freedom, thus flies always in Maryland, a distinction reserved for only two other places in this country.

To pass historic homesteads such as those of the Maryland signers of the Declaration of Independence—Charles Carroll of Carrollton, William Paca, Samuel Chase and Thomas Stone—is to focus in clear perspective the abiding truths of liberty, equality, justice and happiness which have composed the fabric of our cherished way of life.

In sum total, here in Maryland

Eight Take Tests For Scholarships

Eight selected seniors from Southern High school began participating yesterday in the largest independent scholarship program in the history of American education when they joined with more than 50,000 seniors in 10,000 schools.

They took the first test yesterday in a series of steps that will find 350 of them entering college next year as winners of either a National Merit Scholarship or two additional awards administered under the same program. The winners will be selected without regard to race, religion or nationality. They may attend any accredited college or university of their choice anywhere within the United States. The amount of support they will receive will vary from a hundred dollars a year to the full cost of a four-year college education, based on each student's need.

Those taking the test at Southern were Don Garrett, Frank DeWitt, Douglas Smith, Sam Moore, DeLores Vetter, Barbara Moon, Arvetta Bell and Beverly Winters.

The project is designed to get the nation's brightest college prospects into college, regardless of their financial ability. A 20½ million dollar corporation, financed by grants from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation, has been founded to get the program started.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

A Look Back

Among the "trial" of ship beautiful autumn was a view in reverse. All of us knew the beauty and charm of "The Cove," the church, and a few more nestled among rolling pasture and meadow, backed by mountains.

Did you ever stop to think how the Cove would look from the mountain on the opposite side? On Sunday we got curious and took that road to see what we could see by looking back.

It was a view of splendid grandeur. One of the prettiest Garrett county has to offer. Northern hills as well as the Cove were nestled among the hills.

For those who like a wide view, we recommend it.

It's A Stage

In every conversation these days, whether among young or old, we hear over and over "It's A Stage."

Teen-agers speaking of someone no more than two years younger than themselves with the air of complete understanding to off a personality problem with, "Oh, it's just a stage they're in." Sometimes, I believe we're hinging everything on a stage.

For a long time I have been an advocate of that sign over the nursery door, "It too will pass." It's a wonderful salve for young parents who have fears that every little problem will become a major trait in personality and behavior.

Now that I am half way up the hill and can look back, knowing that there's a steep road ahead, I'm beginning to wonder about this stage business. True, it's there, and will pass—but pass into what?

I wonder if it's good for children to have parents who nonchalantly say, "It's just a stage, why I remember when I was that age."

It's good to have a memory, as long as we can remember how our

Meet Your Students

ARTIE DALE ASHBY, JR.

Artie is a sophomore taking the Academic course at Southern High. He is one of a family of three children. His younger sister and brother attend school in Aberdeen, Md. He is 14 years old with brown parents dealt with the problem. Maybe anxiety and worry on their part is a necessary part of the picture too. Maybe these anxieties are the side walls of the track on which the rollers will slide. Who knows, but what they, plus firmness and discipline, aren't what keep our youngsters on the track of good development.

Parents who can explain away all the faults of their children by rules of psychology and laugh off each "stage" may come out of it with a few less wrinkles, but I still think it's good for children to know their parents are anxious about them.

You don't suppose I've reached a new stage?

So That's It!

Mrs. Muscard was explaining to the parent at the "back to school night" about the work she was giving the pupils, what they were trying to accomplish, etc., and she added, "I believe in giving them plenty to do. I tell them that all through life, they're going to have to give a good day's work, so they can get in the habit by starting now."

"Oh, so that's it," replied a mother. "Every time I ask my son to do something when he gets home from school he comes back with 'I've done my day's work'."

A New Survey

It seems that there is a survey for everything these days. A group of professional women were discussing the work of a former co-worker, who upon completing her doctorate, got herself a bigger and better job in the high ranks of government.

"She's finishing a survey someone else started on how important the cow is to American rural families," someone reported.

"That's nothing," replied another. "In a recent survey they've found out that three out of every four women wear crooked seams in their hose and that four out of every five men are checking up on it."

hair and brown eyes. He stands 5'6" tall and weighs about 115 pounds.

Artie is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Artie Dale Ashby, Sr. His father is employed as a carpenter's assistant in Crellin, Md. His mother is employed as a telephone operator in Aberdeen, Md. Artie has lived in Cumberland, Havre De Grace, Aberdeen and now is residing with his father in Crellin.

He is a member of the senior hand where he plays the cornet. He has participated in many of the events in which this organization has taken part. He now holds the office of homecoming treasurer, section 10-C, and also holds the office of treasurer of the tenth grade.

Artie is a member of the Crellin Union Sunday School class. He is a member of the Boy Scouts of America, Crellin Troop No. 41.

His main hobby is radio. One of his pieces of equipment is a short wave receiver. He now is working to build a transformer.

His future plans include college. He hopes to attend college for four or more years. His ambition is to be an electrical engineer.

Club Luncheon Is Held on Tuesday

Around thirty-five members of the Civic club of Oakland and guests attended the regular luncheon meeting of the club on Tuesday.

Featured speaker was Miss Dorothy Stone White, teacher of English and theatre at Frostburg State Teachers college. Miss White presented a musical reading, "King Robert of Sicily," from "Tales of the Wayside Inn," by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. For an encore number she gave "Grass House," by Don Blauding, the same reading given by a Miss America contestant from Pennsylvania this year at Atlantic City, N. J. Miss White was presented to the club by Mrs. O. T. Graser.

During a brief business session in charge of Miss Mary Williams, president, Mrs. W. W. Grant reported on the district meeting last week in Cumberland and urged members to secure "do it yourself" kits, and make something for the coming art display. The club voted to sponsor a student to the United Nations meeting on November 14. It was also announced that the Scout fly-up ceremony would be held on November 29th, and that the Baltimore symphony orchestra would be in Cumberland on November 11.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Ralph Weber, chairman of the literature and poetry department, but she was unable to be present on account of illness.

New members attending included Mrs. Charles Reckard, Mrs. Paul Riley, Mrs. Earl Shartzer, Mrs. Cecil Smith, Mrs. Stuart Cooper. Other guests were Mrs. D. E. Cuppett, of Thomas, W. Va.; Mrs. Clyde Pritchett, of Encine, Calif.; Mrs. Bowen Hardesty, Frostburg; Mrs. Fred Burgwald, Mrs. Irvin Feld.

Truck Brakes Fail

A Bloomington truck owner was released under bond of $101.45 after the truck ran out of control on Bedford street, in the town of Cumberland, last Saturday noon.

Owner of the truck was identified as Howard Hise. He was released under bond on a charge of permitting his vehicle to be operated contrary to law. John W. Bousford, of Hagerstown, driver of the truck, was held under bond of $152.90 on charges of reckless driving and driving a vehicle without a registration card in his possession.

Mrs. Darrell Malone, Mrs. C. H. Browning, Sr., also a new member, was unable to be present.

The truck missed hitting traffic as it crossed N. Centre street and just beyond Liberty street struck the rear end of a car and veered off that vehicle into a parked Coca-Cola truck and bounced back into the car again, then turned crossways in the street and struck the Maccabees building.

A broken axle had rendered the heavy vehicle's brakes useless. No injuries were reported.

Kingwood Winner Over Southern

Touchdowns In Three Quarters Give Preston County Team 18-6 Victory

Kingwood High school's Stags chalked up touchdowns in the first, second and final quarters last Friday afternoon to defeat Southern High school of Oakland by the score of 18 to 6.

The Stags failed in the opening period when Zinn registered on a run from the 5 to climax an 80-yard drive. Zinn failed to add the extra point on a ground play.

Fred Colaw fumbled and Kingwood recovered on Southern's 19 to set up Kingwood's second score. Zinn carried to the 3 and on the next play Bishop scored on a quick opener. Lewis' run for the extra point was stopped.

Later in the second period Deckman of Southern returned the kickoff 28 yards to the 47. After two incomplete passes, Toby Colaw passed to Fred Colaw for a 6-yard gain and a 47-yard pass play by the same combination netted the Oakland touchdown. Fred Colaw ran 40 yards for the score. Toby Colaw's kick for the point went wide.

In the final period Kingwood's Bishop intercepted a Southern pass on the 47 and ran it back to the 17. A penalty for unnecessary roughness put Southern back on its one-yard line from where Zinn ran right end for the touchdown. Lewis' run for the point was unsuccessful.

Outgained by rushing 237 yards to 93, Southern completed 8 of 18 passes for 117 yards.

The loss was Southern's third against two wins and one tie game.

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

Currently, there is a renewed interest in the problems created by an inadequate and outmoded highway system. A banner automobile sales year has demonstrated again that the American Way of Life has literally placed the modern automobile within the reach of almost all our citizens. The rapid increase in the total number of automobiles plus the technical advances in automotive design have placed a strain on our road system that is wasteful and dangerous.

Automobile manufacturers are making progress in providing "in-built" safety devices in a laudable effort to help reduce the death toll on the highways. But we have done little to provide highways with "in-built" safety engineering. The modernization program for interstate highway systems presented by the Administration to the Congress last session would have greatly aided in bringing our road system in line with the development of the automobile.

The measures considered by the Congress last year all had the same ultimate aim: modernization of our highway system. Republicans and Democrats alike sponsored bills which were essentially the same in recognizing the necessity of a highway construction program. But they differed greatly in the means of paying the cost of the improvement plans.

The President suggested to the Congress that the highway expansion and improvement programs cost be met through a 30-year bond issue—a proposal in keeping with the traditional methods of financing road development by states and local communities. The Majority Party sponsored a number of alternative proposals. One provided for financing the new road program through an increase in tax rates on tires, gasoline, fuel oil, trucks, buses, and trailers.

The inability of members of the Majority Party to agree on a road bill led to a stalemate. In commenting on the failure of the Congress to approve a highway construction program President Eisenhower said: "The Nation badly needs new highways. There is a difference of conviction, I realize, over means of financing this construction. I have proposed one plan of financing which I consider sound."

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

The meetings of the International Labor Organization in Geneva were encouraging, the art galleries in Amsterdam and other cities were lovely; the hospitality everywhere was almost as warm as that which is traditional in our own Maryland.

That, in capsule form, is a report on my trip to Europe. But it needs one important addition—

It's good to be home. The nicest thing about the whole trip, despite the profitable work I accomplished and the new friendships I made, was coming into the New York harbor and seeing that very beautiful lady, the Statue of Liberty.

Always Home

In retrospect, however, I feel like the man who wrote "I Never Left Home."

Reminders of Maryland popped up in each of the five countries that Mrs. Beall and I visited. In Switzerland, for instance, I toured one of the many cigarette manufacturing plants which advertise Maryland tobacco as their specialty.

Souvenirs indicating just how famous our hometown product has become are now lined up along the top of my office bookcase, where you are welcome to examine them. They are packages of cigarettes from five major companies, all of which splash the name "Maryland" over the wrappings of their products in large, bold type. On several packages, the letters are as prominent as those of the brand names.

They're extremely satisfied with our tobacco in Switzerland, and they prove it by maintaining a position as one of our best cash customers. Before leaving, I promised the Swiss that I would do all in my power to preserve the trade relations which have been so advantageous for their country and ours.

Fellow Marylanders

Another constant reminder of home was the frequency with which I was greeted by men and women who proudly proclaimed that they were "fellow Marylanders."

Many of them were natives of our Free State. But scores of others, especially Government representatives, were persons who adopted Maryland as their legal residence during tours of duty in Washington.

Judging from the overseas "constituents" I met during my month abroad, I can testify that our State is ably and charmingly represented.

Harmony Attempts

One of the most gratifying experiences of my trip was gained at the I.L.O. meeting, where representatives of management and labor appeared to be making a sincere effort to find answers to their mutual problems.

It occurred to me that the organization's honest devotion to its purpose is probably the main reason that it is the sole survivor of the intergovernmental agencies set up after World War I.

I am particularly grateful that the Labor Department asked me to attend the conference because of the insight it gave me into the manner in which employer-worker relations are being strengthened on an international basis. Eventually, the fruits of such work will be felt in every home.

Back Home

Now that Mrs. Beall and I are home again, we find that memories of our visit to Europe persist in making pleasant intrusions into almost everything we do.

Above all, we simply can't forget the many persons who expressed concern about the President's health.

Everywhere we went—at official functions, in restaurants, or on the street—we were asked: "How's your President?"

The interest was completely genuine. It was, in fact, the anxiety of a friend for a sick neighbor.

Behind the solicitude was the deep impression which Eisenhower has made, both as a General and as a President. We were heartened to learn in such a graphic manner of his immense popularity.

Tulip-Time

In addition to such recollections, Mrs. Beall also brought back something that is a lot more tangible.

A box of tulip bulbs, carefully inspected for purity by the Agriculture Department, was added to her possessions along the way, and the bulbs will soon be planted at the entrance to our home town with the help of the Frostburg Homemakers Club.

Wyoming was one of first states in U.S. to grant women the right to vote.

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

An Evaluation of Our Work

One of the most interesting and worthwhile programs carried on in Garrett County is the Farming for Better Living project.

Each year, the keeping of the record book, an important part of the project, serves as a check for us to see how well we do our job of farming. This book, worked out by agricultural experts and practical farmers, gives much valuable information on the care and feeding of live stock and poultry, how to make the best possible use of all our assets of soil and equipment.

Suggestions for feeding the family well are listed, with quantities worked out for a well-balanced diet for each member. Each year, I evaluate myself on several questions such as: Just how well balanced is my family's diet? Could I have raised and canned more food, fed my family better? These questions have challenged me to give more thought to vegetables raised and consequently I have tried each year to plan and raise more.

I was able to report my family as having been very healthy during the past year, only two or three days lost because of sickness.

The questions about family living are a challenge. There are questions like this: What does the family enjoy doing together? Do you and your family take part in the work of the church? How many books do you own? Do you enjoy good music? Do you have a hobby?

These things are important to a family's well-being and happiness. It is well to evaluate them once a year.

Other questions are: How is your home arranged for family living? Are there conveniences in the kitchen? Is it light, attractive and step-saving? Can your work as a homemaker be done easily and efficiently? Questions to make us plan and think.

So many things make the book interesting and challenging. There are suggestions for future planning. Questions such as: What did you do on your farm or home this year, making it a safer and more attractive place in which to live? What do you plan to do next year? Good planning makes a good farmer.

Each year that I fill out this book, and see what a challenge really good farming is, I am more convinced than ever that rural living can be wholesome, good and very interesting.

Visit Your Schools . . .

Willard L. Hawkins, County Superintendent of Schools, guest editorial writer.

The week of November 6 is American Education Week. The principals and teachers of all Garrett County schools will make a special effort to have many parents visit their schools during the week. The object is to get parents to come to the school for the purpose of visiting the classrooms and seeing a typical school day in progress. In this way parents can see for themselves what their children are studying in school and how well they are being taught. They will have a chance to see the total school program in operation which includes what goes on at school from the time the first bus arrives in the morning until the last one leaves for home in the afternoon.

American Education Week came into being after World War I. Many young men called to service were found to be illiterate. This fact pointed out a definite weakness in America's security. Ever since World War I, one week each year has been set aside for special emphasis on problems related to the education of American youth. Even as recent as World War II and during the compulsory draft period now in existence, many young men are rejected or disqualified because of educational deficiencies. The point of emphasis is that there is a big job ahead in this county if an adequate education is to be provided for all. Our national security demands that immediate attention be given to the educational needs of all youth. American Education Week aims to point up the need for this emphasis, in bringing parents and teachers together for a better understanding of the educational problems of the youth of our land. Certainly the day is already here when more education and not less, is a prerequisite for a successful and fruitful career.

The problem of placing a well trained and competent teacher in every classroom is one that cannot be met with the present shortage of teachers across the nation. The problem of housing children in modern school buildings rather than in antiquated structures that are dingy, unhealthy, and uninspiring is one of great national concern. The problem of providing an adequate educational program for all youth is still a challenge that has not been met. These are but some of the urgent problems of education that must be understood by parents and taxpayers before they can be satisfactorily solved. The solution of these problems calls for money, wisdom, leadership, and hard work.

Visit your school during American Education Week. All parents and patrons are invited.

Mill Men Injured

The operators of two Grantsville area mills were injured last Thursday. Both suffered arm injuries but only one was hospitalized.

Most seriously injured was Luther C. Beachy, who sustained a fracture of his right arm and required surgery at the Meyerdsdale Community hospital. Hospital attaches reported that Beachy caught his hand between a belt and pulley at the saw mill of the Beachy Lumber company. His arm was drawn up to his elbow between the belt and pulley before the machinery could be stopped.

The other mill operator injured was Byron H. Bender, of Little Crossings, proprietor of Stanton's Mill, who suffered severe bruises and lacerations of his left hand and arm when it became caught between an elevator and shaft at the mill.

Gas Production Shows Increase

County Commissioners Receive $11,173.05 Check As Share Of Gas

Natural gas production in the Mt. Lake Park, Gortner, Red House, and Accident areas over the past three months ending September 30, has shown an increase over the previous period. The regular report was received this week by the County Commissioners from the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas company.

The company sent a check for $11,173.05 as the county's total from the seven percent tax on the marketable gas which was $1,297.90 more than the check for the previous period ending June 30. It still is less than the check of $13,308.26 received in May which was the second largest check in the history of gas well production. The only larger one was for $17,344.27 which was for the first three months' report.

The breakdown of this latest tax showed $4,469.22 as the purchaser's proportion (2.8 percent) and $6,703.83 as the producer's proportion (4.2 percent).

Production from the thirty producing wells during the months of July, August and September totaled 717,896,000 cubic feet, practically eight million cubic feet per day, with the Arnold well being responsible for more than two million cubic feet per day. The Arnold well showed production of 200,614,000 cubic feet, and was by far the biggest one. The Collier well in the Accident area showed 108,122,000 cubic feet, while the Miller well in the same area showed 83,466,000 cubic feet.

During the three months' period the wholesale market value was listed at $159,615.09. This compares with the preceding quarter's $96,955,000 cubic feet with wholesale market value of $141,073.57.

The McCullough well was again listed in production and there was an additional well, one owned by the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore. The N. K. Welch well, which had been holding up well had only 4,446,000 as compared to 21,073,000 the previous quarter. The Swartzentruber well still held at 21,178,000, a slight decrease over the previous quarter.

Mt. Lake Park will receive a portion of the tax through the County Commissioners from gas produced within the corporate limits of the town.

Since the first check for the tax on the marketable gas was received by the Commissioners in July of 1951 the county's governing body has received $154,800.12 which has been used to help pay off the school bonds. The complete report of the production for the ninety-day period is shown in tabular form in today's issue.

Elementary P-T.A. To Meet on Monday

The second meeting of the year of the Oakland Elementary Parent-Teacher association will be held Monday evening, November 7, in the elementary school annex.

There will be an election for a vice-president who will advance to president next year. Candidates are Dr. F. D. Custer, Charles Briner and Rev. John A. Atwell.

Two talks will feature the meeting. Dr. H. R. Gibson and Dr. Alvin Friend will speak on recent advancements in dentistry. Refreshments will be served following the business session.

At the first P-T.A. meeting this year held on October 3 there were 196 persons present.

To Sponsor Five Students For United Nations Trip

At the last meeting of the Board of Directors of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club the group agreed to sponsor five of the Southern High school students in making the trip to the United Nations on November 14.

Funds for this project will come from the club's community fund which is gathered from the sale of fruit cakes and other programs.

The fruit cake sale is continuing on the streets of Oakland on Saturday evenings, November 5 and 12, and the campaign will be concluded with a house to house visit on Monday night, November 14.

Makes Franchise Offer

At a meeting on Tuesday afternoon the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland offered to provide a franchise to the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas company for $1,290 per year. The Council originally recommended a charge of $2,000 annually.

The gas company's franchise with the town of Oakland expired in 1949 and has never been renewed. The company announced a month or two ago that in the future the town would be charged for gas used in their municipal buildings. A stipulation in the former franchise allowed the city to have all the gas it needed free of charge. Neither was there any cost to the gas company in the expired franchise.

Reject Both Bids On Vote Machines

Both bids on the 30 automatic voting machines were rejected at a special meeting of the Board of County Commissioners and the Board of Election Supervisors, held Tuesday afternoon in the law library in the Court House.

Both boards agreed that both the Automatic Voting Machine company and the Schoup Voting Machine company should be asked to submit another bid, both bids to be in the hands of the Commissioners by Monday, November 21, at which time they would be publicly opened and read in the presence of both boards.

The Automatic Voting Machine company had submitted a bid of $52,000.72 for the 30 machines. The Schoup Voting Machine company submitted a bid of $50,801.12 for the same number of machines.

The Board of County Commissioners had refused to accept the recommendation of the Board of Election Supervisors that the machines be purchased from the Automatic Voting Machine company.

Within the past few days the Board had received another bid from the Automatic Voting Machine company reducing the total cost of the machines. Because of this it was felt that the Schoup Voting Machine company should have a similar privilege, so after a lengthy discussion, a motion was finally passed rejecting both bids and asking for entirely new bids from both concerns. There are only two automatic voting machine companies in existence.

The use of the voting machine was made mandatory by an act of the legislature and must be ready for use at the general election in 1956.

Education Classes For Adults Begin

A number of Adult Education classes got underway at Southern High school last week, but the Board of Education announced it was anxious to have more people participate in this program.

Approximately 150 adults are enrolled in night classes at Southern and up to the present time not enough interest has been shown to justify the organization of classes in any other center.

The Board announced it wanted to provide every opportunity for citizens of the county to participate in such a program if they desire to do so. Statistics show that the program of Adult Education is a fast growing one throughout the State and Nation.

Adult Education centers have been designated at Kitzmiller, Southern and Northern High schools, Friendsville, Grantsville and Red House.

If sufficient enrollment can be maintained an average of ten classes may be offered in mathematics, science, English, history, typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, home economics, agriculture, shop and handicrafts.

Adults are being asked to contact the principal of any one of the schools listed if interested in the program.

Mercury Dips to 22

The mercury dipped to 22 degrees on Monday morning this week, and most of the week remained cold and dreary, with the exception of Tuesday.

The mercury did not rise above 47 degrees all day Monday but after a frosty Tuesday morning it moderated considerably. There was some rain recorded on Wednesday and today and a slight sprinkling Sunday morning. Rain also was recorded Saturday morning but the skies cleared in the afternoon.

Bloodmobile Unit Due at Grantsville

The Red Cross bloodmobile unit from Johnstown, Pa., will be at Grantsville next Wednesday, November 9, it was announced.

The unit will be set up at the Grantsville Reformed church from 12 o'clock noon until 6 p. m., according to Mrs. Grover C. Stempel, county blood recruitment chairman.

Mrs. Jane Davis, general chairman for Grantsville, has contacted a number of persons who will assist with the program.

They include Dr. A. Paige Strong and Dr. Ruth Peachey, physicians; Mildred Beachy, Cathlene Yonem, Gladys Durst, Marilyn Edwards and Melba Trexler, nurses; Maxine Broadwater and Dorothy McCurdy, registrars; Orpha Patton, hostess; Christina Bender, appointments; Mary Lou Bender, Mabel Bender and Lillie Broadwater, canteen committee; Ruth Newman, typist; Irma Mickey, Pearl McKenzie and Jane Davis, appointments committee.

Those desiring to contribute blood are urged to contact the above committees. The workers are attempting to procure 100 pints of blood on that day.

Christmas Tree Growers Organize

Twenty-two persons attended a meeting in Oakland last Saturday afternoon to form a Christmas tree growers association. The growers are being organized and to take initial measures to organize a Christmas tree growers association.

At the Oakland watershed and Mance plantations the group observed Scotch pine that had been sheared to improve its form, deer damage to pines, recent machine plantings and areas where Christmas trees have been removed. During the short business meeting conducted at the Oakland fire hall, the group heard remarks on development of the reforestation program and held a general discussion concerning benefits to be derived from an association.

Those present felt that as more trees are raised competition would increase and top quality trees would be needed for existing markets.

The group appointed Thomas Thayer as temporary chairman. He appointed a committee to complete organizational plans, including Dwight Stover, chairman, Dr. A. E. Mance, W. W. Nace, George Browning and Marvin Beitzel. This group will bring its recommendations to the next meeting on December 10, and final details are to be worked out at that time. The Garrett Forestry Board which is acting as sponsor for the association temporarily, was present at the meeting as were representatives from the Department of Forests and Parks. After the association meeting the Forestry Board held its regular dinner meeting at the William-James hotel to transact routine business. Present were Joseph Fahy, chairman, Virgil Steyer, William Winterberg, and George Browning, members; C. F. Martens, water and light commissioner at Frostburg; W. H. Johnson, R. T. Thayer, J. E. Paulhamus, C. Irwin and E. H. Upole, of the Department of Forests and Parks.

Diagnostic Lab Is Now Operating

The diagnostic laboratory is now operating on a limited scale. It was announced this week. At present the laboratory is under the supervision of Dr. F. D. Custer, veterinarian, and Donald Geddis, laboratory technician.

Blood samples for brucellosis and pullorum are now being handled as well as antipox service on poultry. Dr. Robert B. Shillinger, of the Maryland Live Stock Sanitary Service laboratory at Frederick is at the laboratory this week to set up the lab operations.

Auto-Cow Collision Cited in Law Suit

A $1,000 suit for damage caused to an automobile when it struck a stray cow along U.S. route 50, was docketed in Allegany Circuit court last Friday after its removal from this county.

Russell Leighton, Clarence Leighton and Floyd Leighton, trading as Leighton Brothers, Oakland, to their own use and use of the Farm Bureau Mutual Automobile Insurance company, brought the action in the Garrett county circuit court against Charles L. Blamblé, of Gorman.

The declaration states that on or about June 16, 1954, Alvie L. Leighton was driving an automobile westbound on U.S. route 50 between Gorman and Table Rock when one of Blamblé's cows got out of a field onto the highway. The car was owned by the Leighton Brothers.

Attorney W. Dwight Stover, who filed the suit for the plaintiffs, contends that the automobile was badly damaged when it collided with the cow. The Farm Bureau Mutual Automobile Insurance company paid all but $100 of the cost of repairs but a $100 deductible insurance policy carried on the car. There was no mention of what happened to the cow.

Last Thursday Stover filed a suggestion for removal of the case. Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley signed the order removing the case to Allegany county. Stephen R. Pagenhardt is attorney for Blamblé.

TRUTH

One of the sad reflections on our age is that it is becoming increasingly difficult to get people to believe what we are saying and for us to believe what they are saying.

This past summer a young Russian, now living in Boston, asked his pastor to help him write to his friends in Russia in such a way that they would believe him. "If I tell the truth," Ivan said, "they will not believe me. If I tell them that an Italian family gave us curtains for our bare windows, that an Irish family gave us an old stove from their cellar, that a Jewish second hand merchant trusted us for more furniture, and that all of us could live in the same neighborhood without fighting each other, they will not believe me."

Ivan's problem is the world's problem. When we are all so suspicious of each other, it is hard to believe others and make them believe us.

Still and all, God knew what he was doing when he landscaped the universe and identified truth as one of the roads to perfect freedom. Choose that way. "Desire truth in the inward parts." Speak it. Write it.

Langley air force base, Langley Va. Larson served two and one-half years in Puerto Rico. Both are remaining in the reserve air force.

Is Your Name CODDINGTON?

DO YOU KNOW THAT:

CODDINGTON, an old and honored English surname, is of relatively simple derivation. It is of local origin and was often bestowed when surnames first came into vogue in about the year 1000, upon residents of, or emigrants from, parishes by the name of CODDINGTON in the counties of Cheshire, Herefordshire and Nottinghamshire, England. It should be noted also that some of the CODDINGTONS moved from Cheshire to Ireland in 1656 where they established a branch of the family.

WILLIAM CODDINGTON (1601-1678) was born in England, migrated in 1630 to Massachusetts from which he was banished in 1637 as a result of his defense of it. Love it. Live it. On the scaffold put falsehood, on the throne put truth, the word that can change your life.

Anne Hutchinson. He and other liberals withdrew to Aquidneck (now a part of Rhode Island) of which he served as governor.

Woodbridge, New Jersey, is apparently the ancestral home of a substantial segment of the present day CODDINGTONS in this country, for it is known that BENJAMIN CODDINGTON (1756-1836) and ROBERT CODDINGTON (1760 to 1833), all of whom were born or died in Woodbridge, served as privates in the New Jersey troops during the Revolutionary War.

"The CODDINGTON Family," a genealogical record of one line of the descendants of JOHN CODDINGTON of Woodbridge, N. J., was compiled and published in 1907 by Reverend HERBERT G. CODDINGTON, of Syracuse, N. Y. Garrett County was created by an act of the General Assembly of Maryland, approved April 1, 1872. Its first sheriff was WM. CODDINGTON.

"The CODDINGTON House" of Oakland was built before the Civil War.

Best Buick yet

When better automobiles are built Buick will build them

IT COMES upon the heels of the most successful Buick in history—and beats it on every score.

In shimmering steel and solid sinew, it's Buick for 1956—and there's never been anything like it for pure automobile.

You get a good hint of what we mean when you take in the sweep-ahead styling of it—from the air-splitting prow of its V-front grille to the robust rake of its canted rear profile.

You get an even better hint when you open the doors and see the dazzle there—in the decorator fabrics and decors—in the jewel-like finish of the fittings—in the precisely shaped steering wheel and controls—in the rich new instrument panel with soft-padded top and glowing dials that detail your progress in changing colors.

But it's when you put this beauty to the city streets and the open highways that you learn the best of it.

Performance Without Parallel

A new advance in Variable Pitch Dynaflow* goes airplanes one better—steps up your get-away in normal driving without switching the pitch. But when you need that extra surge, it's there, instantly—and in extra abundance.

The might of big 322-cubic-inch V8 engines in every Series brings new record high power to all Buicks—Roadmaster, Super, Century, and the bedrock-priced SPECIAL. Yet this is such high-compression power, such dynamic driving power, such completely usable power at the rear wheels—the whole rear end has been endowed with extra brawn and left and solidly to handle it.

We could spread before you an acre of blueprints on the engineering gems that spark the spectacular performance and ride and handling and roadability of these great Buicks for 1956.

We could tell you about a new double-Y manifold of the engine for more usable power. And about a brilliant new front-end geometry that adds a whole new "sense of direction" to the car's travel. And about massive new direct-action shock absorbers that move three times more oil to cushion your all-coil-spring ride that much more buoyantly.

But you can get the full story right now, at our showroom, in a face-to-face meeting with the best Buicks yet—now on display, and setting a dazzling new pattern for 1956.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick built today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Seniors Chosen For Jaunt To United Nations Assembly

Fourteen seniors of Southern High School were recently selected as the ones who would make the trip to the United Nations in New York on Monday, November 11.

The fourteen who were selected for the trip, the second in which Southern students have participated, are Delores Vetter, Barbara Moon, Betty Bittinger, Janet Waybright, Betty Sharpless, Ronny Bowers, Charles Mason, Roger Glatfely, Jack Rolf, Bill Moore, Phyllis Dumire, Clara Sisler, Frank DeWitt and Jack Rolf.

Overnight in Baltimore. The trip will begin on November 11, when the group will leave by bus for Baltimore. They will stay overnight in various private homes, and the following morning will board a special train, with hundreds of other students from Maryland, heading for New York City.

Guard U. N. Tour. Tuesday afternoon will be spent on a guided tour of the United Nations buildings. The group will probably get to sit in on one of the organization's meetings of the U. N. The Southern delegation will return to Oakland early about 6 a. m. Wednesday morning.

More Pounds Broiler On Less Feed Is Goal of Researchers

How to produce more pounds of chicken meat on less feed in the shortest possible time is a never-ending problem for Maryland commercial broiler producers. Dr. C. S. Shaffner, head of the University of Maryland poultry department, points out.

The same problem is the subject of continuing research by the U. S. Department of Agriculture at its experimental farm, Beltsville.

Pointing out that studies being made by USDA's Agricultural Research Service are of value to Maryland producers, Dr. Shaffner said the most recent research showed the advantage goes to those producers using the latest method in diet, breeding and care.

"These Beltsville tests show," Dr. Shaffner said, "that a combination of up-to-date feeds, a modern breed of poultry and good management can produce a pound of meat on less than 3 pounds of feed. Just 10 years ago this gain-and-feed ratio was running 1 to 4."

Test feeds selected for the U. S. DA trials included one formula representative of good poultry feeds in 1941, another developed for use in 1941 when high quality ingredients were scarce, and a third that was developed and fed in 1951.

Test birds included: 1) Rhode Island Reds of a strain established at Beltsville in 1925 and selected for egg production rather than rapid growth; 2) New Hampshire Reds for both rapid growth and feed efficiency; and 3) crossbreeds representing an experimental cross of New Hampshire and Silver Cornish flocks recently developed at Beltsville.

For the test, researchers separated the chickens so that each feed was tested on one lot of birds of each breed. All groups were placed on feed as day-old chicks.

Results were checked at 10 weeks. Irrespective of breed, the birds grew best on the 1951 feed, followed in order by the 1941 diet and the 1930 diet. The 1951 feed is a high-efficiency diet containing added fat and such feed additives as choline, methionine, and antibiotics, not included in the other diets.

Both the New Hampshire and the crossbreeds made better gains on all three feeds than did the Rhode Island Reds. But only the crossbreeds achieved the record production of one pound of meat on less than three pounds of feed, gaining 32 pounds on 78 pounds of feed on the 1951 diet. The New Hampshire gained 35 pounds on 10 pounds of 1951 feed.

Use Temporary Silos For Corn Silage

Many Maryland farmers will be making corn silage this year and many of these same farmers will be looking for a place to store this silage.

The problem isn't as tough as a lot of people think, says John Dietrich, University of Maryland ES Extension Chairman. He pointed out a temporary silo made from woven wire or straw fence and lined with sackcloth paper.

These silos are easy to build and require very little time and money. Dietrich points out. In most cases, he says, they can be built with material already on the farm. If the silage is well packed there will be very little spoilage, he added.

Many farmers build wavy-wire or snow fence silos in a circle. Dietrich says this type of temporary silo should be built on level ground, and while filling the silo, someone should remain on the inside to distribute the silage and pack it evenly. Circular silos of more than two tiers may tip over unless the silage is packed evenly. The steepest circular temporary silos should never be more than two tiers high, he says.

When a farmer expects to store more than 75 tons of silage, Dietrich recommends a temporary silo of two parallel rows of fencing. This type of silo can be packed with a tractor, he says.

The paper lining should overlap at least five inches at the seams to reduce spoilage around the sides. Dietrich emphasizes. There will be some spoilage on the top, he says, but this can be reduced by rounding off the top of the silage so it will shed water. A cover of straw, hay or paper also helps shed water, thus cutting down spoilage.

WRITE

Many of us are losing the art of the letter writing. I am not referring to business correspondence. On the whole this is well written. But how about those letters we receive and send out to our friends? We write to let them know that we are still thinking of them, but our letters don't really go very deep, do they?

Generally our missives signify nothing more than a wave of the hand to a friend across the street or a "Hello" in the crowd at the ball game. We don't usually say anything about how often we have had to depend upon our religious faith for strength and comfort, or how we're trying to live a better life, or how much more attention we are giving the social and civic responsibilities all of us have in common.

How long has it been since you have written a truly inspiring letter to someone you have come to know the best and love the most? When we catch up on our correspondence next time, let us strive to compose letters that will be more than a chance hello and goodbye when we were the kind that can more than a casual ramble. That change you in will contain interesting news, that matter most sound thoughts and a healthy portion of life. Let's take it more seriously. Subscribe For The Republican

Letters to the Editor

October 29, 1955

Dear Residents of Oakland, Md.:
Last Saturday, October 22, was an eventful day in the history of Explorer Post 1, Greensburg, Pa. That was the day that one of our boys became separated from the group that was in Oakland, on a shopping trip for provisions for the weekend at "Varley Mt. Top."

We of Post 1 feel that the help of the individuals and groups who participated in the search for William Jones should not go unrewarded. We especially want to thank the city and state police for their unceasing help throughout the ordeal. The moving picture theatre should feel proud that it stopped the matinee to let us search, even though in vain. The people who gave us suggestions and assistance are thanked from the bottom of our hearts as well as the ones I mentioned previously.

We found Bill in Deer Park, a very shaken, tired and worried boy, who ate a huge evening meal, went to bed and didn't awaken till noon Sunday.

Thanking everyone from the bottom of our hearts, we remain The Explorers, Post 1, Greensburg, Pa.

To The Editor:
Having spent more than twenty years working with youth I am often disturbed by the amount of bad publicity they are given. I feel that you should be congratulated that your paper does not make this mistake. The number of youngsters who get into real trouble is surprisingly small. When such does occur I feel that it is often over emphasized. The times our youngsters are given credit for their good behavior is astonishingly low.

We have just passed through a Halloween season which traditionally has been open season for pranks by persons of all ages. I have been impressed by the fine standard of behavior on the part of our youngsters which has prevailed throughout our community. Few activities were provided for them but those that were were well attended and the behavior of the young people was above reproach.

May I through the courtesy of your paper let them know that I was proud of them and wish in this way to publicly commend them for their example of good citizenship.

Sincerely yours,
Merle D. Frantz, Principal

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

In the comedy cartoon movies, a frequently used gag shows a dog named Fido accidentally becoming entangled in a huge mysterious-looking machine, and disappearing inside it. Automatically, out the other end of the machine comes a long string of link-sausages, or "hot dogs." With the lead sausage still barking—just like Fido barked. This is fictional "automation." In the comedy cartoon it isn't real, of course. It isn't real in a 1955 packing house where "hot dogs" are made.

Automation hasn't progressed quite that far. There are many lugaboons about automation. It is well to be reminded that it isn't a new idea—that, indeed, "Fido" has been going through the "hot dog" sequence for 30 years at least. Some American industries have been using what's now called "automation" for at least 30 years. Important production jobs in the petroleum, auto and other industries have been handled automatically through machine control for many years. Automation is an evolutionary development—a logical outgrowth of the competitive market and the ingenuity of free men.

When blacksmith shops began to go out of business as the automobile replaced the horse and buggy early in this century, there were moans of alarm from many quarters. The prevailing thought among alarmists was that there would be no jobs for the people temporarily displaced in the wagon and buggy industry and this meant disaster.

Some of today's economies textbooks state that it is questionable whether inventions are good for the nation, particularly new industrial production machines which cut down on human labor. All this seems to be rather shortsighted or even blind reasoning. The facts about the development of the automobile are available. The development made 10,000 jobs for every one which it eliminated in the wagon and buggy industry. The same is true as regards the other steps in America's technological progress.

The fact that Americans enjoy a living standard five times better today than a century ago can be traced to the growth of "automation," which has increased man-day production. The fact that nearly 65,000,000 Americans are employed today is a commendation for advances in "automation" during the last 20 years.

Harnessing the machine has opened almost limitless opportunities for the production of new products. Nylon would have been virtually worthless in the spinning-wheel era. Today it accounts for perhaps 100,000 good-paying jobs. Air-conditioning plants could be sold only to Sultans and Kings—if automation didn't produce units at a price within the reach of millions of home-owners. Hundreds of such examples could be cited. The new products to make living more pleasurable also make jobs more plentiful. Automation, then, could be said to be merely a new word for progress!

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

The Shape of Things to Come

Since my return last month from the Atoms-for-Peace Conference in Geneva, Switzerland, I have often been asked to summarize my impressions of this remarkable meeting. In a few short words, these feelings are contained in the statement that an understanding of the atom offers a great promise for good. If we have faith in man's future, and in the future of our country, we must demonstrate the potential of the atom for good is even greater than its potential for destruction. Mankind must develop the wisdom to make this true, for it is in his grasp to do so.

Our position as first partner in the community of free nations requires that we continue to evidence leadership in the development of all peaceful uses of atomic energy. To this end, President Eisenhower's dramatic plan to build an atomic-powered merchant ship which could tour the world as a floating manifestation of our atomic progress deserves favorable action. Earlier this year, I was the cosponsor of legislation to undertake the prompt construction of this vessel. Surely, the Congress should approve the President's proposal in its next session, and this objective will have my full support.

It has also been my opinion that the American people—in spite of press, radio and television coverage—cannot fully comprehend the wonders of atomic energy until they likewise have the chance to view such exhibits. For this reason, when the Congress reconvenes in January, I shall offer another bill to authorize the speedy construction of an atomic-powered locomotive. The development of this essential new device should form a further evolution in domestic transportation.

An atomic-powered locomotive, as I envision it, could travel throughout the United States leading an exhibit train which would feature the coming changes. Every American could thereby experience the thrill and gain the vital knowledge which good citizenship demands, of the marvels of the atom. Almost certainly, an exhibition train of this nature would stimulate new applications of atomic methods, and could do as much as any single act to spark our expanion in a new economic age.

Private capital, with opportunities unlimited for many small businesses and larger companies as well, must find its own future in this field. It is only as we can make information available, and license more broadly the processes and materials of atomic energy, without detriment to basic security, that this American ingenuity can come into play on a broad front. This, it is most important that we do.

PRAYER BOOK PRESENTED—A prayer book was presented to Mrs. Smith Friend, left, by Mrs. Charles Strauss, right, president of St. Paul's Lutheran Ladies' Aid Society of Accident, at an anniversary meeting on October 16. Mrs. Friend is the only active charter member of the group. The 28th anniversary celebration was held on that afternoon in the church.

W. H. Wildesen

$111,000. He also was on the 1-41 livestock judging team at the 1955 state fair. His team placed 11th out of 12 teams.

The Wildesens live well from the products of their farm. They have a 20 cu. ft. food freezer filled to capacity and their cellar is well stocked with canned goods and stored fruits, vegetables and meats. Over 750 quarts of fruits and vegetables were canned this year plus 150 quarts that were stored in the freezer. Approximately 1,750 lbs. of beef, lamb, pork and poultry meats were frozen during the year for home use.

The Wildesen farm consists of 420 acres of permanent pasture, 100 acres in crop land and 60 acres in woodland, totaling 580 acres. Mr. Wildesen is attempting to convert more of his pasture land into rotated crop land and is cleaning up, liming and fertilizing his better pasture acres. His woodland is fenced from grazing. He is working closely with the local Soil Conservation district supervisors and technicians in order to get better production from his farm.

Sheep raising is a major enterprise with around 75 head of ewes. A dairy herd of 26 Jerseys, mostly purchased, and a beef herd of 20 grade Angus cows are likewise kept on this farm. Both herds have been developed since 1951. A brood sow and about 170 laying hens round out the live stock program.

More than 100 tons of ground burned limestone have been used during 1955 and 28 acres of land have been treated with fertilizer.

Twenty-three hundred feet of drain tile was laid to drain 10 acres of land. Future plans call for a farm pond near farm buildings for fire protection and additional water supply.

The farm is well mechanized with two tractors and equipment. Eight motors are used to power a feed grinder, hay drier, milk cooler, grain elevator and other equipment. The hay drier was installed during the past year and was used with much success, according to Mr. Wildesen.

"The addition of 30 acres more crop land from the permanent pasture; the fact we have passed two clean Bangs tests in the past 18 months; and that we will have full replacement in both dairy and beef herds during the coming year, are, in our opinion, the biggest improvements we have made this year in our home and farm operations. We are very proud of the very satisfactory progress of our oldest son John in 4-H work," they said. The Wildesens further stated that "While we are working harder than we would like, we are having a much better diet than would be possible off the farm."

McCue Is Speaker

Principal speaker at the banquet was Ernie B. McCue, director of extension, West Virginia university, Morgantown. He pointed out how the farm problem was a community problem and that people are coming to have more appreciation for farming problems.

He felt that among the great changes that had taken place in various industries that farming had gone through the greatest revolution, but he expressed his thanks that farmers were still free. He advised becoming better acquainted with farm people and their problems. "The more we meet with various groups, the more the lines will disappear," he concluded.

100 Percent Completion

For the third straight year the council had 100 percent completion on their project books, which means that the 4-H group will receive an award of $25 to aid in their recreation work.

Lewis B. Jones served as toastmaster and L. Bush Swisher, project director, made brief remarks. B. Beeson Snyder, chairman of the F. F. B. L. council, welcomed the guests. Vocal selections were presented by members of the Barber-shoppers, and group singing was led by Mrs. Ruth Brown.

Each farm family was presented with a prize contributed by 103 business places from throughout the county. Their contributions also made it possible for every farm family entering the program to be guests of the council at the turkey dinner. Prize distribution was in the hands of H. C. Riggs.

U. S. government released nearly a thousand hitherto secret reports on atomic energy research which can be put to peaceful uses.

Coffee drinking was on the increase again in United States, but still short of amount used before prices went up last year.

THE BUILDER

This young fellow is having fun building a skyscraper tower. Most any minute now he'll reach its peak, blocks will come tumbling down with a delightful clatter, and he'll laughingly pick them up and begin all over again.

That's the fun of being a child. But when you're grown-up and things come clattering down, it's not so funny.

Sometimes they're physical and material—a fence or a trellis that isn't quite right, or the paint you brushed on so carefully peels and flakes. So you go to an expert—a carpenter or a painter—for advice.

Then again perhaps something goes awry with your inner life. Perhaps you feel you've made an awful mess of things.

This tragedy too can be averted if you seek expert guidance. By going to Church regularly you will find the know-how to build within yourself a life secure and unshakable. Millions of men throughout the ages have found the Church a source of strength and stability; why shouldn't you?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN
Background Scripture: Luke 9:1-16
Devotional Reading: Matthew 23:1-12

Friend of Man

Lesson for November 6, 1955

PEOPLE describing themselves have a tendency to paint themselves handsomer than they really are. They do not like candid-camera shots of themselves. Even when a man has to admit that he has committed a sin or made a mistake, he will try to tell himself his motive was good, anyway. Now Jesus' self-portrait was extremely impressive, but nobody ever called him a hypocrite or a show-off. What Jesus had said of himself in the Nazareth synagogue was just the simple truth: Dr. Foreman

He was indeed the same kind of Friend of Man that God is. He made humanity his business.

Healing Bodies
One fact stands out, and Luke makes a great deal of it. Jesus was a healer. He never assumed that sickness or physical disability "is bound to be." He thought people's bodies were important enough to be sound and well. He never thought of himself as so "spiritual" he could be indifferent to people's physical needs and pains. Wherever he went, he brought health with him. We do not fully understand how he did this, but the Christian church has taken the cue from Jesus here. The tremendous development of hospitals in America and over the world is not today all in the hands of Christians or religious people; but it was religious people who started this kind of thing. The church of today is beginning to see how much harm another kind of illness does, and to work at curing mental diseases. Compare a Christian country like ours with a non-Christian country like Korea where the total Christian population is less than six per cent. There a cripple has ordinarily been something to laugh at. No one would give him a job, no one bothered with him. All he could do was beg, as he crawled or sat in the dust. Now, Christian hospitals there have been doing a work the heathen world never thought of—rehabilitating amputees, making it possible for them to be self-respecting persons again. Christianity is teaching Korea a lesson. Where once diseases of all sorts were taken as a matter of course, Christian doctors and hospitals have shown the way to national health.

Healing Souls
Some people think that if a man's body is all right, he is all right. Christians know better—because Christ has shown us. Jesus did not think he had done all he could for a man if he got him on his feet literally. Long before modern medicine rediscovered the fact, Jesus knew that men's most serious diseases are in their souls. He was the Friend of Man—but not friend of their bodies alone. Hospitals today are more and more making use of chaplains, of counselors—and that is another Christian idea. In every mission hospital the medical missionary is an evangelist too.

What Friendship Means
To Jesus, friendship meant something deeper than what often goes by that name. How many people are "friends" only with the strong, the successful? How many people will be friendly only to those who can give them a lift up the ladder of ambition? This is the friendliness of a mosquito, who will stick close to you, but not with any notion of doing you good. Then again, a common idea of being friendly is to take other people without criticism, take them as they are. A word much in use with psychologists, psychiatrists and counselors nowadays is "acceptance."

Now Jesus accepted all kinds of persons who were by everyone else rejected—lepers, tax collectors, the "lower classes," foreigners. But while Jesus opened his heart to those people, in the very act of acceptance he changed them. Some "friends" are like chameleons that take the color of whatever they lie on. Jesus never changed his own colors. He was the friend of sinners, indeed; but by being their friend he led them out of their sins. To be Christlike in friendship is to have a goodness that is contagious. (Based on outlines copyrighted by the Christian Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A., released by Community Press Service.)

Nagging Backache Sleepless Nights

Nagging backache, headache, or muscular aches and pains may come on without warning, emotional upset, or too much strain. And folks who eat and drink wisely sometimes suffer mild bladder irritations, and with that restless, uncomfortable feeling, "If you are miserable and you can't get to sleep, you are miserable and you can't get to sleep." So if nagging backache makes you feel dragged-out, miserable, with restless, sleepless nights, don't wait, try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

An indignant Canadian protests: "We note your concern over the recent increase of $5 per ton on Canadian newsprint."

"Surely you do not grudge this small boost to our economy..."

"Too Easy"

A man from Vermont feels differently, however, and he writes: "I read about the rise in newspaper, and you are going to make a study."

"Good for you. We are too easy with everybody."

Such letters—the complaint of the critic in Saskatchewan, and the comments of the man in Bennington—are typical of the diverse reactions which have been expressed concerning my interest in the recent price boosts announced by Canadian newsprint manufacturers.

Costs to Readers

The situation, basically, is this: 1. Despite reported prosperity in their industry, the Canadian newsprint companies are raising the costs of their product.

2. United States publishers, who buy more than three-quarters of their newsprint from Canada, have said that the increased costs will probably have to be passed to the readers of this nation's 12,381 newspapers.

3. Faced by such higher prices at newsstands and subscription counters, the public might ultimately turn away from one of its foremost sources for obtaining current facts. The result would obviously be a less informed citizenry.

Serious Problem

The problem is a serious one, and I am seeking information from numerous authorities in an effort to help find an answer.

My study, although focused primarily on the national newspaper business, has also had the secondary effect of making me reflect on my own personal relations with the press.

Thus far, during my entire public life, the reporters with whom I have had contact have been both objective and friendly. I would not ask for more.

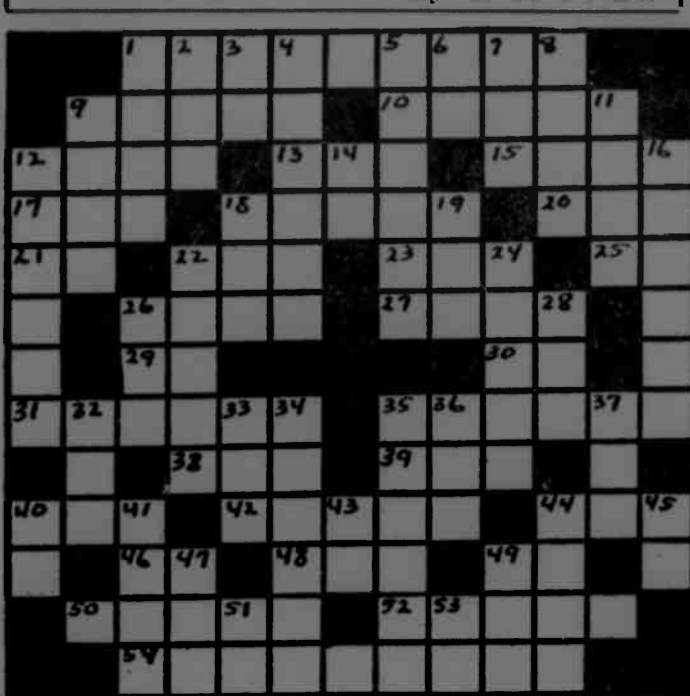

Prayer

Furthermore, they have consistently exhibited a sense of true honor which belies the persistent accusation that cynicism is a trademark of their occupation. I mention this now to introduce several paragraphs of "A Journalist's Prayer," a copy of which was given to me recently by a newspaperman. It goes:

"St. Francis, dear patron of a harrowed tribe, grant us thy protection.

"Bestow on us, thy servants, a little more of thy critical spirit, and a little less on our readers."

Bruce MacMurray and Burton Revrode head the behind-the-scenes activities as business manager and set and technical director, respectively.

The first performance will be given before the Junior High School on November 2 during school hours. The Senior High will be given a matinee on November 3. Admission to these matinee performances will be 20 cents with activity cards and 30 cents without. Budget tickets will be accepted as full payment.

ENGLANDER'S PHARMACY

Monthly News

A Message from Clinton W. Englander,
"Your Pharmacist"

When you are sick, you go to your physician because you know he can help you. You answer his important questions, often have a physical examination, and he prescribes a medication.

We compound your prescription, you take the medicine, and you get well again. Then do you tell your friends, who seem to have the same illness, to use your prescription?

Your prescription was written for you after a careful study of your particular trouble. Many different ailments have symptoms that look the same to you. Only a physician can correctly judge them, and it often takes more than one visit to do so.

Never give your prescription to a friend or relative without permission from your physician. Advise them to visit their own physician, or yours if they have none of their own.

And when you give them this very sound advice, we would appreciate your mentioning that, since the compounding of prescriptions is our most important duty, we would welcome the privilege of becoming "Their Pharmacist."

Gulf's New Super-Refined GAS-OIL TEAM

Gulf No-Nox burns clean. Here's proof: Note the black deposit, on plate at left, caused by the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—the part which Gulf refines out in making New Super-Refined NO-NOX. But see how clean new NO-NOX leaves the plate at right.

Prove it in your own car. Now—on the road in your own car—see for yourself how New Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX can give you the best in motor performance and protection... plus more miles per gallon in the kind of short-trip, stop-and-go driving you do most.

...for more miles per quart

Gulfpride Select works clean. Here's why: Most oils are refined only to the stage shown in Graduate A. Gulfpride Select is further refined by the Alchlor Process, removing up to 15% more of the carbon-formers, shown in Graduate B. Graduate C contains new super-refined oil.

Prove it in your own car. This new oil can give you more miles per quart because it has natural viscosity (body)—contains no artificial thickeners that break down in service.

REMEMBER: No gasoline alone can give you today's finest performance... no oil alone can give you today's finest protection. Get the super-power Gas-Oil Team...

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

Our Best Hope

A man well known in public affairs recently returned to this country from a world-wide tour. On his arrival in New York, he was asked by newsmen, "How do people in other lands feel about President Eisenhower's illness?" He replied, "They are praying for his recovery in more different languages than I ever knew were spoken."

In this dramatic reply, he brought to us again the fact that there are powerful ties that bind the human race together. Ties of love and Christian concern for their fellow-men in every land and among all races.

Too often, we find this very real fact obscured by screaming headlines of disunity, prejudice and violence. These things always make news for they are dramatic, out-of-the-ordinary. Yet, the work and efforts of men of good will go by sometimes unnoticed, but they go on quietly and steadily.

Something happens to a man of world-wide stature, as our President surely is, and we are made to realize how other nations are bound to us by common faith, by our hope for peace and for a world where there is justice for all.

If, in many lands men are praying for him, then we would think they should also take some positive action toward achieving the peace we all desire, and for which he has been working.

They and we should work to tear down the barriers that separate nations and people, to take away aged prejudices that divide them. We should work to replace learning where there is ignorance, the truth where there is superstition. Economic hope should be given to backward and oppressed nations.

Our common Christian faith binds us together, and we can enlarge and strengthen those ties by our prayers, our work, our gifts.

As we too pray for our President's recovery, we should work in a positive manner for peace. There are many things each one of us can do. Our best hope lies in the doing of them.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Savage, of McHenry, announced the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis Jean, to Benny E. Field, son of Mrs. Gladys B. Field, of Oakland, on Thursday, October 13.

No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

President Eisenhower's splendid progress on the recovery road is welcome news to everyone. Although all are aware that his return to his Gettysburg farm does not mean full-scale participation in the affairs of government, it does mean that he will be in position to make major decisions on world and domestic policies. We are all grateful for his rapid restoration of health.

The world spotlight is at the moment turned on the meeting of the Big Four Foreign Ministers in Geneva. Since the meetings at "the summit" last spring there is no question but that a lowering in the pressures of the cold war has prevailed. It is now the task of the ministers in Geneva to convert this relaxing of tensions into concrete instruments for peace.

I think that the most important factor at the conference is Secretary of State Dulles' awareness that he is not confronted with an easy task; that problems cannot be glossed over with a "smile." Control of fire in the world's tinder boxes—the Middle East, North Africa, the Far East—can be accomplished only through positive action for peace. It cannot be done through the polite exchange of diplomatic courtesies. This also holds for the ticklish matter of German unity and European security.

It is well to keep in mind, as we appraise the news from Switzerland, the fact that there has been no basic change in the character of the Russian Bear. He has dressed himself in new garb, but his territorial ambitions are no different. He moves in the world under new ideological concepts, but his character traits are still Russian.

Troubles in the mid-East are but a reflection of pre-Bolshevik urges to dominate a vast territory from the Baltic to the Mediterranean. I may point out, too, there is no more desire on the part of the Kremlin to withdraw from control of the area west of the Elbe than might have been expected from the Imperial Court.

Time and again, throughout the 6th Maryland District, I have called attention to the striking similarity of the Red Russian Bear to the Imperial Russian Bear of the old Czarist days. I think that it is important to do that again as the Ministers of the West meet with the Russians in Geneva. If at times the Red Bear chooses to be a "honey" bear it is only because he feels his territorial and ideological aims can best be achieved in that disguise.

Grantsville Gets Full Time Physician

Dr. Ruth Peachey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shem Peachey, of Quarryville, Pennsylvania, formerly of Springs, opened an office in Grantsville on Tuesday for the general practice of medicine.
